Steel Elected 21st Master Of National Grange

CARL MEISS
Public Relations Director
Pa. State Grange

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Delegates to the 137th Annual National Grange Convention in Burlington, Vt. elected William A. Steel to the Grange's highest office on Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Bill Steel, Immediate Past Master of the Pennsylvania State Grange and outgoing Overseer of the National Grange, was elected as the 21st National Grange Master.

Steel is only the second Granger from Pennsylvania to have been elected to the office of National Master. (John Scott from Mechanicsburg served as the 17th National Master from 1968-1979.)

Paper Seeks Correspondent

Are you a farm spouse who needs extra income? Do you love meeting people and learning about new developments on the farm and in agribusiness? Do you enjoy writing and taking photographs?

If so, then Lancaster Farming has a job for you.

The newspaper seeks correspondents in western Pennsylvania to cover farm and fair events. Lancaster Farming correspondents provide features for the newspaper's regular sections, covering a wide array of species and production enterprises.

For more information, see the ad on page D33 this issue or call Andy Andrews, editor, at (717) 721-4425.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
December 3, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Grain and soybean bids were higher for the day. Wheat was sparked by good overnight exports. Two fresh sales were reported going to Egypt and Taiwan.

Corn found support from soybeans and wheat, along with technical buying.

Soybeans continue to see solid gains due to yesterdays strong close and the weak dollar looking attractive in the export sector. Wheat was 4-8 cents higher. Corn was 4-5 cents higher. Sorghum was 1-11 cents higher. Soybeans were 5-7 cents higher.

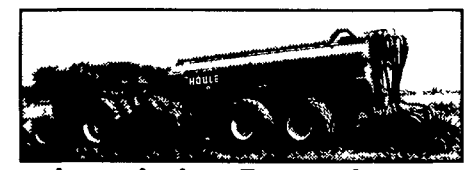
Manure Hauler Certification Classroom Session & Manure Applicators Association Formation



Tuesday, December 16, 2003
Dauphin County Agriculture & Resources Center
Dauphin, PA 17081

Today's manure applicators are faced with many issues and public pressures. Regulations geared towards protecting water and air quality that are being implemented by dairy and livestock producers are having direct effects on commercial manure applicators. Additional concerns of the industry involve road transport and safety issues.

The Manure Hauler Certification Course has been designed to educate applicators on the laws and issues that are faced by their industry and to help them to address the issues within their businesses and community. To receive the voluntary certification an individual must attend an educational field day and attend a classroom session. Either step can be completed before the other. A $10.00 charge for the classroom session will be collected at the door.

Many who are in or close to the hauling industry feel that the formation of a manure applicator association can offer many benefits. A few of the benefits an association could provide to the manure application industry are a voice in regulatory development, group insurances and provision of employee benefit packages. Following this year's classroom session a dinner and meeting will be held to discuss the advantages and industry interest in association formation. A $15.00 fee for dinner will be collected just prior to the meal.

St Lucia

Do You See What I See?

While many think of St. Lucia as the Swedish saint with candles in her hair who brings back the light to the solstice season, in Sicily the saint is primarily the patroness of eyesight Legend has it that an admirer flattered her about her captivating eyes whereupon she plucked them out and sent them to him so that she would be sure to resist the temptations of love Italian churches often display ornate masks of silver or wax in her honor, and those faithful to St Lucia hang similar ornaments in their homes to protect against eye disease

Swedish White Brownies

2 eggs
1 cup sugar, plus extra for topping
1/3 cup oil
1 tsp. almond extract
1 cup all-purpose flour
sliced almonds, for topping

Preheat oven to 350°F. Mix together eggs, sugar, oil, almond extract, and flour, and pour into an 8x8-inch pan Bake for 25 to 30 minutes Sprinkle with sliced almonds and extra sugar Cool in pan before cutting into bars MAKES 16 BROWNIES

OPINION

Young Farmer Observations

According to a Lehigh County young farmer by the name of Michael Fink, about a quarter of the farmers in this country are age 65 or older. Half of farm owners are that age or older.

The farm population, needless to say, isn't getting any younger.

So how do you attract young farmers and preserve farming in this country?

Recently Lancaster Farming had a chance to hear what the young farmers a d ranchers such as Fink had to say at the young farmer and rancher contests conducted during the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau annual convention in Hershey.

Fink, along with Matthew Balliet, a farmer in Drums, Luzerne County who grows about 550 acres of grain, believe in education.

They also believe, in Balliet's words, that the success of the farm lies off the farm. Balliet insists you have to allow the public to be Farm Bureau members and have a say.

"Votes count, numbers talk," said Balliet. "You have to reach the nonfarmers. Nobody is as close to ag (in the nonfarming sector) as (for example) the meat packer."

Fink believes that the farm community has to invite in the equine hobby industry, the canine industry, and other groups who depend heavily on ag inputs.

In the end, according to Balliet, the "farmer can't be confined to the cab in their tractor and remain within the four walls of their farm," he said. "They have to attend Farm Bureau events as a part of doing business."

Involve the young farmers early, get them to attend meetings as a business write-off, get the nonfarm public involved as investors and policymakers, and embrace technology, including computerized recordkeeping, according to young farmers who spoke during the contest.

The young farmers will one day be older and more experienced — and if successful, their ideas may help farming continue for generations.

Now Is The Time

By Leon Ressler

Lancaster County Extension Director

To Protect Your Cows' Udder Health

Beth Grove, extension dairy/environment agent in Lancaster, tells us with the arrival of chilly weather throughout our area, dairy farmers should be thinking about udder health, specifically chapped teats and teat problems.

Dramatic temperature changes and post-dipping in very low temperatures can easily lead to more chapped and frozen teats as well as teat-end lesions. Many studies have shown cows with chapped and damaged teat ends are more vulnerable to infection by Staph Aureus and other organisms. Frostbite is also a risk with very cold weather, particularly in sick cows or cows with udder edema.

For these reasons, many producers, especially those with freestall or loose housing barns, dislike post-dipping cows after milking for fear of frozen teats and additional problems. Farmers in tiestall barns often keep the cow herd in rather than allowing them outside for exercise and heat detection. Before you lock the barn door and keep your cows inside all winter, try these cold-weather tips to prevent teat end damage during the winter months.

In the cold winter months, try predipping instead of a water wash. Washing removes the natural oils from the teat, increasing the incidence of chapped teats in winter weather. Check teat-end conditions often, so that you can detect problems early. Don't stop post-dipping in very cold weather! This will give bacteria a fighting chance to colonize teat ends in the herd. After post-dipping, allow a 60 second "kill time," then blot the teat dry with a paper or cloth towel. (Try warming the teat dip before use to reduce drying time.)

Use a post-dip with 5-10 percent "skin conditioners" to reduce the incidence of chapping in windy cold weather. There are "winter" postdips available, some that are dry or powdered, and others that contain high amounts of emollient — these have shown varying amounts of success in on-farm trials. It is recommended that you always use products that have been proven to be effective in reducing new cases of mastitis — make certain they have been well tested! Carefully use salves, ointments, and creams during wet, freezing weather. Some research has shown that these products will actually increase bacterial growth at the teat end.

It is best to store teat dip in a heated room if possible during the winter months. In very cold conditions, some teat dips may "separate" and will not have as effective a bacterial kill if not remixed before use. Before refilling the dip cup, thoroughly mix contents of the storage container.

To Participate In The Manure Hauler Certification Training

Today's manure applicators are faced with many issues and public pressures. Penn State's Manure Hauler Certification Course has been designed to educate applicators on the laws and issues that are faced by their industry and to help them to address the issues within their businesses and community. Participation can be useful in promoting business, operating in compliance, encouraging good neighbor relations, lessening environmental risks, and addressing public concerns.

The 2003 classroom session of the Pennsylvania Manure Hauler Certification Course will be offered Tuesday, Dec. 16, at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Resource Center in Dauphin.

This year's course will include the following topics: a Pennsylvania Department of Transportation presentation on laws that apply to applicators, an overview of Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act, environmental awareness, and safety and emergency response. Additional topics which will be covered include nitrogen and phosphorus issues, interpreting a nutrient management plan, nutrient balance sheets, odors and other nuisance issues, the importance of community image and manure storage management, and an industry update.

There will be an update on House Bill 1809: The Commercial Manure Hauler and Broker Certification Act, a discussion of spreader calibration, and a presentation on conservation practices and soil compaction.

In order to receive the Penn State certification, a hauler must attend both the December classroom session and a summer field day. You are asked to please preregister for the classroom session. The sign-in on Dec. 16 will be from 8:30 a.m.-9 a.m. A fee of $10 will be collected at the door. Lunch will be provided. Course testing will be conducted from 4 p.m.-4:30 p.m. To register, contact Robb Meinen, Penn State University, at (814) 865-2987.

Editor:

Rather than worry about its effect on weather, farmers should worry about new laws passed in the name of preventing global warming.

It is widely thought that the worst thing about "global warming" for farmers is the effect it will have on their crops. After all, environmental advocacy groups constantly predict floods, droughts, blistering hot summers, more violent weather, and other kinds of mayhem.

But concerns over weather are greatly overblown. Scientists still cannot tell if warming is natural or caused by the human presence, and there is growing agreement that whatever warming may take place will probably be modest, occur mostly at night and during the winter, and in higher latitudes (that is, Canada and Siberia).

Scientists also agree that global warming would be accompanied by more precipitation and higher levels of carbon dioxide in the air,

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS THIS PRAYER VALID?

Background Scripture:
1 Samuel 1:9-18.
Devotional Reading:
1 Samuel 1 through 2:10; Luke 1:46-55.

Robert J. McCracken tells of an extraordinary prayer that was found among the papers of John Ward, a member of the English parliament and owner of considerable real estate: "Oh Lord, Thou knowest I have mine estates in the City of London, and likewise that I have recently purchased an estate in fee simple in the County of Essex. I beseech Thee to preserve the two counties of Middlesex and Essex from fire and earthquake, and as I have a mortgage in Hertfordshire, I beg of Thee likewise to have an eye of compassion on that county; for the rest of the counties, Thou mayest deal with them as Thou art pleased."

That prayer may not be too different from the spirit in which some of us pray, although probably none of us quite so boldly. For some, the impulse to pray finds its source in a deep desire to preserve "me and mine." So this prayer may help us understand better what is going on in the story of Hannah. Her prayer originates, not so much in a theological or doctrinal presupposition, but from a deep and painful personal need.

It is difficult for us in our day to understand the depth of her anxiety. Today, we are concerned with birth and population control. In her times the concern was with childlessness. If a man was to survive his own death (and I use the term "man" purposely), he must have sons to perpetuate both family line and Israel. A barren married woman was regarded as an embarrassment and marked with God's disfavor.

Deeply Distressed

Hannah was one of Elkanah's two wives. She was chiefly distinguished from Peninah, the other wife, as the wife who "had no children." Elkanah loved Hannah, but there was a stigma attached to this relationship. It was bad enough to be childless, but Peninah made things worse by taunting Hannah with her childlessness.

"She was deeply distressed and prayed to the Lord, and wept bitterly" (1:10). So we can see that it was a deep personal tragedy that brought Hannah to pray as she did.

Her petition, of course, is not a model for prayer. Its motivation is entirely selfish. Its manner is that of a crude bargain: "O Lord of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thy maidservant . . . but will give to thy maidservant a son, then I will give him to the Lord all the days of his life, and no razor shall touch his head" (1:11). (The vow not to shave or cut his hair is a traditional sign of one dedicated to God's service.)

Yet for all the crudeness of her motives and manner, we have to admire her for her trust. Eli, the priest of the sanctuary, noting that she made not a sound, but did move her lips, concluded that she was drunk. Yet it was not alcohol, but ecstasy that had her in its grip. Hers was not a model prayer, but it was a fervent one and that may count for a lot with God.

Blundering Beginnings

If the providence of God were under the human administration, Hannah would probably have been penalized for the audacity and form of her prayer. But as scholar John Schroeder has written, "Humanity has a right to appeal to God out of its trouble," even when the motivation is selfish and the theology is incorrect.

From these blundering spiritual beginnings there is the possibility of a blossoming long-term spiritual maturity in which we can learn to pray beyond "me and mine."

We can see this in the "Song of Hannah," for in this ecstatic utterance Hannah reaches far beyond the narrow self-concern of childlessness. She utters unknown and unrecognized words that unbidden welled up within her from a source beyond herself, just as centuries later, the mother of Jesus, would ecstatically proclaim the prophetic words we know as The Magnificat: "My soul magnifies the Lord . . ." (Lk 1:46-55).

God does not refuse or scorn inept prayers and, if the prayer persists with undaunting expectation, the one who prays is likely to grow beyond the narrow self.

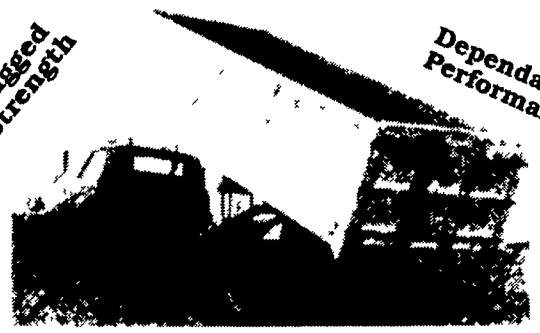
ALUMINUM GRAIN BODIES & ALUMINUM REPAIRS by Hewey LEBANON, PA



These ultra-light bodies are designed for strength through engineering, not strength with bulk. For example, a 16' grain body with tailgate and 48" sides weighs only 1490 lbs. complete. We'll build you any length or any side height up to 60".

Also available:
• Double swinging hay hauling tailgate
• Barn door type tailgate
• Slide out cattle chutes
• Diamond flooring
• Pull out panel tailgates
• Any size grain chute

Ag Secretary Announces Annual Pa. Farm Show Dinner

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Edward G. Rendell and the Farm Show Commissioners, Secretary of Agriculture Dennis C Wolff announced that the annual Pennsylvania Farm Show dinner will be Friday, Jan. 9, at the newly renovated and expanded Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

"The Annual Farm Show Dinner provides the department an opportunity to highlight the many accomplishments and opportunities in agriculture," Wolff said. "With the theme, 'Making Progress with our Partners,' the dinner will showcase Pennsylvania food products and highlight the relationships that exist between the Department of Agriculture and its many partners.

"The depth and diversity of Pennsylvania agriculture necessitates strong working relationships, which are fundamental to our mission," said Wolff. "They allow us to solve problems, while encouraging growth in the agricultural industry. This dinner is an important time to thank our partners for their continued support."

The evening begins at 6 p.m. with a reception featuring Pennsylvania wine in the Cameron Street Lobby. Dinner will follow at 7 p.m. in the Farm Show Banquet Room. On-site parking is available. Tickets are $40 per person. For reservations and information, contact Shelby Nestler at (717) 787-4627.

The 88th Pennsylvania Farm Show will take place Jan. 10-17.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
December 3, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

SPOT PRICES OF CLASS II CREAM, dollars per lb butterfat F.O.B. producing plants Northeast 1.6387-1.8949 Delivered Equivalent Atlanta· 1.7115-1.9071 mostly 1.7604-1.8949

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8700-.9300. Class III, spot prices: .9800-1.0600.

SPOTS SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK FLORIDA: This Week: In 0; Out 0, Last Week. In 23, Out 0; Last Year· In 26, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES· This Week: In 0, Out 0; Last Week: In 0, Out 0; Last Year: In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003

Milk production is mostly steady throughout the region. Colder weather in Florida and other Southeastern states seems to have slowed the gains seen during the past few weeks. Milk output is still increasing, but at a slower pace. Farther north, milk production is steady at typical seasonal levels. Fluid milk supplies, though tight, are not as tight as they have been. Most contacts report the milk supplies over the holiday weekend were up slightly, but easily cleared. The extra milk was welcomed by most manufacturers. Class I milk sales are slower at retail, but bottlers are busy refilling school lunch pipelines. Florida's need for milk fell to zero this week; handlers carried heavy inventories into the new week and orders from bottlers have been lighter than expected. Contacts expect that they will again import some milk next week, but so far, milk supply and demand are nicely balanced.

In the Mid-South, predictions of the season's first ice/snow storm have given a boost to bottling and orders from retail outlets. Surplus milk supplies are not as tight and plant contacts are happy to see the extra milk. However, if normal patterns are followed, volumes may again tighten until mid-month. Most butter/powder plants did have extra milk over the holiday weekend and those plants that were shipping to Florida had quite a bit more milk. Southeastern manufacturing plants ran a little heavier, but all the milk was handled by those operations that had been running all fall. Seasonal balancing plants remain shut.

The condensed skim market is little changed, but December's Class III formula price is down quite a bit from November. This price drop is not enough to make Class III wet solids competitive with NDM. Sales of Class II condensed skim are steady and mostly contractual.

The fluid cream market is not quite as strong now that supplies are a little more in balance. Spot prices are often higher as the CME butter average last week increased more than two cents and multiples are little changed from last week. Demand is good and any offerings are easily cleared. Some contacts feel that the normal post-Thanksgiving lull in demand will not be seen this year because cream was so tight during the weeks leading up to the holiday. They feel that users were so far behind on their year-end orders that there will be little slow down in demand. Some suppliers note that more loads are available from their regular sources. Cream cheese production is steady to heavier this week. There have been reports that some cream cheese makers have been, and are allocating output because of the lack of cream in November. Egg nog production is slower, but producers are eager to get back on line to fill Christmas/New Year needs. Production of sour cream, dips, bottled and aerosol cream is seasonally heavy. Ice cream production is moderate to heavy as some plants build inventories ahead of planned shut downs during the year-end holiday period. Churning is up slightly at some plants.

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY for week ending Nov 28 — Total Receipts 157,800, last week 361,900, last year 184 900 Direct 25 200, last week 32,200, last year 40,500 Video/Internet 29,500, last week 1,900 last year 26 000 Auctions 103,100 last week 327,800 last year 118,400 This weeks reported auction volume included 37 percent calves and yearlings weighing over 600 lbs and 46 percent heifers

Due to the light receipts on this Thanksgiving holiday-shortened week a nationwide feeder cattle trend was not possible however a higher undertone prevailed at the few major auction markets that were open for business Direct feeder trading was almost non existent and most-all Southeastern calf markets were closed as order buyers were out of the market and rarely ship cattle on a major holiday week The Oklahoma National Stockyards and the Joplin Regional Stockyards each had less than 3,000 head but demand was reportedly very good and calves were quoted 2 00-8 00 higher and a light test of yearlings at the two major Plains markets were steady to 2 00 higher Receipts were heavier at two major Midwestern feeder markets, Green City, MO and Burwell NE which each held special yearling sales Over 30 loads of yearling feeders were offered in Green City and buyers were so aggressive that shouting matches broke out in the seats as demand outweighed supply The 700-900 lb Number 1 steers sold from 107 00 115 40 with a fancy load of 800 lb steers at 116 90 Similar cattle in Burwell brought 105 00-111 75 on a good run of 4,500 head of which 88 pct weighed over 600 lbs It's clear that Northern feedlots and Midwestern farmer-feeders are desperate to restock their inventories before the end of the year, as each has been extremely profitable over the last six months Heavy feeder supplies continue to be extremely tight and a load of yearlings will be harder to secure than that perfect Christmas gift during this holiday season Feeder cattle marketing may have been slow this past holiday week, but slaughter cattle trading was active as packers jumped out and paid 2 00 more for showlists to prepare themselves for a full-weeks slaughter schedule and post Thanksgiving beef demand Southern Plains feedlots sold at 100 00 with Northern areas selling at mostly 102.00 and 160 00 dressed Boxed beef cut-out values were lower this week but movement was good as retailers put their shelves back in order, after featuring turkeys and hams for the past couple of weeks.

Most folks are ready for a good steak after a four-day weekend of turkey, turkey sandwiches, turkey casserole, and turkey surprise??

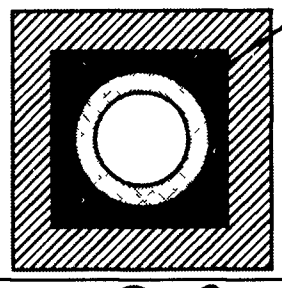
... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements. Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

Hoober To Display New Tractors

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Show is a great place to visit with customers and learn what's going on in their world, according to Daryl Peifer, sales manager for Hoober Inc.

Hoober Inc. will again feature a display of their farm equipment at the revitalized Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg this coming January. A new line of tractors carrying the "Farmall" name will be one highlight of the exhibit.

The new exhibition hall and addition of "Farmer Days," which began at last January's Farm Show, helps the Hoober sales staff focus on agricultural visitors, according to Peifer.

"The new Farm Show facility and three farmer days certainly provides a more concentrated opportunity for us to visit customers and customers to visit each other," said Peifer.

Because the Farm Show today isn't so much a place to make direct sales and because many customers live far away from the dealership, the show's main importance is dealers' personal contact with farmers. The learning experience goes both ways, Peifer noted.

"It's more of a relational kind of show," he said. "We probably learn more than we convey to (farmers). They're very smart and savvy today."

Hoober plans to display several new Case-IH tractor lines, including the 42-82 horsepower JX and JXU series, the MXM series, and the utility line of DX Farmalls, ranging from 18-55 horsepower.

While the return of the Farmall name might evoke the C, H, and M models of the 1940s and 1950s, the only real similarity between these old tractors and the new DX line is the horsepower range, according to Peifer.

Hoober also expects to have a Case-IH Model 1200 vacuum planter on hand at the show.

At live machinery demonstrations during Farmer Days, Hoober is slated to show off a vertical mixer equipped to handle large square bales, along with the help of tele-handler loaders.

Leadership Transition At National Council Of Farmer Cooperatives

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives President and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) David Graves has announced plans to leave NCFC to pursue other business and professional opportunities.

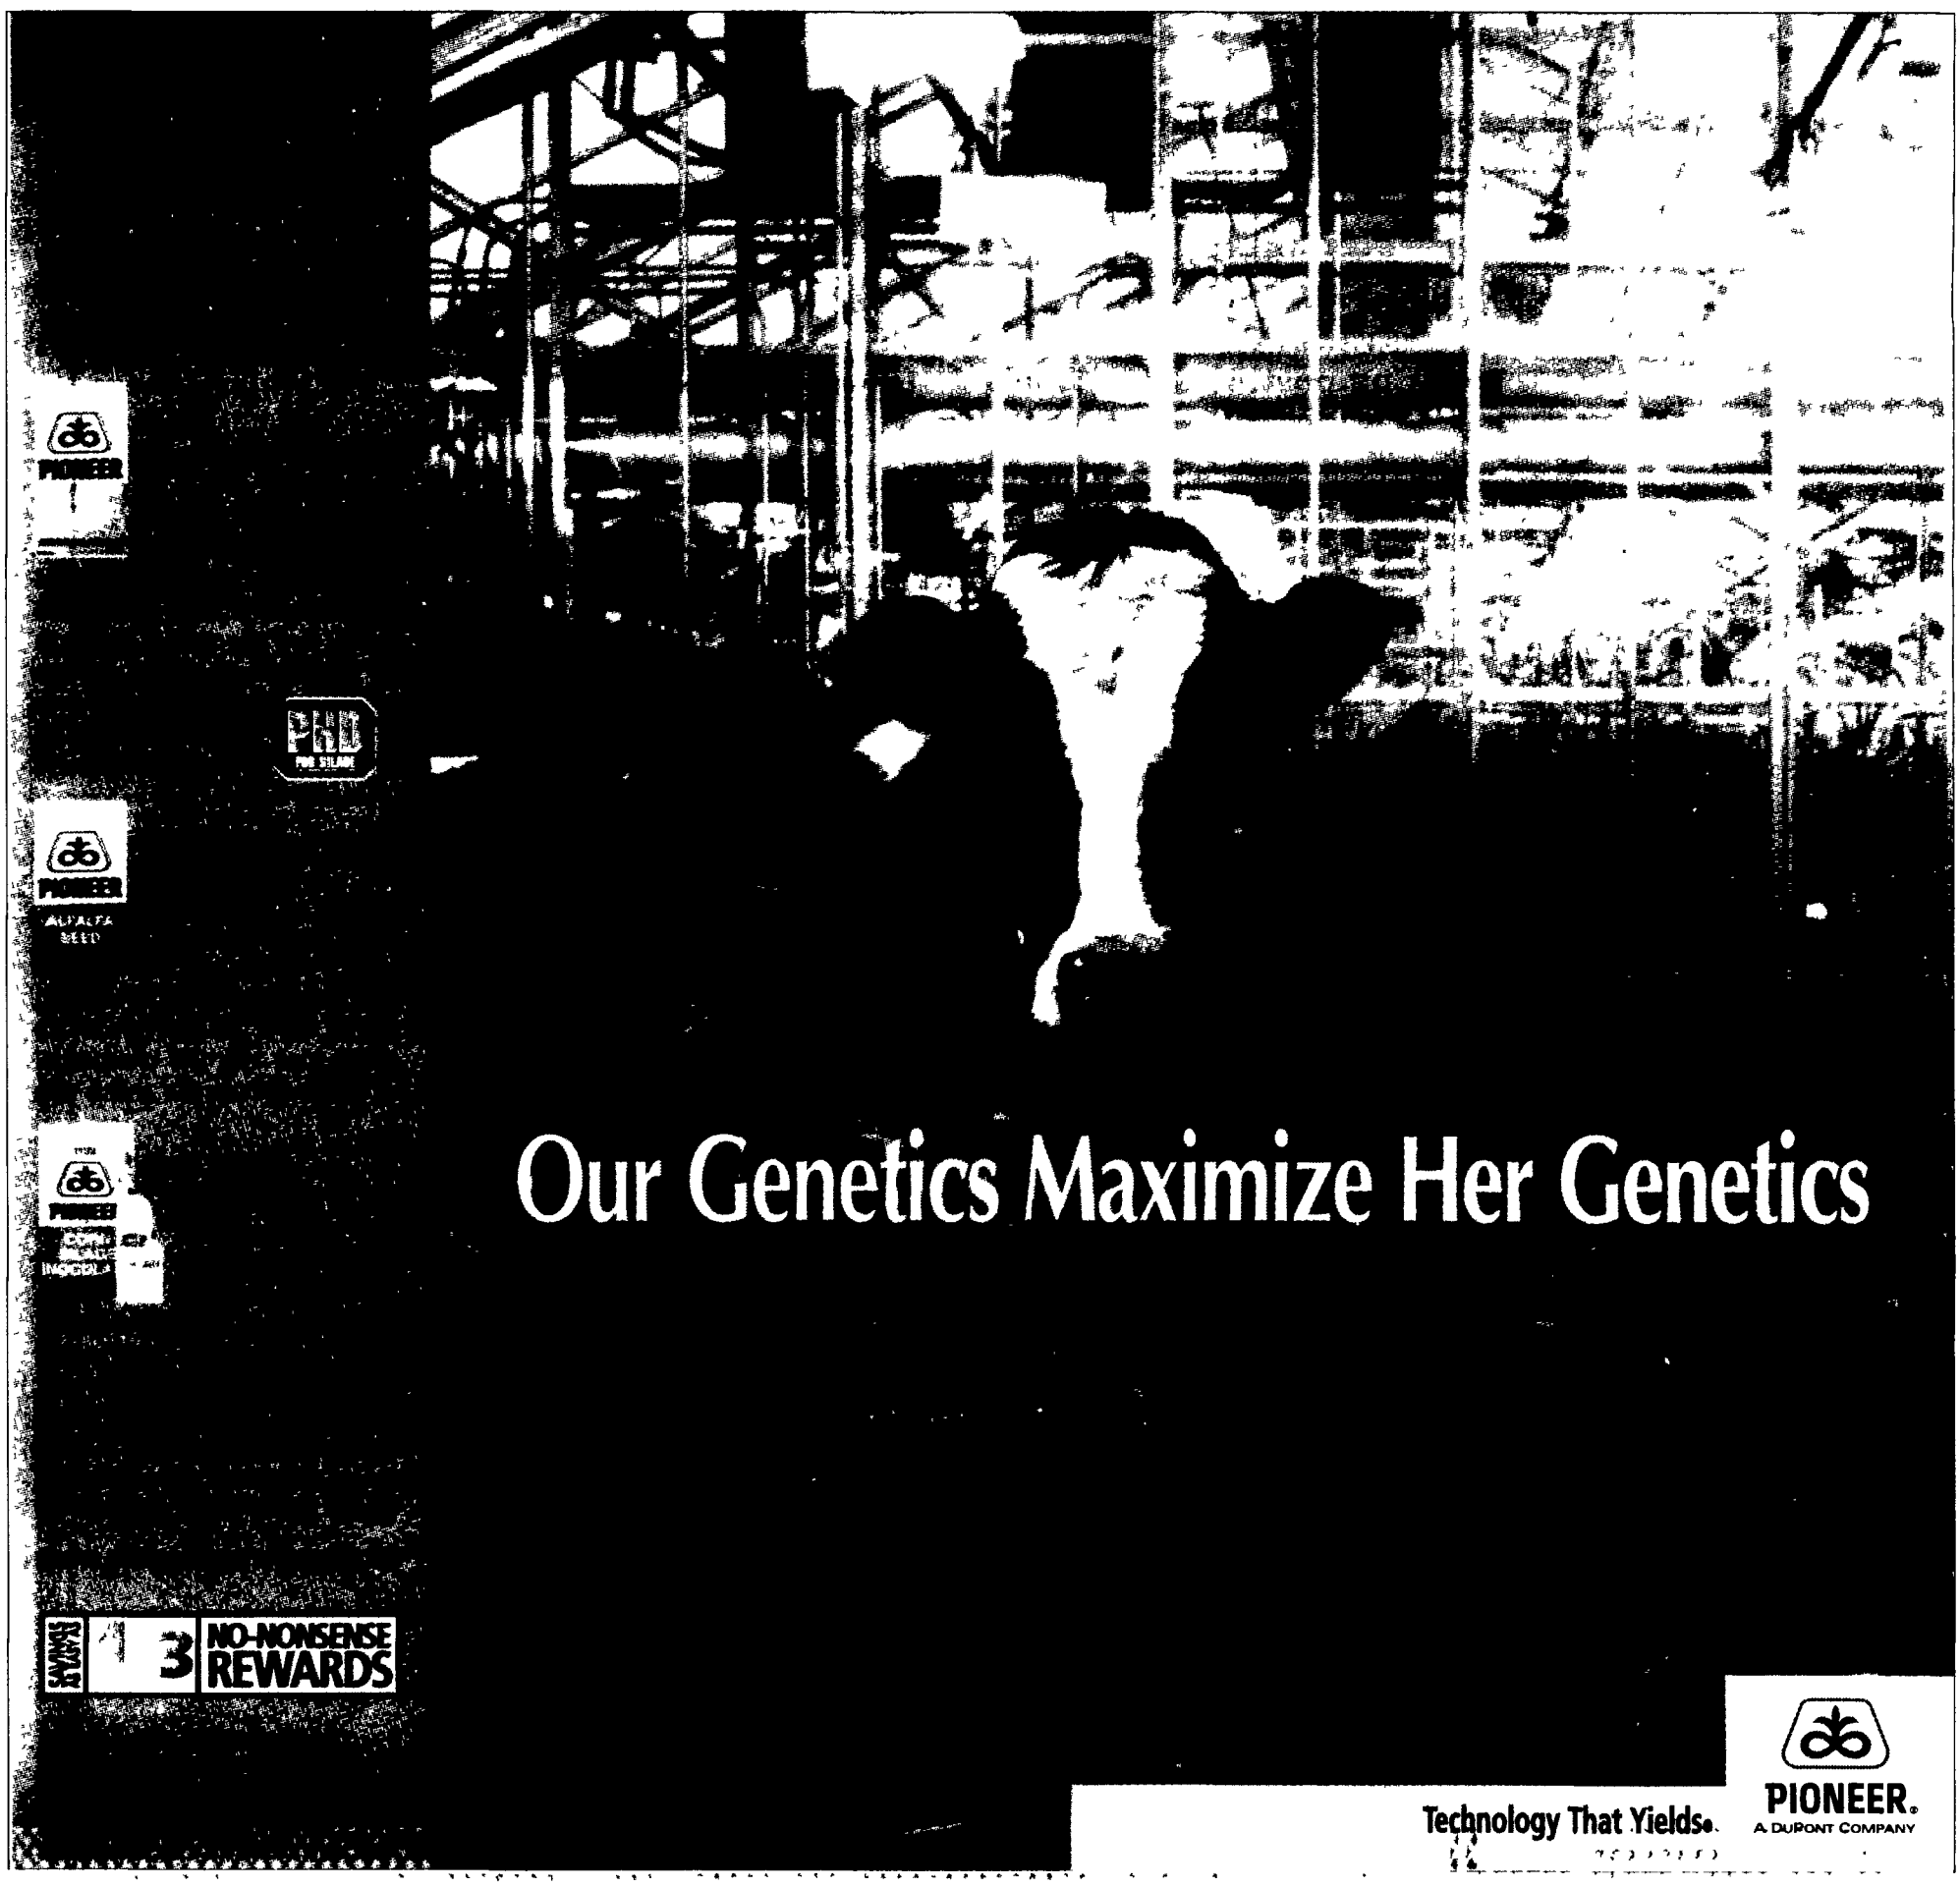
"The NCFC Board deeply appreciates David's past service and understands his reasons for leaving at this time," NCFC Board Chair Jack Gherty said. "David has agreed to provide his advice and counsel during the transition period, and we intend to take advantage of that offer."

Graves' departure will be effective Oct. 31. Graves, who has served as NCFC president since 1997 indicated he is leaving to pursue other business and professional interests. "I deeply appreciate the opportunity I have had to serve America's farmers, ranchers, and growers in advancing NCFC's mission and purpose," Graves said.

Gherty indicated that the Board has chosen NCFC Vice President and Chief Economist Terry Barr to serve as interim President. Barr, who has been with NCFC for nearly 20 years, will assume those duties on Nov. 1.

The NCFC Board has established a search committee to recruit and screen candidates for the position of NCFC President and CEO. No timetable has been set for that decision.

"NCFC, under Terry Barr's leadership, will continue its current strategic direction and intense focus on pursuing agricultural and cooperative interests, on behalf of members in the legislative and policy arenas," Gherty said. "The members of NCFC appreciate David's contributions and leadership and wish him well going forward. We are fortunate to have an individual as experienced and qualified as Terry Barr to lead NCFC through this transition."



On The Farm With Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Carla Martin

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Growing up in a family of 13 siblings no doubt is a noisy affair.

Maybe that's why Carla Martin was so shy during her elementary years. Or maybe it was because she followed two vivacious older sisters in the family lineup.

Whatever the reason, her parents, David and Robbin Martin, remember Carla, 19, as being so introverted that when she was homeschooled and required to write weekly speeches and present them before the family, she cried.

Her parents praised her efforts and taught her siblings to verbalize the positive aspects of each of Carla's speeches.

Slowly, Carla's confidence grew.

People who know her today say that Carla's strengths are definitely public speaking and writing. Those talents have been evident to audiences who heard her award-winning speech in September at the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant, Camp Hill.

Poised, articulate, and theatrical, Carla's performance was one of the reasons judges selected her as the state dairy princess.

In that role she continues to be called upon to present impromptu and prepared speeches before audiences of all sizes.

Now, Carla enjoys speaking so much that she is considering switching from a planned nursing career to one in ag sciences and communications.

"I had three jobs before becoming state dairy princess, but I cut back to one, so I can give more time to the dairy industry," Carla said. The one she kept is a certified nursing assistant at Mount Hope (Retirement) Home.

She also teaches piano lessons to five children, works on the family farm, and with the care of her siblings.

"Being the state dairy princess has really helped me realize how big the dairy industry is, and the many different aspects of agriculture. I've had the opportunity to tour other farms and see how they operate, which is really interesting," Carla said.

After being home-schooled all her life, Carla said meeting people from so many different backgrounds sometimes intimidates her.

"So many of them have been involved in extracurricular school activities, which sounds so impressive, but I haven't had that opportunity," she said.

Not that she's complaining. Carla loves her large family with siblings Melissa married to Ervin Stoltzfus; Josh, 22, in partnership with his dad; Laura married to James Stahl and with the only Martin grandchild; Abigail, 17; Susanna, 15; Naomi, 13; Ramona, 11; Caleb, 9; Noah, 8; Samuel, 6; Sarah, 4; Elijah, 2; and another baby sibling due Jan. 25.

On the Martins' 300-acre Danda Farm, with its organic dairy and beef operation, they also manage a small store to sell their organic dairy and beef products. Animals are grazed and fed only certified organic feed without antibiotics, synthetic hormones, pesticides, or herbicides. The farm also raises 50,000 broilers for New York's live market.

The organic milk is shipped to Natural by Nature, a cooperative formed by David and 18 other farmers about one year ago. The Martins have been an organic dairy since 1995.

The cooperative markets the milk and milk products such as cottage cheese, sour cream, whipped cream, and butter. The Martins purchase some of the value-added products back so they can sell them from their farm store. Although married and living off the farm, daughter Melissa oversees the store operation with other family members helping out.

In the debate about total grazing versus grain-fed, Martin takes a more middle-of-the-road stance. He believes in the value of grass-fed, but also believes feeding organic grains is beneficial.

In California, raw milk is sold at supermarkets. Pennsylvania law forbids this. Martin understands the government concerns but believes people should be allowed a choice. Growing up drinking raw milk, Martin still recalls the first time he tasted pasteurized milk at school.

He was astounded at the difference in taste and asked, "They call this milk?"

Now, he is concerned about another issue that affects taste

(Turn to Page A23)

Music plays a vital role in the Martin family, where all siblings learn to play the piano and sing. Carla, seated center, plays the piano and writes music, which the family sometimes incorporates into musical performances.

and adds to the public's misconceptions about milk labeling. Extended shelf life (EXL) milk, which can last 40 days, is misleading to a customer who compares the shelf life of fresh milk to the extended shelf-life milk.

Comsumers are inclined to believe that EXL milk is fresher because the listed date is extended. Also store managers prefer to stock longer-lasting products, and are more inclined to stock shelves with it.

On the other hand, many consumers don't like the taste of the EXL milk and may equate that flavor to all milk, and cease purchasing milk.

Dairy products have always been a vital part of the Martin family's menus. Since Carla continues to learn more about dairy nutrition, she has become more vocal with friends and peers in stressing the importance of using real dairy products — not chocolate-flavored water or whipped topping. She reminds friends that sodas contain 12 teaspoons of sugar — all empty calories.

Carla has quite an impressive array of talents, in addition to speaking and writing. She plays piano for her church worship team, sings solos and in concert with other family members for churches and even writes songs and music for performances.

Carla has also won awards for her photography, taught Ag in the Classroom sessions, led weekly religious education classes in public schools, and coached an elementary school volleyball team.

Carla was the former Manheim Fair Queen and was named one of the five finalists for the Pennsylvania Fair Queen title.

She has taken classes at Lancaster Bible College. Her hobbies include horseback riding, music, sports, 4-wheeler riding, and scrapbooking.

The Martin family has had many interesting stories to tell about what its like growing up in such a large family.

The parents consider it a work in progress, and one that constantly needs to be reevaluated. For instance, when David wanted to buy a 4-wheeler for the children's recreation, Robbin convinced him the vehicles were too dangerous and suggested buying camp horses for the children.

Within the first year, numerous children suffered broken arms and sprains from falling off a horse.

The family decided it was time to get rid of the horses and buy a 4-wheeler. Fortunately, they haven't had an accident.

People often ask how the Martins can afford so many children. David said, "We receive more fulfillment from our children than the farm."

The Martins believe that too many people see children as a liability and prefer money over children.

Robbin said, "The Lord has always provided our needs. We see God provide in so many unexpected ways, such as people with show dogs asking to purchase the bones from the organic meat we raise.

"Who would ever have thought someone would be willing to pay for the bones?" she asked.

The Martins believe that children should be raised to become responsible citizens, and should be given responsibility at a young age so that when they are adults, it is not a shock.

Carla and Susanna prepare a milking schedule. Four family members are assigned to help with each milking. One of those assigned is always a younger family member to help them acquire experience.

Eight-year-old Noah is the youngest to assist in milking duties, but the quickest to arise to help with the morning milking. A Swing-14 parlor was installed to milk the 120-130 cows.

"Success is finding satisfaction in work" is a concept promoted by the parents. But that doesn't mean it's all work and no play on the farm. Most of the older children are involved in volleyball,

The 300-acre Danda Farm is home to Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Carla Martin. Her family operates an organic dairy and beef operation and raises 50,000 broilers for the New York live market.

The Martin's eldest son, Joshua, is in the farm partnership with his dad and coordinates the farm work. The family's three farms adds up to about 300 acres. Additional acreage from neighboring fields are also farmed.

basketball, choir, Bible quizzing, and other organized activities.

Martin is president of the Natural by Nature Cooperative, associate pastor of Manheim Mennonite Church, and principal of the home school, "but my biggest job is being a father. It's a challenge to spend individual time with each child, but I think that's especially important during the teen years of each," Martin said.

Some of the sons share their dad's interest in following baseball and football games in which the local school district excels.

The parents also take the children out to eat individually.

Robbin said that one of the habits she started 15 years ago is essential in raising a large family. She requires one hour of quiet time each afternoon, during which younger children nap and the older ones read or do another quiet activity.

"Devotional time with the Lord is important to me. He gives me grace to meet each day's needs," Robbin said.

With home-schooling so many children and the constant requirements of laundry, cooking house cleaning, and other chores Robbin, who is expecting the family's 14th child in February, said that she has moments of weariness.

"But it's worth it. It is fulfilling to see each child grow and mature," she said.

The Martins are part of a home-school cooperative, which enables the children to participate in chemistry, Spanish, and public speaking classes with other home-school students. Carla and the older siblings took classes at a local college during their final high schooling, where much is independent study.

The parents say they make an effort to keep sports and other interests in perspective and balance. They believe it is of greater value for children to find pleasure in work.

The Martins have been happy to provide a place in the farm business for their adult children who are interested in farming, but they are not opposed to them seeking other careers.

Steel has been in the Grange since he was 8, joining the Big Knob Juvenile Grange # 226, and still lives on the New Sewickley farm where he was raised.

"It's about 100 acres — the road came by and took a few out," Steel said. "When I was a kid it was called a 'general farm' ... chickens and pigs and cows. ... It's now planted in hay and small grain."

Steel was elected Master of the Big Knob Grange # 2008 in Beaver County while still studying at Geneva College. After finishing his degree in chemistry, he worked for seven years at the Shippingport Nuclear Power Station.

He has served as Master of Big Knob Juvenile Grange, Big Knob Grange # 2008 (present Master) and Beaver County Pomona # 66 (elected in 1985). He served as the Pennsylvania State Grange Assistant Steward from 1964-1970. He was elected Overseer of the Pennsylvania State Grange in 1992 and served as the Master of the Pennsylvania State Grange from 1996 through 2002.

Steel is not new to the National Grange scene in Washington, D.C. In 1969, he became the director of youth activities for National Grange. He also supervised the production and supply departments and organized the Grange-Farm Film Foundation. He was elected to the National Grange Executive Committee in 1998.

Grangers around the country are aware that the Grange membership has declined in recent years, in part because of the drastic decrease in numbers of people living in rural areas and the growth of competing claims on people's attention.

"The Grange is trying to renew itself by becoming a more open organization to the public," Steel said. "That's difficult, having been a closed, secret fraternity for 125 years or more.

"When it was founded, the Grange was viewed with suspicion, just as unions and other organizations for working people were," Steel said.

"In the early days, they had to know whether they were being infiltrated by the enemy, which was the railroads, the government.

"That habit of insularity has died hard," he said.

That, in combination with an aging population that is often "comfortable where they are and don't want to move," he said, has diminished the Grange.

"Believe it or not, I faced some Granges in Pennsylvania that had the attitude of,'We've got our 12 people and that's all we want.'"

Steel wants to increase membership by attracting young people, and to work to make the Grange an effective advocate for rural dwellers on a variety of issues.

Under his leadership, the Pennsylvania Grange became one of the three largest in the country.

Exotic Pest Introductions Take A Toll On America's Forests

Robert Martynowych
DCNR Forester
Tom Hall
DCNR Plant Pathologist

Non-native or exotic invasive species are entering North America at an alarming rate, and most of them through international trade.

More than $25 million has been spent in New York, Chicago, and New Jersey in trying to eradicate and stop the spread of the Asian longhorned beetle.

There are those who would argue that fears of these invasive species are an overblown "Chicken Little" approach.

At one time many believed the gypsy moth would mean the end of oak in Pennsylvania. However, targeted programs to suppress gypsy moth outbreaks and the introduction of various biological control agents, including both a fungal and viral disease of gypsy moth larvae, have helped to reduce the severity of gypsy moth outbreaks.

Consequently the dire predictions for our oak forests have not panned out, although the gypsy moth does have significant economic and environmental impacts on forest ecosystems.

However, one need not look back to far in Pennsylvania history to find a situation where a non-native organism that causes chestnut blight, essentially meant the end of an important tree species, the American Chestnut.

A dedicated group of scientists and citizens, have volunteered their time and resources to develop American chestnut sources with resistance to blight in an effort to restore the American chestnut to the eastern forests.

They have made substantial gains in developing a limited number of resistant American chestnut lines for field assessment.

Other exotic pest introductions have taken a toll on America's forests.

Dutch elm disease, ash yellows, dogwood anthracnose, and hemlock woolly adelgid are but a few non-native invaders that have forever changed the character and condition of our rural and urban forest landscapes.

All have been brought to North America in conjunction with movement of plant materials from other countries.

New non-native organisms are entering the United States at an alarming rate. The emerald ash borer and citrus longhorned beetle are some of the more recent arrivals.

The emerald ash borer was first discovered in Michigan and Ontario in 2002 and now has been confirmed in Ohio. A new fungal pathogen associated with "sudden oak death" is killing tanoak and California live oak trees in California and Oregon and may threaten eastern oak species if the pathogen can not be eradicated.

Most of these invasive species are carried into North America on imported wood packing materials, imported plant materials, or timber products. The USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) and the Department of Homeland Security are responsible for preventing these non-native species from entering the United States through product inspections at Ports-of-Entry and enforcement of plant and animal quarantines.

However, sufficient staff and funds to conduct more inspections are simply not available nor feasible in order to examine the huge quantities and diversity of trade goods entering the United States.

Flexible international trade agreements that encourage commodity trading stretch our ability to inspect goods entering the United States.

Landowners are advised to become better aware of potential exotic insect, weed, and disease pest problems and to practice integrated pest management control options on various forest pests whenever possible.

For the rapidly increasing and troubling new pest introductions, the only advice one can give is to become better acquainted with this issue and to support legislative initiatives to prevent the introduction of new pests that can cause severe damage to our agricultural and natural resources systems.

To learn more about the scope of the problem and what to do, contact your local forest district, or visit DCNR's website through the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us, PA Keyword: "forests."

Warren County Preserves 10,000th Acre Of Farmland

FRELINGHUYSEN TOWNSHIP, N.J. — Warren County reached a milestone this month with the preservation of its 10,000th acre of farmland, an achievement that was celebrated by county and state officials at the Frelinghuysen Township farm responsible for surpassing that record.

Gathering at the farm of Michael Staufenberger, officials noted the success of Warren County's farmland preservation program and pledged to keep up their efforts.

"The preservation of 10,000 acres is an important milestone for the citizens of Warren County and for our agricultural industry," said state Agriculture Secretary Charles M. Kuperus, who joined in the outdoor celebration overlooking Staufenberger's farm on a chilly December morning.

"When we preserve farmland, we help promote smart growth, protect the quality of life in our communities and strengthen our agricultural industry," Kuperus said. "We're proud to have played a partnership role in Warren County's success to date, and look forward to continuing to work together to preserve many more farms."

Warren County recently finalized the purchase of development rights on 125 acres of Staufenberger's 134-acre farm. The preservation program only includes agricultural land, and not homes or other buildings on the property. Farmers are paid to permanently surrender their right to develop the land, keeping it green and available to be farmed forever.

Warren County made its first farmland preservation acquisition in August 1989, preserving about 600 acres in Allamuchy. Since then, the County Agriculture Development Board (CADB) has steered preservation acquisitions protecting farms throughout Warren.

With the Staufenberger project, Warren County has 10,082 acres of permanently protected farmland, and ranks fifth in the amount of acreage preserved of the 18 counties in New Jersey with farmland preservation programs.

About 10 percent of New Jersey's total preserved farmland is located in Warren County.

Staufenberger, a Frelinghuysen resident for the past 13 years, said the farmland preservation program has helped him to achieve his dream. A financial adviser who grew up in Colonia, Staufenberger said he remembers going fishing when he was six years old on the Musconetcong River in Warren County and falling in love with the rural area. "I always said, this is where I'm going to live."

Staufenberger has been restoring the farmhouse, parts of which date back 200 years, and said he is looking into agricultural areas to expand beyond hay production at the farm.

"My intention is to bring the farm back to life," he said.

The farm had been looked at for housing developments, a golf course, and other development plans, which would have dramatically changed rural Frelinghuy-

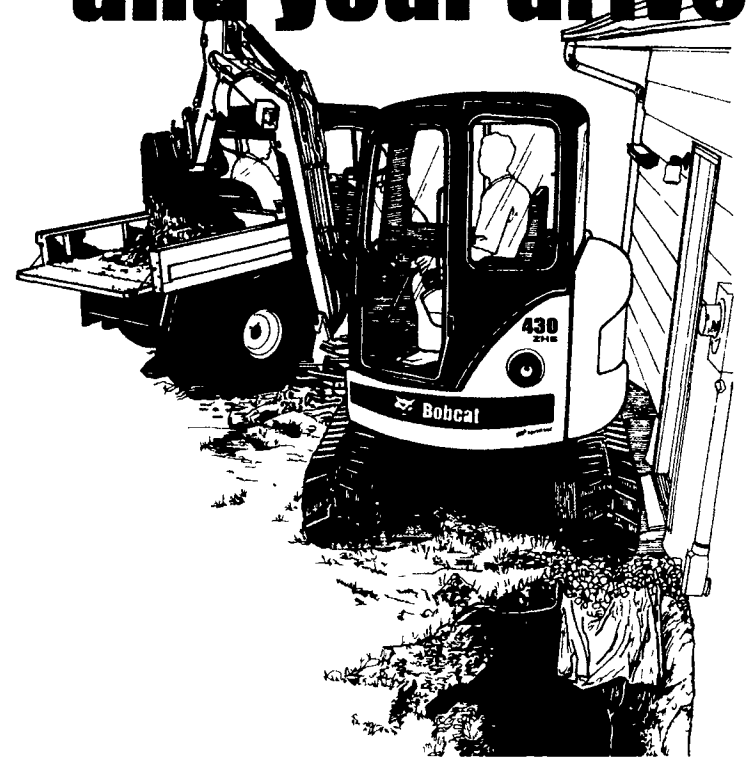
NEW! Bobcat® 430 ZHS Compact Excavator

Improve your swing... and your drive!



With Zero House Swing, both the front and rear ends of the Bobcat 430 stay within the machine's width, so there's less chance of striking objects during operation. The FastTrack drive system is hydrostatic, like a skid-steer–twice as fast as any other excavator brand! The 430 gives you unmatched travel speed, smooth maneuverability and faster cycle times. Why didn't anybody think of this before?

5 mph travel speed • Zero House Swing • Zero Tail Swing

sen, Staufenberger said. Developers approached him after he purchased the farm, but Staufenberger said he had no interest in seeing it lost to agriculture.

Instead, "It will stay farmland in perpetuity. I like the idea of that," Staufenberger said. To be able to preserve the property to pass on to future generations "is a wonderful thing," he added.

CADB Chairman Joel Schnetzer, who was master of ceremonies for the event, recognized the former and current board members as he praised the people who started Warren County's farmland preservation program in the 1980s.

"We wouldn't be here today without all the hard work they devoted to this," Schnetzer said. Even though farmers and landowners were cool to the preservation program when it started, the original members of the CADB persevered, Schnetzer said, adding, "Those people had a vision."

Orrie Terpstra of Knowlton, who was the CADB's first chairman, said people were skeptical about the program in those days. "We were elated to preserve the Gibbs farm," he said, referring to the Allamuchy farm that launched Warren County's preservation effort.

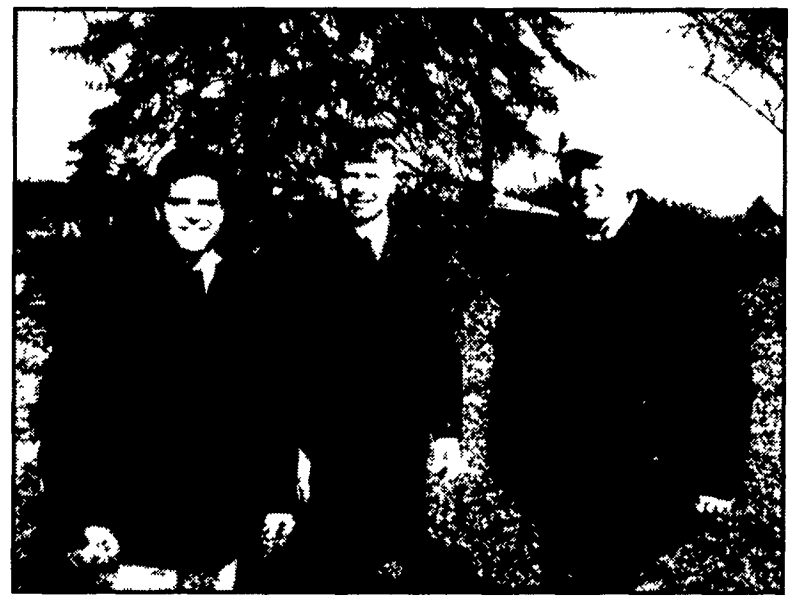
Kuperus praised the State Agriculture Development Committee and Executive Director Gregory Romano, who also attended the event, for their efforts on the preservation programs in Warren and other counties statewide. "We're committed to preserving 20,000 acres a year" in New Jersey, Kuperus said.

Although it took some 14 years to reach this milestone in Warren County, "I'm hoping we can save another 10,000 acres in five years," said Freeholder Deputy Director Rick Gardner.

Freeholder John DiMaio stressed the need for investing in farmland preservation, adding, "Mr. Staufenberger, what you're doing here is very important to Warren County."

Freeholder-elect Everett Chamberlain noted, "We have a big job to do yet but I think we'll get it done. The freeholder board is behind this program 100 percent."

"Warren County has made significant strides in retaining our traditional rural quality of life through the farmland preservation program," Assemblyman and Freeholder Director Michael Doherty said in a statement. "This is our legacy to generations to come."



From left, Michael Staufenberger, Warren County Freeholder Deputy Director Rick Gardner, and New Jersey Agriculture Secretary Charles M. Kuperus meet on Staufenberger's Frelinghuysen Township farm to celebrate reaching the milestone of preserving 10,000 acres of farmland in Warren County. A development rights easement on 125 acres of the farm put Warren County's total preserved acreage at 10,082.

Also participating were Frelinghuysen Township Committeemen Thomas Charles and David Boynton; farmer Harry Schnieber of White Township, who retired after a long career teaching agriculture at Belvidere High School; and students from the FFA chapters at North Warren Regional, Warren Hills Regional, and Belvidere high schools.

Formerly known as Future Farmers of America, FFA has 516 members active in Warren County every day, said Rebecca Schnetzer of Franklin Township, the past president of the Warren Hills FFA chapter and Joel Schnetzer's daughter. "But it's not every day the 10,000th acre of farmland is preserved," she said, adding that farmland preservation "ensures that FFA members can continue the bright future of agriculture."

Lebanon Valley Expo, Fair Receive Recognition

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — On Tuesday during the 113th Annual International Association of Fairs and Expositions (IAFE) Convention, the Lebanon Area Fair and Expo Corporation received two international agricultural awards.

More than 600 people attended the agricultural awards breakfast in Las Vegas, Nev., where the awards were presented. Dennis L. Grumbine, CFE, CEO accepted the awards on behalf of the Lebanon Valley Exposition Corporation and the fair.

The fair received an Agricultural Award of Excellence in the following categories: video of a special or unique event for exhibitors or the fairgoing public, and outstanding media commitment to agriculture programming — radio.

The Lebanon Area Fair is located in Lebanon and is conducted in July.

Richard C. Kreider, president of the Expo Corporation, praised the various groups and committees that made these awards possible.

"We in Lebanon County have known for a long time that we have great facility and a terrific annual fair. The agriculture industry is very important to our area and richly steeped in tradition. The positive social impact of everyone working together to produce the annual fair and working throughout the rest of the year to attract other events to our area and our facility have not only a positive social impact but contribute significantly to the overall economic wellbeing of our area."

The first award was for the ham and chicken barbeque. The criteria used to select the winner were the number of volunteers that are involved in the production of the event and the participation of the fairgoing public. 4-H and FFA youth sell a major portion of the tickets, this year numbering more than 6,000 dinners served. There are also more than 75 volunteers that are involved in preparing and serving these dinners

"This event has a tremendous positive impact on the entire community," Grumbine noted.

The second award was presented to both the fair and the commitment from a single radio media outlet. The criteria used were the amount of coverage, its agricultural content, and the audience in the area. WLBR and reporter Laura Maillet were singled out for their efforts for their weeklong coverage and their overall dedication to informing the public of events prior and during the fair.

Ben Bow, fair chairman, "Wow! We finally entered the big leagues. I have said there are no other fairgrounds the caliber of ours in the Northeast, and our fair is a tribute to the importance of agriculture in our valley. Everyone who is involved in our fair, either as an exhibitor, volunteer, or spectator can share in these awards. It takes a commitment from all these groups to make this the international agriculture success it is."

The IAFE has a worldwide membership of more than 5,000 fairs and expos.

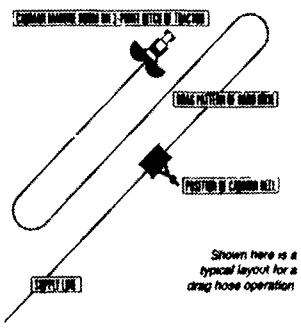
Stanley Burkholder
Chambersburg PA



Park your Hard Hose Drag Reel in the center of the field the manure is to be applied in Uncoil the hard hose pulling towards the farthest corner Simply drag the hose back and forth across the field until the whole field has been covered When finished, unhook the applicator from the hard hose and wind in the hose

High volume: Flow rates possible that are equal to (3) 6,300 gal. spreaders @ 3 loads per hour each!

Low compaction: Nothing heavier than a 150 hp tractor is ever in the field!

Reduced odor: When used in conjunction with an Aerway soil aerator, odor is virtually eliminated.

Complete system w/4.5" x 1320' drag hose, 3-pt. spray boom, 3,000' of 6" supply line, manure irrigation pump and 12' Aerway incorporator is currently available for demo/rental/sale

Tree Care Workers Needed

Vincent Cotrone
Extension Forester
Luzerne County

Today there is an increased awareness by homeowners and municipalities for the need of trained and knowledgeable tree care workers. The green industry has responded to this demand for trained professionals by creating certification programs. Presently there are thousands of arborists that are certified by the International Society of Arboriculture and horticulturalists certified by lancscape and nursery associations. These numbers continue to grow each year.

An Arborists Short Course is designed to increase working tree knowledge, professional arborist skills, and prepare you for the ISA Certified Arborists exam, which should improve your marketability.

The Arborists Short Course is designed to address these relevant topics: diagnosis of plant disease and insect pests; nutrition and fertilization; selection, installation, and establishment of trees and shrubs; soil and water interaction and management; plant identification; assessment, and risk management; pruning; construction impacts and management; and safety and climbing.

Along with the topics discussed, all participants will receive a copy of the ISA Arborists' Certification Study Guide (a $95 value), Woody Ornamental Insect, Mite and Disease Management (a $7 value), and other printed materials.

The Arborist Short Course covers five half-day classes with a registration fee of $100 or $50 for review only. For more information about this conference, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension at (570) 825-1701 or (570) 602-0600.

Wet Year Not Disasterous For Christmas Trees

Bob King, Ph.D.
Cornell Cooperative Extension

With a wet spring followed by a moderate summer and mild fall, the quality of local Christmas trees for 2003 is rated from good to excellent with good availability in all sizes and types.

For the Rochester region, Christmas tree sales got off to a slow start on the weekend of Nov. 29, mostly because of snowy weather. Sales are expected to pick up dramatically for this and next weekend, which are the peak weekends for Christmas tree sales.

For many consumers, Firs such as Balsam, Fraser, Concolor and Douglas are popular choices and have soft needles that hold their needles well and have excellent fragrance. Reportedly, the Concolor Fir, with its whitish needles, is less of an allergen, and might be a tree of choice for people that normally cannot tolerate live trees.

White, Blue, and Norway Spruces also make good Christmas trees. Although not as fragrant as a Fir tree, they have solid branches that can hold heavy ornaments. The Blue Spruce is popular and has a bluish color, but has sharp needles that can make decorating a distressing job, but is a great way to keep pets and small children from playing with the tree.

Often overlooked, Pines such as Red, Scots, and Austrian Pine also have solid branches and good fragrance. These pines tend to be less dense, which is ideal for large ornaments. The White Pine tends to have very soft branches and bend with heavy decorations, but it has a very soft look and illuminates quite well.

Potted Christmas trees tend to be popular among younger households and are live trees that should be planted outside after the holidays. Much smaller than a cut tree, the soil ball containing the root system will make for a much heavier tree to handle. Ideally, the tree should not be sheared like a cut tree since this will cause dense growth.

Most potted trees are planted in January when the ground is frozen. So it is important to dig a hole when the ground is warmer. Ideally, the hole should be 2-3 times the diameter of the soil ball, and no deeper than the ball's height. Keep the dug soil in a garage or cellar to keep it from freezing. Before planting, the tree will need to be conditioned to the colder temperatures again, so store in a cool place for a few weeks then move outside.

Christmas tree pointers:

- Make sure the tree fits your home. Measure the ceiling height to make sure the tree along with a tree topper will fit.
- Select a tree with a straight trunk and is not split into two.
- Grasp a branch between your thumb and forefinger and pull. Fresh trees have very few needles that will fall off and the branches will be supple and spring back. Inspect the branches for any animal life, insect activity, or other undesirable objects.
- Pick up the tree. A heavy tree indicates abundant moisture and sap and is not dried out and when dropped on its trunk, few needles will fall out.
- Have the tree wrapped. Wrapping helps with tieing the tree to the roof or trunk of a car or truck and will save on damage to walls and floors when moved into the house.
- At the tree lot or just before you bring the tree in the house, saw a one-inch slice off the trunk. This opens up the vessels in the trunk for water to flow and will encourage needle retention. Immediately put the trunk in water before the newly opened vessels can close. Provide plenty of water while in the stand to avoid drying it out.
- Keep the tree from heat sources. Do not use candles or open flames near the tree and avoid combustible decorations. Make sure your lights are in good working order and that your smoke extinguisher and fire extinguisher are in working order.

Compost Helps Control Fungus

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Incorporating compost into soils when lawns are seeded reduces the severity of leaf rust, a fungal disease that attacks perennial ryegrass.

Ohio State University plant pathologists found that the amount of leaf rust on perennial ryegrass was reduced by 50 percent when the turfgrass was seeded into soils with at least a one inch layer of composted sewage sludge. The study is the first of its kind to document the suppression of a foliar turf disease through the incorporation of compost into the soil.

Mike Boehm, one of the project researchers, said the nitrogen that the compost adds helps ward off the disease. "We know that some fungi, like leaf rust, like to attack turf that is growing under nutrient-stressed conditions," said Boehm. "The perennial ryegrass grew so well with the additional nitrogen that the pathogens were not able to attack it."

Perennial ryegrass was chosen for the study since it is most susceptible to leaf rust and is a common turfgrass seeded in Ohio. Leaf rust, caused by a pathogen of the Puccinia species, is recognized by a yellowing of turf blades, followed by reddish or orange-colored streaks on the leaves. The disease is most active under continuous warm days with dry conditions. Fungicide applications are currently the most effective means of controlling the disease.

Boehm said it is unclear whether the reduction in leaf rust was caused exclusively by the additional nitrogen or if there were other factors involved.

"The compost is packed with microorganisms that do have plant-enhancing characteristics," said Boehm. "The study didn't separate the microbiology of the compost from the nutrient impact of the compost - whether the induced-resistance is from organisms that changed the physiology of the plant to make it less susceptible or if the nitrogen was at work. My guess is it is a little of both."

Second Annual Pennsylvania Garden Expo In March 2004

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Now four days, the second annual Pennsylvania Garden Expo will take place March 11-14 in the new state-of-the-art 175,000-square-foot Exposition Hall of the Harrisburg Farm Show Complex.

This year's show will again feature about 20 flowering walk-through gardens designed by top central Pennsylvania landscapers and nurseries. A total of 40 master gardeners, landscapers, and horticultural professionals will conduct "how-to" seminars and demonstrations on making gardening easier and more enjoyable. The show will also feature a marketplace and exhibits by garden clubs and plant societies.

Roger Swain, host of WHTM-TV's "People, Place, and Plants" and best known as the "man in the red suspenders" will be among the speakers on March 12-13.

Among the walk-through gardens scheduled are a bonsai garden, a children's garden, a natural-habitat garden, and a railway garden. Many gardens feature a water element.

The numerous vendors in the marketplace will be selling everything from lawn services to live plants and gardening.

The expo is being put together by the non-profit Pennsylvania Green Industry Foundation, Inc., along with co-participant the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Current sponsors include ABC27 and Weis Markets.

Proceeds from the pre-show Gala, the Expo itself, and the Plant Auction on March 14 will benefit the beautification of Harrisburg.

Terry Bush, director of Pennsylvania Green Industry Foundation, said, "we are excited about a show like this. Gardening is already the nation's No. 1 outdoor activity, and it's becoming more and more popular each year."

Bush said applications are still being accepted from vendors interested in taking part in the expo.

More information on the show itself is available by calling (717) 796-1181, e-mailing pagardenexpo@comcast.net, or visiting www.pagardenexpo.com.

Pa. Maple Syrup Production Down

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's 2003 maple syrup production is estimated at 48,000 gallons, down 13 percent from last year's production of 55,000 gallons, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service. The value of the syrup produced in 2002 is estimated at $1.47 million, down from the $1.75 million in the year 2001.

The number of taps in Pennsylvania totaled 364,000 during 2003 compared with 337,000 taps the year before. Pennsylvania's yield for the year 2003 averaged 0.132 gallons per tap, down from the 0.163 gallons per tap last year.

Nationally, maple syrup production in 2003 totaled 1.25 million gallons. Production was valued at $38.4 million. The number of taps is estimated at 6.62 million, down 2 percent from 2002. The yield per tap is estimated to be 0.187 gallons, down from 0.206 gallons in 2002. The 2003 tapping season lasted an average of 50 days, compared to 52 days in 2002. Syrup color was mostly medium to dark. The sap's sugar content was higher than last year's with approximately 41 gallons of sap was required to produce a gallon of syrup, in contrast with 45 gallons in 2002.

Go Out On Limb To Care For Trees

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The most important steps in caring for a young tree start before you buy the tree, according to a community forestry expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"The crucial part of picking a tree is matching a tree to the spot you've picked out," said Bill Elmendorf, assistant professor of urban and community forestry in the School of Forest Resources.

Think carefully about the color, size and branching shape of a tree before choosing a planting site. Examine the site conditions for soil pH, soil compaction, presence of sun or shade, and moisture.

Pick a tree that is tolerant of the conditions and can adapt easily to the site.

PCO Annual Meeting Set For Dec. 10

MILLERSTOWN (Perry Co.) — Pennsylvania Certified Organic (PCO) will conduct its annual meeting Dec. 10 at the Perry Valley Grange Hall, Millerstown, from 1 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Four Dauphin Co. 4-H'ers At District Horse Show

Four Dauphin County 4-H'ers showed their production horses, Aug. 14, at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds as completion of their training and breeding project.

These young horses are judged in hand on their structural correctness, balance, quality, and breed character. Two-year-old horses may also be shown under saddle in futurity classes.

Those competing from Dauphin County and their placing were Todd Hoffman, Harrisburg Blue Ribbon in Quarter Horse Yearling Filly. Ashley Potteiger, Halifax, Red Ribbon in Hunter Horse and a Blue Ribbon in 2-year-old English Pleasure futurity. Kimberly Langhans, Elizabethville, Blue Ribbon in Stock-type Yearling Filly.

Susquehanna Co. 4-H North Jackson Ag Club

North Jackson Ag club recently met at the Walker's home at 7 p.m. The meeting started with pledges. Beth Giangrieco took roll call and gave the secretaries report.

Amanda Nowicki read the treasurer's report.

Abby Onyon started the old business. Lyle Foster told about his one-day trip to Baltimore. Abby recognized the kids that participated in horse and pony roundup. Eight kids from the club went to state days at Penn State.

Lots of 4-H'ers participated in the 4-H dairy roundup and many did very well. Beth Giangrieco did well with her calves and cows. Mary-Katherine Walker, Ilene Walker, Chelsea Saam, and Abby Onyon also did exceptionally well with their cows.

Demonstrations started out with Chelsea Saam and Mary-Katherine Walker on how to clip a rabbits' toenails. Tim Carey did his demonstration on what it was like and what it involved to judge and animal at State Days. Casey did a demonstration on how magnets work. Mary Walker did her demonstration on her pet hermit crab. Holly showed the club how to take care of a ferret. A.J. Carey did his demonstration on Archery.

Eddy and Dustin did their demonstration on how to test for an anti-biotic in milk.

Wayne County 4-H Capon Round-Up

The 2003 Wayne County 4-H Capon Round-Up was conducted Nov. 5 at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office in the Courthouse, Honesdale.

Grace Howell, a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club, had the grand champion exhibit of dressed 4-H capons. Grace's pair of dressed capons tipped the scale at 11.75 pounds and 13.0 pounds and earned an exhibit score of 19.1 points out of a possible 20 points on the judge's scorecard. They were the middle division champions.

Andy Salak, a member of the Kountry Kids 4-H Club, had the reserve grand champion exhibit. Andy's pair of dressed capons tipped the scale at 9.25 pounds each and earned an exhibit score of 19.0 points out of a possible 20 points on the judge's scorecard. They were also the junior division champions.

Billy Yatsonsky, a member of the Kountry Kids 4-H club, had the intermediate division champion exhibit of dressed 4-H capons. Billy's pair of dressed capons tipped the scales at 11.0 pounds and 10.5 pounds and earned an exhibit score of 18.8 points out of a possible 20 points on the judge's scorecard.

These 4-H members have maintained their 4-H capon projects for 17 to 20 weeks. They started with one-day old, roaster-type, cockerel chicks. At 10 to 14 days of age, the chicks were caponized. After this, the 4-H'ers had the important job of feeding and managing the capons to the desired dressed weight range of between 9 pounds and as much as 13 pounds per capon.

Lebanon County 4-H Goat Club Meets

The Lebanon County 4-H Goat Club meeting took place Saturday, Nov. 1 at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds. Leon Stump led the American and 4-H pledges.

The club welcomed their new leader Robin Wolfe. The members signed up for demonstrations and snacks. They were reminded about handing in their project books and were also reminded about showing at the Farm Show.

New officers were elected as follows: President — Jesse Stump; Vice President — Chris Werner; Secretary — Katie Eckert; Treasurer — Kyle Allen; News Reporter — Anastasia Beard; Historian — Bethany Moy; and Game Leader — Gabrielle Thomas.

York County Lamb Club Banquet

York County Lamb Club members, leaders, and buyers gathered for the club's Annual Lamb Banquet, Saturday, Nov. 8 Lamb club leaders and parents prepared lamb, as well as side dishes and desserts, which were served buffet style.

Rick Jones and Megan Heath presented special plaques to the companies and individuals who bought the champion and reserve champion lambs and certificates of appreciation to the buyers who supported the club by purchasing lambs at the York Fair and the 4-H Roundup.

Club leader Josie Flory gave the members their graded project books along with new Lamb Club sweatshirts to acknowledge a year of hard work and achievement.

The traditional ceremony to initiate new club officers took place after awards. The club president, Rick Jones, led the new officers in a candle light ceremony. Each officer lit a candle to symbolize their commitment to continuing to uphold the "bright light" of 4-H.

Custom glazed candle holders featuring sheep silhouettes made by Pfaltzgraf were given as door prizes. Special thanks went to Mrs. Karen Doyle, who made photo collage place mats with hundreds of pictures from the York Fair for the banquet.

York County 4-H Lamb Club Meets

The York County 4—H Lamb Club meeting took place in the 4-H building Oct. 8. Before the meeting was called to order, a weigh-in for animals entering the competitions at the Pennsylvania Fam Show was conducted at the new barn. The lambs were nose printed for identification.

Members discussed the York Fair and the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE). New officers elected for the upcoming year are: president, Rick Jones; vice president, Tasha Flory; secretary, Brandy Bankert; and treasurer, Jeffrey Emenheiser. Several other club members were elected as assistants to the officers.

Many club members participated in a seminar to help promote ethical behavior in the showring. Called the Youth Meat Quality Assurance Program, the seminar was presented by Linda Spahr, extension agent. It emphasizes proper and ethical care and preparation of animals that are used in 4-H projects. Another important part of the discussion involved the importance of keeping good records.

Cumberland County Cabbage Patch Babysitters Club

A new 4-H club in Cumberland County met on Oct. 16. The name of the club is "The Cabbage Patch Babysitters Club."

Officers were elected as follows: President, Crystal Lehman; Vice President, Hannah Lopp; Secretary, Sami McCullouch; Treasurer, Alexa Line; and News Reporter: Rachael Helm.

The members are learning babysitting techniques and skills. Some activities planned include making Christmas cards, caroling, visiting local daycare centers and taking an American Red Cross Certification program. The club is also planning a fund raiser in the spring.

Susquehanna County Hoofs Clover 4-H Horse Club

At their meeting, Nov. 4, the Hoofs in Clover 4-H Horse and Pony Club made little saddles for their model horses.

PRECISION COLLECTION 1/16 Scale
50th Anniversary
1953 NAA Ford Golden Jubilee

In 1952 the division of Ford and Ferguson was complete. Ford had already begun production of the new Ford models. Many changes were introduced, starting with the new hydraulic system and ending with the new "Red Tiger" engine. January of 1953 saw the onset of the production of the new model Ford NAA Jubilee, the beginning of the new Ford tractor. Treasured by operators in 1953 and by collectors today, the Golden Jubilee has taken its place in Ford history as a true classic. To commemorate the 50th Anniversary of the introduction of the 1953 Ford Golden Jubilee tractor, Ertl is proud to unveil this special 1:16 Scale Precision Collector edition, complete with a Precision blade and Precision Collector medallion.

Young Farmers Surveyed About Needs, Concerns

PHILADELPHIA — Research shows that Pennsylvania farmers are getting older and that fewer young people are interested in becoming farmers.

A project entitled "The Future of Farming in Pennsylvania: An Investigation into the Needs and Concerns of Pennsylvania's Young Farmers" is a 14-month study that began in January 2003.

As a part of the study, a full-scale survey was mailed to young farmers throughout the state beginning Oct. 31.

Dr. Dianne Phillips, associate professor and chair of the Department of Marketing at Saint Joseph's University, and Dr. Jason Phillips, assistant professor of marketing at West Chester University, were awarded a $50,000 research grant from The Center for Rural Pennsylvania to understand the needs and concerns of young Pennsylvania farmers.

"We believe that if the state of Pennsylvania is to maintain its heritage as a rural state, it must find ways to encourage young farmers to continue farming, as well as promote farming as a personally and financially rewarding occupation to other young people," said Phillips.

The input of every young farmer (18-35 years of age) in Pennsylvania is considered critical to the success of the project, whose findings will be provided to The Center for Rural Pennsylvania to be distributed to key audiences such as state legislators, nonprofit organizations, and farm advocates.

Young farmers can provide necessary information to the researchers who can then offer practical recommendations for policies and programs for farming.

Dr. Phillips said, "Our policy recommendations will focus on access to capital, the use of direct marketing opportunities, and responses to increasing land values in Pennsylvania that make it difficult to buy land."

Farmers who have not yet received their survey should contact Dr. Diane Phillips at (610) 660-3232 or via e-mail: dphillip@sju.edu.

Lancaster County Plans Youth Dairy Day

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A Lancaster Youth Dairy Day will be conducted on Friday, Jan. 2 for all young folks in Lancaster County interested in learning more about dairy cows and our dairy industry. The program will be conducted at the Farm and Home Center at 1383 Arcadia Road in Lancaster, from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. The workshop is for any Lancaster youth ages 8-18 who would like to attend.

The day will be a fun day filled with dairy activities and games, including:

— Fun With Dairy Foods,
— Feeds, Grains, and Forages,
— A Look at the Dairy Cow Reproductive Tract, and — Dairy Games and Fun Prizes.

A pizza lunch and drinks will be provided. You must register to attend, and space is limited. The cost will be $6 per person to cover materials and lunch. Please make checks payable to the 4-H Development Fund.

To register, send your name, address, phone, and ages along with a check to the Lancaster County Extension Office, Attn: Lori Little — Dairy Youth Day, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601. Please register by Tuesday, Dec. 23. You may also call the Lancaster County Extension Office at (717) 394-6851 to register, but you must send the registration fee to the office before the event. Everyone is welcome.

FAMILY FIRST OR FARM FIRST?

People working in a family business are members of both a family and a business system. Generally these two systems support each other, but there are times when it is unclear which system should take precedence. Is the farm designed to meet the needs of the family, or do business needs come first?

The family-first or business-first question could be viewed as a continuum rather than an absolute. In some areas of the business, perhaps the family comes first, in other areas the business may come first.

If you are family-first, perhaps you pay family members more than they would earn on the open market and you are doing this because you believe that it is important to nurture and support family members. If you're business first, family members get paid the same as any other employee; salary is based on education, experience, and job performance.

Combining a family and a business blurs the lines between one system, the family, and the other system, the farm. Family farms are strongly influenced by the patterns of the family that created them, making it impossible to understand the business without understanding the family. On the other hand, hard-nosed business decisions are made with the bottom line in mind, and the business structure is designed to make money.

No rule says one approach is better than the other — it depends on your family and your values. Whichever approach you use will have long-term implications. Keep in mind however — current research indicates that family farms that use the business-first end of the continuum tend to support the chances of the business lasting into the next generation.

Businesses that operate primarily to provide wealth and employment to family members often do so at the expense of the business' long-term sustainability.

If you would like to learn more business planning for your farm, consider taking Pennsylvania Farm Link's "Tilling the Soil of Opportunity" course starting Jan. 6 at the Manheim Central High School. Deadline for registration for this course is Dec. 15. Call (717) 664-7077 for more information.

Consider the follow checklist to see where you fall in the family or business first continuum

Family First	Business First
There is a place for all family members	You must be qualified to do the job
Family members are paid more than going rate	Pay determined by responsibilities and performance
Leadership/title bestowed by birthright	Leadership is earned
Business resources used for family perks	Resources are used for business purposes
Outside experience less valuable than years of service in the family	Outside service more important than years in the family
Sometimes decisions based on emotional needs of family members	Decisions based more on productivity, task orientation

HON. DENNIS C. WOLFF
Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Agricultural education and economic development are two priorities that play an importantand integral role in the agriculture industry. Last month, I discussed agricultural education in my column and this month, I would like to devote my attention to agriculture's role in Pennsylvania's economic health and what the department is doing to develop the economic potential of agriculture in the commonwealth.

Agriculture is clearly a driving force in the state's economy, with every dollar earned by a farmer generating more than $10 in economic activity, from sales to processing, distribution, and retailing. Yet, we all know that there are serious concerns about the condition of Pennsylvania's economy.

Gov. Rendell is committed to a strong agricultural sector as part of his overall rural economic development strategy and I am confident that we can secure a strong future for agriculture in Pennsylvania. Within the Governor's stimulus package, $100 million is earmarked for agriculture and tourism, the state's leading industries. I am working closely with Community and Economic Development Secretary Dennis Yablonsky to ensure that this funding is used in ways that could best strengthen agriculture and our rural communities. It is critically important to all of us that the Governor's Plan for a New Pennsylvania be enacted by the General Assembly as quickly as possible.

Earlier this year, the General Assembly opened up the Small Business First Loan Program and the Machinery and Equipment Loan Program (MELF) for agriculture entities. This week, Secretary Yablonsky and I stood together on Gro-Lan Farms in Franklin County enjoying the new freestall barn the Grove brothers are building with funding from the Small Business First Program and AgChoice Farm Credit.

In recent months, I have created a Dairy Task Force and a Livestock Protection Program to ensure that Pennsylvania remains one of the nation's leading dairy states. And I have been working on many other initiatives and programs designed to let Pennsylvania agriculture take advantage of all available economic opportunities and maintain its position in the state economy.

Last month, Pennsylvania was selected to receive about $1 million by USDA to create the Keystone Agricultural Innovation Center, a joint project of the Department of Agriculture and Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service. Congressman Tim Holden and Associate Dean Ted Alter joined USDA State Director Byron Ross and me to acknowledge the selection of our proposal. This was particularly noteworthy considering that Pennsylvania was one of only 10 states selected for an agricultural innovation center.

USDA created the program as part of the 2002 Farm Bill to foster farmer ownership of products and processes beyond the farm gate. Once formed, the Keystone Agricultural Innovation Center will provide a network of technical assistance and educational opportunities for agricultural producers.

The education programs will focus on improving the ability of agricultural producers to evaluate and choose value-added agricultural commodities or products. The technical assistance aspect will focus on processing and other physical properties of agricultural commodities and products, on marketing and business management issues, and on local agricultural business climate issues that create value-added opportunities.

The Keystone Agricultural Innovation Center will rely on the expertise of Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service and other project partners to offer farmers and farm groups technical assistance in analyzing the feasibility of projects and developing business and marketing plans for new crops, new markets, and value-added products. If farmers can develop products that allow them to earn a larger share of consumer food and energy dollars, the entire rural economy wins because farmers tend to spend their money locally.

The Ag Innovation Center is a step in the right direction for Pennsylvania agriculture-particularly for the value-added sector of our agricultural economy. Together with other programs we are working on, I am certain that we will be able to continue increase the agricultural opportunities for Pennsylvania agriculturists.

Farm Bureau Asks Milk Marketing Board For Continuation Of Milk Price

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pointing to rising costs on dairy farms and declining milk production in Pennsylvania, PFB today urged the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) to maintain an over-order premium of at least $1.65 per hundredweight of milk for the first half of 2004.

Farm Bureau Dairy Specialist Joel Rotz testified on behalf of PFB during a PMMB hearing in Harrisburg today. The current over-order premium of $1.65/cwt. will end on Dec. 31. The PMMB over-order premium is mandated to be paid to dairy farmers on milk produced, processed and sold as Class I fluid milk within Pennsylvanias borders.

"Pennsylvania producers continue to receive milk prices well below the average producers cost of production," said Rotz. "As a result, milk production in the state continues to fall behind year-ago levels, which threatens the long-term viability of the industry.

"Milk prices are projected to remain at low levels in early 2004. Costs for Pennsylvania dairy farmers will continue to rise due to the increasing need for supplemental feed purchases such as soybean meal because of low quality forages being harvested as a result of wet conditions throughout the season. In addition to their being a need to purchase these supplemental feeds, they are 33 percent above what they cost last year."

"When producer milk prices fall far short of producer needs, as they do currently, and have for some time, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau has always supported the highest level of premium the market can bear."

PFB urged the Board to support at least a $1.65 per hundredweight premium across the state. "If those that market milk in the state believe marketing conditions will support an even higher level of premium, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau supports those higher levels based upon the great need our producers face," Rotz stated.

Farm Bureau presented information indicating the average price paid to Pennsylvania dairymen during January-June, 2004 will be about $13.74/cwt. If dairy producers price needs for management, interest on equity and a reasonable profit were taken into account, the average dairy farmer would actually experience a loss of $2.80 on every hundredweight of milk produced. Rotz told the Board.

"Pennsylvania's milk production continues to falter. This disturbing trend has persisted for too long and appears to be increasing." Rotz testified. "This trend threatens not only the infrastructure of Pennsylvanias dairy industry, but also the entire agriculture infrastructure in the state, since dairy has historically been the backbone of Pennsylvanias agricultural industry."

ESTABLISHING RENTAL RATES
Roland P. Freund
Regional Farm Management Agent
Carlisle

There is no easy "rule" to tell us what rate we should charge (or expect to pay) for the rental of a particular item. Ultimately it is the amount of money that one person is prepared to give for its use that sets the rate. That amount usually depends on the supply and demand in a particular location. But it is helpful to use a systematic approach when evaluating a "deal" so that we can compare different situations and different "offers."

• "What should I charge to rent my dairy farm?" This seems like a simple question, but before we can begin to answer we need to divide the "dairy farm" into its component parts. There are the dairy buildings, the feed storages, the utility buildings, the cropland, the pasture, and the residence. The use value of each of these contributes to the utility value of "the farm" and hence the rent value.

• Dairy facilities. In a dairy situation, we often consider the first three items as a packaged deal. The items that have the biggest impact are the cow housing and milking system, because they impact the potential milk productivity and the labor requirement per cow. Where we have comfortable stalls, great ventilation, and an efficient milking system, a dairy producer could afford to pay up to $250 per cow housed per year. For this the producer should expect good dry cow and heifer housing, plus easily accessible feed storage to be included. Unfortunately, rental facilities that meet all these qualifications are few and far between.

Renters should avoid any facility that fails the cow comfort and ventilation tests. But if they are willing to compromise on any or all of the other traits, the rental rate should be lowered accordingly. Very "basic" facilities are probably only worth $120 per stall per year. So a good 80 ties-tall facility might be worth $150 per stall or $12,000 a year.

• Land. Cropland values depend upon soil type and location. Shale or "slate" land is droughty and often rents for $15 to $50 per acre per year. Deep loams or "limestone" soils run from $50 to $100 an acre. In some specific locations, severe competition has raised the amount people are willing to pay to more than double the above rates. Pastureland normally rents for about 50 percent of the comparable cropland. So 100 acres of cropland at $80 would be $8,000 and 10 acres of pasture at $40 another $400.

• Residence. Housing values depend upon the local demand. As part of a "farm package," expect the house to bring about 60 percent of the local going rate. If the market rate is $500 a month, the "farm" value might be $300 a month or $3,600 per year.

• Farm rental value. Combining the example values used above we have:

Dairy facilities: $12,000.
Cropland: $8,000.
Pasture: $400.
Residence: $ 3,600.
Total per year: $24,000, or $2,000 per month.

Roland P. Freund

These figures are used only to illustrate the process. Landlords and dairy renters should together discuss each component of a package and agree upon a rental rate.

• Other situations. Sometimes a landowner has unused facilities that another farmer would like to use. If the farmer built his own, similar facility, his annual ownership costs for depreciation, interest, taxes, and insurance might run 15 percent of the construction cost. So it would be reasonable to negotiate a rental rate between 5 percent and 10 percent of replacement cost for the facility. Repair costs and electric charges would be additional to the rental.

• Silo storages. Another approach might be to look at the convenient alternative. For example, if it would cost $4 per ton to store feed in an ag plastics tube, then that would be a starting point to arrive at a rental price per ton on the storage capacity of an upright silo.

• Repair charges. Routine maintenance costs are always the responsibility of the renter, and major repairs such as re-roofing the barn come from the landlord's pocket. It is the in-between items such as electric motors or refrigeration compressors that cause arguments.

A compromise that seems to be reasonable and fair is to have in the rental agreement a clause which states something like this: "Repairs — The first $100 of any repair event shall be paid by the tenant. The next $400 shall be shared equally by the landlord and tenant. Any amount greater than $500 shall be the responsibility of the landlord." With this kind of arrangement, tenants don't end up taking a milk cooler compressor with them when they leave the farm.

• Agreements. Before making any agreement, always negotiate the details. Prepare a draft agreement. Have an attorney draft the legal document, which should then be reviewed by legal counsel for the other party and signed before witnesses.

Schuylkill County Youth Take Center Stage at 4-H Achievement Night

SCHUYKILL HAVEN (Schuykill Co.) — On November 21, more than 100 4-H members, leaders, and supporters gathered here at The Parish Center of St. Ambrose Roman Catholic Church, to celebrate the close of the 4-H year and to honor the 4-H members.

Among those recognized were the winners of the following events:

The Schuylkill County 4-H Public Speaking Contest was Aug. 1. Corporate sponsor Empire Beauty School contributed $500 to the event, providing savings bonds, plaques, and trophies to participants. Participants are listed below.

Junior division first place, Rebeccah Leiby, 12, Schuylkill Haven; second place, Darla Romberger, 12, Klingerstown; and third place, Robert Leiby, 13, Schuylkill Haven.

Senior division first place, Scarlett Hester, 15, Pine Grove; and second place, Jessica Stemmler, 15, New Ringgold.

The public speaking contest grand champion title went to Rebeccah Leiby. Reserve grand champion was Scarlett Hester.

Schuylkill County 4-H Teen Council members who met the club's annual attendance, community service, and participation requirements were recognized at Achievement Night.

Active Teen Council members are Roby Dippel, 18, Schuylkill Haven; Marissa Frompovicz, 17, Auburn; Scarlett Hester, 15, Pine Grove; Kara Noecker, 14, Auburn; Jeremiah Roeder, 17, Auburn; Paul Shealer, 19, Auburn; Crystal Smith, 19, Auburn; and Sarah Zimmerman, 15, Pine Grove.

The Pennsylvania 4-H Junior Dairy Show was Sept. 22 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. Schuylkill County winners are listed below.

Andrew Daubert, 19, Pine Grove; David Dunn, 18, New Ringgold; James Dunn, 11, New Ringgold; Joshua Dunn, 14, New Ringgold; Rosie Moyer, 18, Bernville; Wynonna Moyer, 10, Bernville; Shelly Rex, 12, Andreas; Erica Rhein, 13, Pine Grove; and Aissa Schaeffer, 12, Pine Grove.

The Pennsylvania State 4-H Horse Show was Oct. 24-26 at Harrisburg's Farm Show Complex. Winners from Schuylkill County are listed below.

Ashley Dippel, 19, Schuylkill Haven; Leighana Ginther, 14, Schuylkill Haven; and Allison Greco, 16, Schuylkill Haven.

The Penn State 4-H Achievement Days contest was July 30 at Penn State University's Main Campus. The Schuylkill County 4-H Horse Bowl Team placed third in the state.

Team members were Rebecca Cunningham, 15, Pine Grove; Nicki Davis, 16, Port Carbon; Katie Degler, 17, Schuylkill Haven; and Allison Greco, 16, Schuylkill Haven. Greco was also the First Place Individual in the contest.

Schuylkill County's Outstanding 4-H'er Award Winners were recognized at Achievement Night. Winners wrote essays about their 4-H experiences and the life skills they'd learned, provided details on their 4-H involvement at county, regional, state, and national levels, and discussed their community service experiences.

Katharine Yuengling, 11, Orwigsburg, was named 2003 Schuylkill County Junior Outstanding 4-H Member. Yuengling is a member of the C. C. Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club and the Wilderness Explorers 4-H Club. She attends sixth grade at Blue Mountain Middle School. Along with being active in two 4-H clubs, she takes karate lessons, plays the piano, and enjoys creating art.

Kellilyn Greco, 12, Schuylkill Haven, was named 2003 Schuylkill County Intermediate Outstanding 4-H Member. Greco is a member of the C. C. Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club. She is a seventh grader at St. Ambrose School, where she serves as a student council representative, is a member of the Pep Club, and works on the In-School Publicity Committee. Greco is serving a term as 2003 Schuylkill County fair princess.

Allison Greco, 16, Schuylkill Haven, was named 2003 Schuylkill County Senior Outstanding 4-H Member. Greco belongs to the C. C. Riders 4-H Horse and Pony Club and is a member of the Schuylkill County 4-H Teen Council. She attends Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary High School, where she is completing eleventh grade. Greco volunteers her time at the 4-H/United Cerebral Palsy Therapeutic Riding Program. She also belongs to her school's Spanish Club, Interact Club, and Math Club; and she attended the 2003 Hugh O'Brian Youth (HOBY) Conference.

Two Outstanding 4-H Member applicants were recognized for noteworthy achievement in their specific areas of 4-H involvement.

Evan Snyder, 11, Pitman, was recognized for Outstanding Achievement in the 4-H dairy project area, junior division. Snyder is a member of Grassy Meadows 4-H Club. He attends fifth grade at Mahantongo Elementary School.

Adam Kahler, 12, Pitman, was recognized for Outstanding Achievement in the 4-H dairy project area, intermediate division. Kahler is a member of Grassy Meadows 4-H Club and is completing the seventh grade at Tri-Valley High School.

Retiring 4-H leader Doreen Smith was also honored. Smith, a resident of Auburn, helped to found the Blue Mountain 4-H Livestock Club and has served for several years as secretary of the Schuylkill County 4-H Development Board.

She was the first recipient of the new Claude Riegel Memorial Outstanding 4-H Leader Award, an honor sponsored by Jefferson Grange # 1384 in honor of former Worthy Master of the Grange Claude Riegel. Riegel was a former resident of Orwigsburg and lifelong 4-H supporter.

Passing on Farm Workshop Dec. 16

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Link and Penn State Extension will conduct a Passing on the Farm workshop at the Lighthouse Restaurant, 4301 Philadelphia Avenue in Chambersburg, Dec. 16, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Farmers seeking ideas for successfully passing their farm to family members, or those interested in locating interested, unrelated farmers to take over an operation, should attend. Beginning farmers are also urged to participate to glean ideas for building their businesses.

Topics covered will include: bringing the next generation into the farm business; business planning for a farm transfer; financing for new farmers; crop insurance; estate planning and legal implications; and farmland preservation.

The workshop will conclude with a panel of local farmers discussing how they transferred their own farms.

Lunch at a cost of $10 per person will be served in the restaurant. Reservations are required by Dec. 9. Pease mail your reservations to Pennsylvania Farm Link, 2708 N. Colebrook Road, Manheim, PA 17545. Questions about this workshop or farm transfer issues can be answered at (717) 664-7077.

Northeast Dairy Challenge Draws 77 Students

COBLESKILL, N.Y. — Seventy-seven students from 10 colleges and universities gathered in Cobleskill, N.Y., for the first Northeast Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge, Oct. 23-25, hosted by The State University of New York (SUNY) at Cobleskill.

Students from New York, Vermont, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Hampshire participated in this innovative three-day event, known as the Dairy Challenge. Working in five-person teams, students assessed all aspects of farm management and presented their recommendations to a panel of judges.

One of the Dairy Challenge's goals was to introduce students from the participating universities to one another and encourage them to work together, to benefit the dairy industry's future.

"Putting students with different skills from different schools on a team to work together in finding solutions is a very important learning experience," stated committee chair Don Rogers of Farm Credit. "On today's dairies it takes a team with outside professionals working together to make a difference. Students need to practice teamwork."

The 2004 Northeast Dairy Challenge is scheduled to take place at the University of Vermont. To become a sponsor of the Northeast Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge or to obtain information about the Challenge, contact Sheila Marshman, Morrisville State College at (315) 684-6106 or marshmsa@morrisville.edu; or Barry Putnam, Genex Cooperative at (800) 333-9007 ext. 6120 or bputnam@crinet.com.

The Northeast Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge is under the guidance and support of the North American Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge (NAIDC), which was established in April 2002 as a management contest to incorporate evaluation of all aspects of a specific dairy business. NAIDC is fully funded through contributions from the dairy industry. Penn State will host the third annual North American Intercollegiate Dairy Challenge. For more information about NAIDC, visit www.dairychallenge.org or call (608) 224-0400.

Farmer: Get Off Defense, Get On Offense

MADISON, Wis. — Sixth-generation farmer Trent Loos is encouraging producers to stop defending agriculture against activist groups and anti-ag organizations.

"It is time we stop defending agriculture and get on the offense in food production. Instead of waiting for these domestic terrorists to destroy our farms and ranches, we need to take action," said Loos. "We need to let consumers know that what we do is vital to our national security. We are not going to let these well-funded radicals run us out of business through frivolous lawsuits, attacks on our personal property and slanderous messages to the consumers. It is time we give them the wake-up call they have been waiting for."

Loos was slated to address dairy leaders from across Wisconsin Dec. 4 at the fourth annual Dairy Business Association Business Conference in Madison. "Building the Power to Change" was the theme of the two-day event Dec. 3-4.

The conference agenda featured panels and speakers addressing agricultural modernization protection in the state of Wisconsin.

The conference was organized to help industry leaders and producers learn media communication skills, discuss environmental and legal issues, and network with fellow dairy producers from across the state.

PLNA Magazine Wins 'Best Of Show'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery magazine recently received the 2003 Best of Show award from the International Association of Business Communicators-Harrisburg Chapter during its IABC Capital Awards Gala in Harrisburg.

The bimonthly-magazine, published by the Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery Association (PLNA), also claimed the 'Gold' award in the category of "Magazines — Four or More Color."

Group To Shape Future Of York County Agriculture

YORK (York Co.) — A new group, the Future of Agriculture (FOA) in York County, is seeking volunteers who want to help shape farming in the county in the next several years.

The group is a new alliance of farmers, citizens, and representatives from various organizations who are concerned about agriculture in the county.

According to County Extension Director Jeff Myers, the group is recruiting members to a countywide task force. It will hold an organizational meeting at 7:15 p.m., Dec. 15, at the extension offices at Pleasant Acres.

Myers said FOA has several goals. In the short run, the group hopes to provide community support for local farms, resolve immediate individual farm concerns, and increase the public's understanding of agriculture's role in the county.

According to Myers, FOA grew out of a need to encourage farmers who are uncertain about the future of farming. Uncertainty means farmers will be hesitant about investment decisions they need to remain competitive, making them more likely in the long run to go out of business.

For more details about FOA, contact Myers at the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in York County, (717) 840-7408.

Ag Officials To Announce Proposal

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will announce proposed changes to the Water Quality Improvement Act of 1998 during the Maryland Farm Bureau's Annual Meeting in Ocean City, Maryland.

The roll out of the proposals, which are intended to make the law more workable for farmers and more effective at protecting the environment, is the next step in a process begun earlier this year with a "state-of-the-science" briefing in July and a summit hosted in August by Governor Robert L. Ehrlich, Jr.

The MDA's Assistant Secretary for the Office of Resource Conservation Royden N. Powell, III will present the department's proposals for improving the Nutrient Management Program from 10:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. on Monday, Dec. 8.

PDMP Honors Student Interns With Cash Awards

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania (PDMP) has wrapped up a successful 2003 Student Internship Program with the presentation of cash awards to two Penn State students who distinguished themselves in the 12-week project.

Marcela Martinez of Reading, and Joel Krall of Lebanon, each received $1,000 in recognition of their accomplishments as PDMP interns.

Martinez served her internship at Wanner's Pride and Joy Farm in Narvon. Krall was an intern at Frey Dairy in Conestoga.

Each year, PDMP, in partnership with Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Sciences and other interested colleges and universities, offers students an opportunity to serve an internship at a PDMP member farm.

"The PDMP internship program provides students a rewarding experience that stresses hands-on learning on some of Pennsylvania's most progressive dairy facilities," explained Tom Craig, chairperson of PDMP's Education Committee.

"Although we were able to award educational grants to just two individuals, the Education Committee congratulates all of the 2003 interns on an outstanding job."

Other interns included Kristoffer Bower of Middlebury Center, and Renee Lampman of Linesville, who interned at Evergreen Farms in Pennsylvania Furnace; Rosalie Zaginaylo of Berwick, who worked at Guided Path Farms in Bellefonte; and Sarah Mc Isaac of Levittown, who served her internship with Murmac Farms in Bellefonte.

The purpose of the internship program is to offer students positive experiences related to the management and operation of a dairy. "We hope that through these experiences, students gain an interest in the many career opportunities available on progressive dairies," said Craig.

The student interns benefit in many ways, explained Craig. They enjoy an off-campus learning encounter relevant to their educational goals as they acquire practical knowledge and skills, gain exposure to day-to-day management and decision-making processes, as well as the chance to network with some of Pennsylvania's leading producers and agri-business professionals.

"Having a different background and coming from a different country allowed me to fully experience this internship," explained Marcela Martinez, a native of Colombia, South America, who interned as a calf manager. "This opportunity opened my mind to the American way of dairy management and let me connect my class knowledge with the fieldwork."

"I learned how to have a good employer-employee relationship, and met people from the industry, Extension programs, and other farms. More importantly, I proved to myself that I really want to work in the dairy industry when I finish my education," she added.

Intern Joel Krall hopes to one day own and operate a 500-600 cow dairy in Lebanon County. His internship allowed him a first-hand look at his future. "I gained knowledge in all areas of cow management, and was able to explore both the employee's and manager's viewpoint, and the roles each have in the dairy's day-to-day operations." Krall also enjoyed working, living, and communicating with the farm's Hispanic workforce, which helped him learn some Spanish and build friendships in the process.

Craig notes that PDMP is gearing up for its 2004 internship program.

Smith Takes The Wheel

Rare Pest Defoliates Maryland's Holly Trees

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Residents of Southern Maryland wanting to "deck the halls with boughs of holly" this year are being robbed of the chance by a grinch in the form of an uncommon small green insect.

Unusually large numbers of inch-long green inch worms, called holly loopers (Thasanopyga intractata), are stripping many of the popular trees of all their leaves.

The normally evergreen American holly is green no more in the yards and woods of many areas of southern Maryland, Caroline County on the Eastern Shore and the Middle River area of Baltimore County. In hard-hit areas like the picturesque Accokeek and Piscataway areas of Prince George's and Charles counties, the holly loopers have trimmed most of the hollies of all or most of their leaves, though some remain untouched, which is characteristic of this species.

"Despite the appearance of serious tree damage, the hollies should grow new leaves in the spring, and begin to recover," said Robert H. Tichenor Jr., Maryland Department of Ag (MDA's) chief of forest pest management. "Landowners should simply have patience and wait for completely stripped hollies to look normal again with the usual three-four years of leaves on their branches."

Little is known about the holly looper. The first documented report of a holly looper outbreak in the southern U.S. was in 1972 and there is no official record of it being a pest in Maryland. The small green inchworm is more commonly found in areas with mild winters such as the Gulf states and coastal southeastern U.S. Because it is not believed that the holly looper can survive a "normal" Maryland winter, it is thought that it probably gets to Maryland through the northern migration of adults. The outbreak is highly unusual and is not expected to continue. Landowners are urged not to cut or spray the defoliated trees as they are expected to recover.

To learn more about caring for holly trees, contact the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service's Home and Garden Information Center at www.hgic.umd.edu or call the Master Gardener toll-free at (800) 342-2507.

Turf Problems? You Need This Book!

ITHACA, N.Y. — Insects, diseases, weeds, and other problems can wreak havoc on a lush, healthy stand of turfgrass. Identifying the cause of a turfgrass problem can be an exercise in frustration for homeowners, golf course superintendents, and park and sports field managers who take great pride in their lawns, greens, parks, and fields.

A new pocket guide, "Turfgrass Problems: Picture Clues and Management Options," ($24.95 plus S&H/sales tax; 214 pages; June 2001), can help turf managers and lawn care aficionados identify problems and implement appropriate management strategies to achieve and maintain healthy plants.

The book contains more than 130 color photos of problems that affect cool-season turfgrasses (including creeping and colonial bentgrasses, Kentucky and annual bluegrasses, fine-leaf and tall fescues, and perennial ryegrasses). The compact, spiral-bound guide will be an invaluable reference for anyone with a serious interest in turfgrass health — including homeowners, IPM specialists, lawn care professionals, golf course superintendents, agronomists, park managers, extension educators, and students.

The guide covers four types of problems: abiotic problems, diseases, insects, and weeds. (Abiotic problems are caused by "nonliving" factors, such as weather, poor soil structure, or improper nutrient levels.)

The book NRAES-125, is available for $24.95 per copy, plus shipping and handling, from NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, New York 14853-5701. Shipping and handling for one copy is $5.50 within the continental U.S. New York residents, add 8 percent sales tax (calculated on both the cost of the guide and shipping and handling charges).

Small Street Co-Op: Door-To-Door Support For Local Farms

Karen Baase
Cornell Cooperative Extension
Madison County

Locally produced is not just a concept to Jim McDowell. It's the very foundation of his new business, The Small Street Co-op. When he isn't producing records or arranging music with his wife Dianne, Jim is taking to the roads of central New York to assemble a variety of naturally grown and organically produced foods.

Once assembled, he delivers them door-to-door to his customers. The Small Street Co-op, in its second year, provides this service every week during the spring, summer, and fall.

Jim and Dianne have supported alternative agriculture and the farmers who practice it for more than 25 years. They are among a growing number of consumers who want to know how and where their food is produced. Along with these questions, they have often wondered about the quality of the foods that are produced in massive quantities, and then reassembled, processed, and distributed by the large companies that dominate the food system in the U.S.

By listing only locally produced, organic products in the co-op's quarterly catalogue, Small Street insures accountability, helping customers to know how and where each product is grown or raised. And by supporting smaller family farms, the co-op encourages good stewardship of the land and rewards the use of environmentally friendly practices.

While it might appear at first glance as if Jim has set himself up as the notorious middleman, nothing could be further from the truth. In most cases, catalogue prices are wholesale and Jim collects only a nominal delivery charge, 10 percent of purchase with $3 minimum. This keeps products affordable and allows the small farmer a decent return. And with the added convenience of home delivery, customers are finding direct buying not only easier but hard to resist!

The money that is exchanged stays local. That in itself is empowering for everyone concerned. But what is even more empowering is that Small Street Co-op customers know they are supporting local farms directly, while participating farmers and suppliers continue to watch their sales volume grow. For Jim, there's great satisfaction not only in watching Small Street Co-op grow, but in knowing that others are looking to his business as a model for other communities. It's a win-win situation for everyone concerned.

PLNA Unveils Survey Results

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery Association (PLNA) has recently unveiled a new survey tool to help gauge the pulse of green industry professionals in Pennsylvania.

The first survey was conducted in February seeking information on the following questions: segment of the industry represented, level of government that creates the most problems for your business, and issues that affect your business the most.

Overall results from the survey showed that the PLNA membership is divided on what level of government affects them the most. State Government proved to be most intrusive with 39 percent, but 29 percent and 28 percent thought that local and federal government affected their business the most.

When it came to the issues facing the industry, one response was a clear favorite among the respondents: 80 percent believe finding and retaining skilled labor was the biggest issue facing their businesses. The second most pressing issue facing the industry wasn't as clear, with four responses ranked very closely. They included 45 percent, competing against the underground industry; 44 percent, complying/understanding latest government regulations; 34.5 percent, obtaining/affording technological advances and equipment; and 30 percent, restrictions from local government.

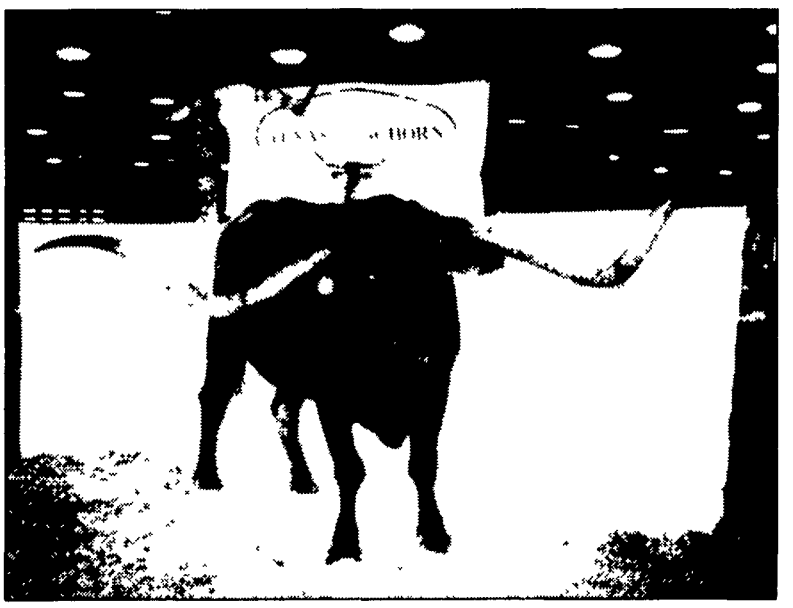
Based on the February results, the next survey will further explore the labor issue, the need for H2A reform, and what labor services PLNA can provide for its members.

Record 'Call Of The Horns'

BARNESVILLE, Ohio — Gibralter, an 11-year-old Texas Longhorn steer won the International Championship Texas Longhorn "Call of the Horns" at Louisville, Ky. The championship show staged by the International Texas Longhorn Assn. (ITLA) headquartered in Fort Worth, Texas is an annual event provided for cattle who have qualified by winning in regional shows.

The Call of the Horns has two divisions. One is measured tip-to-tip designed to evaluate the widest horn spreads by total lateral distance. The Total Horn Measurement is much like a Boone and Crockett evaluation, which measures around the curl to determine the total horn length.

Gibralter measured an official 124.75 inches. This is the most total horn of record at any International Championship Show Call of the Horns event. Gibralter is owned by Robert Snyder of Columbus, Ohio and Dickinson Cattle Co. Inc. of Barnesville, Ohio. The tall, dark red steer is a son of famous Longhorn sire Senator. Gibralter was also selected the Trophy Steer Champion, which was a visual conformation contest judged loose in the arena.



Gibralter, an 11-year-old Texas Longhorn steer was Champion Trophy Steer of the 2003 annual International Texas Longhorn Assn. Show in Louisville, Ky. His total horn spread measured 124.75 inches which allowed him to also win the Call of the Horns division. He is owned by Robert Snyder of Columbus, Ohio and Dickinson Cattle Co. Inc. of Barnesville, Ohio.

Dickinson Cattle Co. Inc. was also represented with the ITLA All Age Champion Texas Longhorn loose class Female, Sadie Sam, the Call of the Horns All Age Champion Bull, Winchester with a 69-inch horn tip-to-tip, and exhibited the All Age Call of the Horns champion Female, Unbounded Symbol, age 5, with a 68⅜-inch horn tip-to-tip.

both favorable to higher crop yields. So actually, farmers and their customers would benefit from global warming. During the Medieval Warming Period (AD 1100-1300), for example, Greenland was green and there were vineyards in England.

Rather than worry about its effect on weather, farmers should worry about new laws passed in the name of preventing global warming. The U.S. Senate just voted to reject legislation proposed by Senators John McCain and Joe Lieberman that would have imposed mandatory emission reductions and required utilities to use more renewable fuels.

Reducing greenhouse gases would be very expensive, resulting in higher energy prices and lost jobs. Best available research shows reducing emissions to 7 percent below 1990 levels by the year 2010 would reduce gross domestic product (GDP) by $300 billion to $400 billion a year and destroy 2.4 million jobs. Average annual household income would fall approximately $3,300 (in 2001 dollars) below baseline levels. Energy prices would rise 55 percent to 85 percent.

Farmers would be especially hard hit by higher energy prices because farming is relatively energy intensive and farmers have less ability to raise prices to recover higher operating costs. Raising energy prices equivalent to a tax on gasoline of approximately 50 cents per gallon (the amount estimated to be necessary to cause greenhouse gas emissions to fall) would cause net profits for farmers to fall by between 15 and 44 percent, depending on the crop. Total annual U.S. farm production expenses would rise more than $23 billion, causing net national farm income to fall by 51 percent.

Some environmental groups are trying to woo farmers into endorsing greenhouse gas emission reduction programs by promising to pay them to sequester carbon in their soil. But farmers stand to lose farm more through higher energy costs, new regulatory burdens, and emission permit costs that they could possible gain by selling credits.

Proposals to control greenhouse gas emissions, in short, pose a very serious threat to American farmers. Farmers and their allies should forcefully oppose greenhouse gas control programs at both the national and state level.

Meeting To Organize Manure Hauler Association

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Many who are in or close to the hauling industry feel that the formation of a manure applicator association can offer many benefits. A few of the benefits an association could provide to the manure application industry are a voice in regulatory development, group insurances and provision of employee benefit packages. These things can positively influence both community image and profitability. A meeting will be held to discuss the advantages and industry interest in association formation.

Significant industry involvement in this inaugural meeting will be necessary to support the formation of an association. At the minimum manure applicators are encouraged to register and attend the meeting to be informed on the attainable benefits of association involvement.

House Bill 1809, The Commercial Manure Hauler and Broker Certification Act, is currently in committee in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. This bill calls for a required certification course for commercial manure haulers. The bill could become law in early 2004. A manure applicators association could be influential in determining the final structure of the certification course.

The meeting will be held Tuesday, Dec. 16 at the Dauphin County Agriculture & Resource Center in Dauphin. A dinner for interested parties will begin at 5 p.m. with the business meeting commencing at the end of the meal. Charge for the dinner will be $15.

Pre-registration for the certification course and association meeting is requested. Register with Robb Meinen, Penn State Department of Dairy & Animal Science, (814) 865-2987.

MDA Hosts Korean And Russian Horsemen

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) hosted a group of Korean and Russian horsemen at the Maryland Million Day at Laurel Park, Saturday, Oct. 11.

Representing Korea was Jay Bang, a racehorse buyer who has purchased nearly 2,000 horses over the past seven years in an effort to further develop horse racing in Korea. Bang attended the racing day with his colleagues, including the chairman of the Seoul Racehorse Owners Association, Ret. Gen. Jin-Tagae Chung.

The Russian horseman attending Maryland Million Day included the Director of the Moscow Hippodrome Vladimir Zhukovski. Russian interests have purchased and are interested in purchasing more thoroughbreds for Russia's growing racing industry.

Biodiesel Planners Hire Firm For Study

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On Oct. 1, the Regional Economic Development District Initiatives of Southcentral Pennsylvania (REDDI), signed an agreement with BBI International, of Cotopaxi, Colo., to conduct a study to determine the feasibility of a farmer-owned soybean production facility in Southcentral Pennsylvania.

This opportunity would aim to create value-added opportunities for farmers, soybean meal consumers, and other agriculture-related businesses in the region, while providing an environmentally-safe source of a diesel fuel.

This project developed as a result of a meeting of farmers, feed mill owners, state and federal agency representatives, soybean meal consumers, and distributors of biodiesel. The consensus of the group was to form a steering committee with a goal to begin the evaluation and developmental stages of the project.

The feasibility study will be administered through REDDI. It is to be completed by March 2004, according to planners.

Reduce Your Tax Liability

NOW is the time to think about it!

You could qualify for up to a $100,000 tax write-off as a result of the Jobs and Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2003. And your unused balance can be forwarded into other tax years until fully used.

In addition to Harvestore® and Slurrystore® structures, replacement unloaders and pumps qualify.

These days, gift baskets are everything but what you might expect. They're about eclectic themes and unusual ingredients presented in beautifully creative containers. They're filled with wonderfully practical surprises and delicious gourmet starter mixes.

Whether the message is "Thanks for the warm hospitality" or "Hope you're feeling better soon," one-of-a-kind gift baskets are brimming with eye-pleasers and scent-teasers personalized to the unique tastes of each special recipient.

Imagine lavishing friends just settled in a new home with a hand-painted ceramic bowl filled of flavorful ready-to-go mixes. In one keepsake jar is the delicious jump-start for Sun-dried Tomato and Penne Soup. You layer robust sun-dried tomatoes, dried mushrooms, penne pasta and spices.

The appreciative recipients add an aromatic Bouquet Garni, canned cannellini beans and vegetable broth. While the soup simmers, they stir up a batch of homemade Buttermilk Biscuits with the mix that you provide.

Think about an elegant shower collection for a friend who loves to pamper herself. Line an ice bucket with an exquisite embroidered tea towel. Fill it to overflowing with jars of homemade Lavender Champagne Jelly and Citron Scone Mix. Embellish with lavender sachet or Flower Blossom Tea bags tied with a satin ribbon.

Remember that gift baskets aren't just for the women in your life. Got a chili-loving brother? Pack a handy tool tote with base fixings for a quick, hearty meal he can put together himself, including a big jar of Four Bean Chorizo Chili Mix and homemade Sour Cream Corn Bread Mix.

Gift Baskets

Half the fun of making a gift basket is creating a knockout presentation. Colorful dry mixes shine through decorative jam and jelly jars. And standard home canning jars are the perfect size for soups and salsas. Textures like linen, satin, flannel and netting beg to be touched. Adorn a single jar or tuck several in a clever cachet pot, garden tug or wicker keepsake box.

Spare no panache as you hand-write instructions for completing each mix-based recipe. Include leave-behinds like a decorative spreader, fresh-cut flowers, a chunky soup mug or a small memory book marking the celebratory occasion.

Think "personal," "delicious," "homemade" and "unexpected" and you'll be part of a savvy new gift-giving tradition, too!

Sun-Dried Tomato and Penne Soup Mix

2 cups penne pasta
1 cup sun-dried tomatoes
1/2 cup dried shitake mushrooms (or other dried mushrooms)
1/4 cup onion flakes
1/4 cup parsley flakes
Bouquet Garni (see recipe)

Layer mix ingredients into 1 quart home canning jar in the order given. Adjust cap. Prepare bouquet garni. Attach bouquet garni and recipe card to neck of jar.

1 quart jar Sun Dried Tomato and Penne Soup Mix
Bouquet garni
8 cups vegetable broth
1 (14.5 ounce) can diced roma tomatoes
1 (15 ounce) can cannellini beans
1/4 cup Madeira or other sweet white wine, optional
Salt and Pepper

Combine soup mix, bouquet garni, vegetable broth and tomatoes in 6 to 8 quart stockpot. Simmer covered until pasta and vegetables are tender. Stir in cannellini beans and wine if desired. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Continue simmering for 15 minutes. Remove bouquet garni.

Note: If there is not enough liquid in soup, add additional vegetable broth or water.

Bouquet Garni

1 tablespoon dried minced garlic
1 1/2 teaspoon dried crushed thyme
1 1/2 teaspoon dried minced basil
1/2 teaspoon dried crushed red pepper

Combine herbs in a bowl and gently stir to blend. Place herb mixture in the center of a 5 x 5 inch square of cheesecloth. Bring corners together to form a bag and secure with a piece of white cotton string. Or use a muslin spice bag. Tie bouquet garni to jar of Sun Dried Tomato and Penne Soup Mix.

Buttermilk Biscuit Mix

2 cups flour
2 1/2 tablespoons buttermilk powder
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine flour, buttermilk powder, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Pack mix into pint home canning jar. Adjust cap. Attach recipe card to jar.

For The Buttermilk Biscuits

1 pint jar Buttermilk Biscuit Mix
1/2 cup butter
2/3 cup water

Combine biscuit mix and butter, cutting butter into mix with a pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add water and stir until soft dough forms. Knead dough on a lightly floured surface 5 or 6 times. Roll dough to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut into 2 inch rounds. Place biscuit rounds on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 425° F for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Makes about 14 biscuits.

Lavender Champagne Jelly

3 1/2 cups champagne
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 package powdered pectin
4 1/2 cups sugar
24 heads lavender (flower only)

Combine champagne, lemon juice and pectin in a 6 to 8-quart stockpot. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Add sugar, stirring to dissolve. Return mixture to a rolling boil. Boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim foam and lavender. Discard. Ladle hot jelly into hot jars, leaving 1/4 inch headspace. Adjust caps. Process 10 minutes in a boiling-water canner. Yield about 5 half pints.

Citron Scone Mix

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup candied citron

Combine flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Pack into pint home canning jar. Place candied citron on top of flour mixture. Adjust cap. Attach recipe card to jar.

For The Citron Scones

1 pint jar Citron Scone Mix
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 large eggs, divided
1/2 cup heavy cream

Remove candied citron from jar; set aside. Combine remaining scone mix with butter, cutting butter into mix with a pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Combine 1 egg and cream together, beating lightly. Stir egg mixture into flour mixture until soft dough forms. Knead dough on a lightly floured surface, turning 5 or 6 times. Roll dough to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut into 2 inch rounds. Place scones on greased baking sheet. Beat together 1 egg and 1 tablespoon water. Brush egg wash over top of scones. Bake at 425° F for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Makes about 24 scones.

Four Bean Chorizo Chili Mix

3/4 cup dried white beans
3/4 cup dried kidney beans
1/2 cup dried pinto beans
1/2 cup dried black beans
4 to 6 dried jalapeno peppers
Corn husk garni (see recipe)

Layer mix ingredients into a quart home canning jar in the order given. Adjust cap. Prepare corn husk garni. Attach corn husk garni and recipe card to jar.

1 quart Four Bean Chorizo Chili Mix
1 1/2 cups finely diced onion
1/2 pound chorizo
2 tablespoons canola oil
1 pound plum tomatoes, diced
1 (14.5 ounce) can tomato puree
2 cups water or cooking liquid from beans
1 lime, optional
Corn husk garni
Salt

Cook beans separately in water to cover by 1" inches until almost tender. Drain, reserving cooking liquids for soup, except from black beans if desired. Remove casing from sausage; crumble sausage. Crush dried jalapeno peppers. Saute sausage, crushed peppers and onion in oil until cooked through. Raise heat to medium high and continue cooking until ingredients become richly brown but not burned. Drain sausage and onion on a paper towel. Combine all ingredients in a large stockpot. Simmer soup 15 minutes. Season to taste with salt. Continue simmering 15 minutes. Remove corn husk garni.

Note: If there is not enough liquid in soup, add additional water or cooking liquid from beans.

Corn Husk Garni

3 thin corn husks
4 cloves garlic, unpeeled
6 to 8 sprigs dried oregano, broken (Mexican if available)
1 tablespoon black peppercorns

Layer 2 corn husk together, turning base ends in opposite direction. Tear remaining corn husk into thin strips lengthwise. Place garlic, oregano and peppercorns in center of layered corn husks. Fold long sides toward center, then bring ends together, forming a packet. Tie ends securely with strips of corn husk.

Sour Cream Corn Bread Mix

1 1/2 cups stone ground cornmeal
3/4 cup flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons toasted cumin seeds, ground

Combine cornmeal, flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Lightly toast cumin seeds in oven at 350° F. Cool. Grind toasted cumin seeds with mortar and pestle or in food processor. Stir ground cumin seeds into flour mixture. Pack into pint home canning jar. Adjust cap. Attach recipe card to jar.

For Sour Cream Corn Bread

1 pint jar Sour Cream Corn Bread Mix
2 large eggs
2/3 cup milk
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoon unsalted butter, melted

Combine eggs and milk, lightly beating with a whisk or fork. Add sour cream and butter, lightly beating until well blended. Stir in corn bread mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Bake in a 9 x 9 inch pan at 425° F for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 9 servings.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Shiny and colorful is the stack of fat advertising inserts that arrive daily.

Buy, buy, buy! Spend, spend, spend!

Lavish consumerism and boisterous use of your credit card will assure you of a festive holiday season, a spirit of good will, glorious happiness and a feeling of good cheer.

Yeah, right. Bah. And, humbug.

Even if we subscribed to that mass marketing mentality, excessive drought, followed by excessive rain, blended with a state of farming economics dragged down extremely low, for extremely long, assured that most of us here on the farm couldn't "spend, spend, spend" even if it was our heart's greatest desire.

At our household, and those of many other folks we know, it isn't. And, it never was.

Increasingly commercialized holiday hype leaves me more frustrated every year. Shopping last week for some routine items just a few days prior to the grand rollout of the season was both enlightening and amusing. Some of the items being run on sales seemed priced higher than at other times of the year.

Buy, buy, buy! Spend, spend, spend!

Move over Scrooge. Bah and humbug.

Don't you feel guilty for not helping to boost the national economy, those of you (and I) who refuse to drop one penny for cheaply made, overpriced, hot, trendy, over-hyped junk and shoddy, flimsy toys. Or those requiring a truckload of batteries.

Are we showing our age here? Does anyone remember folks out at the crack of dawn pounding on mall doors to push and shove for a Cabbage Patch doll?

We love Christmas music here and few pieces are more beautiful than many of the traditional carols. Many of the new, contemporary pieces are especially haunting, even more special because of the limited time in which we normally enjoy them.

But being serenaded by "Gramdma Got Run Over By A Reindeer" while milking on Thanksgiving Day evening was just waaayyyy too early for such musical entertainment. Even if I do giggle every time I hear it.

Hey, even Scrooge is allowed a little cockeyed humor.

There really are very simple, beautiful and meaningful ways to still celebrate the season. And they don't take batteries.

Fresh, sharp-scented real pine trees, wonderfully fragrant. Glowing candles, dancing in the dark. Little kids bright, innocent eyes as they wait to chat with Santa. Red-ribboned wreaths bedecking doorways. Cookies baking in the oven.

Tons of folks who share the spirit spending hours, days, weeks, to create displays of light and color, from main highways and to tiny back roads. Shoppers who drop their change into the kettles manned by bell-ringers, or share with others in a myriad of other ways. Everyone who helps in some way to boost the spirits of our military men and women serving around the world.

Despite the fistfuls of advertising inserts, endless media commercials, high-tech electronic gadgetry and eager-beaver music programmers, we still fall back on the simplest of things to share at the holidays with our beloved little folks. Art supplies, like bright colored paper, markers, paints, or a brand new, great-smelling, large-sized box of crayons. Individual rolls of clear tape. Gel pens, glitter pens, name pens, glue pens, even glitzy pencils are all fun and useful.

Books are unbeatable. Stickers are always welcomed. Last year, I discovered a grandson decorating his wall with colorful Christmas stickers — which just happened to be his mom's unused 37-cent holiday postage stamps.

No glossy ad inserts are needed for finding any of the above. However, we have discovered one redeeming factor of those heavy stacks of holiday advertising, though.

Society To Sponsor Visit To Mifflinburg 'Christkindl Market'

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — For their annual Christmas trip, the Lancaster Mennonite Historical Society is sponsoring a visit to the Mifflinburg "Christkindl Market," Saturday, Dec. 13.

The trip — which includes round-trip transportation to Mifflinburg In Snyder County, all admissions, and the evening meal — will cost $82.50 per person for members, $92.50 for non-members, and $76 per person for groups of six or more.

The motor coach will leave the Historical Society at 8 a.m. and return about 7 p.m. The evening meal will be served at Camp Hebron on the way home.

The Society reports that its Christmas trip typically fills up early and early registration is suggested for this year's excursion to Mifflinburg. Local churches, organizations, schools, and residents participate in this traditional, annual festive time, preparing over 60 huts filled with treats, gifts, and crafts for the shoppers who stroll along Market Street.

For more information, contact Brinton L. Rutherford, Lancaster Mennonite Historical Society, 2215 Millstream Road, Lancaster, PA 17602; day phone (717) 393-9745, evening (717) 464-4183; email: brutherford lmhs.org.

National Death Rate Figures Creep Upward

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Work fatalities in agriculture increased two percent in 2002, while the all-industry average declined by three percent according to the National Safety Council. Agriculture ranked second behind the mining/quarrying industry with 21 deaths per 100,000 workers, or approximately 730 deaths.

The Council also reported that tractor incidents remain the number one cause of death in agriculture. A majority of the fatalities are caused by tractors overturning without rollover protection and a seat belt.

Other tractor-related fatalities result from victims being run over by tractors, highway collisions betwen tractors and other vehicles, and fires during equipment refueling.

Farm-related fatalities in Pennsylvania were at an all-time low in 2002, so perhaps the state is bucking the national trend.

Capturing Your Family's Holiday History, Traditions

Over the years, most families pass down their own special holiday traditions.

Some of these traditions are fairly recent, but what about the ones that go way back?

Wouldn't it be great to sit down with the older relatives and find out what the holidays were like for them when they were growing up?

Many older relatives have very clear memories of the past and would like to share them with interested family members. These stories are unique treasures, but they will be forgotten if they are not recorded. One way to keep these valuable memories alive is to record your older relatives answering questions about their past holiday experiences.

Decide which relatives you would like to talk to. You could interview older parents, grandparents, aunts, and uncles.

Decide if you are going to talk with individuals or in a group.

Decide how you will record the interview. Audiotapes are simple to create and easy to play back and store. Video recordings can capture facial expressions and gestures. Use whatever you feel most comfortable with.

Ask specific questions, but open-ended questions might result in more expansive answers.

Allow the interviewee plenty of time to answer.

Be sensitive, but don't necessarily shy away from sad or painful memories. They can be important part of somebody's holiday memories and teach us a great deal.

Try to have some background information about the history times and places your relative will be talking about.

Have a questioning strategy. You might want to start with the subject's earliest memories and work forward or do it the other way around.

Here are some examples of questions you could ask:

What are your earliest holiday memories?

What kinds of foods did you or your families prepare and eat during the holidays?

Are their any special decorations you remember from your earlier years?

What was shopping and gift-giving like when you were growing up?

How are the holidays today different than they were years ago?

Capturing holiday history through interviews can be interesting and fun for the entire family as well as a way of preserving holiday traditions for generations to come. Remember that your relatives are part of who you are and how you celebrate your holidays.

Marketing Educators Surveying Young Farmers

PHILADELPHIA — Research shows that Pennsylvania farmers are getting older and that fewer young people are interested in becoming farmers.

Dr. Diane Phillips, associate professor and chair of the Department of Marketing at Saint Joseph's University, and Dr. Jason Phillips, assistant professor of marketing at West Chester University, have been awarded a $50,000 research grant from the Center for Rural Pennsylvania to understand the needs and concerns of young Pennsylvania farmers.

As part of the study, a full-scale survey is being mailed to young farmers throughout the state. The project, entitled "The Future of Farming in Pennsylvania: An Investigation into the Needs and Concerns of Pennsylvania's Young Farmers," is a 14-month study that began in January 2003.

"We believe that if the State of Pennsylvania is to maintain its heritage as a rural state, it must find ways to encourage young farmers to continue farming, as well as promote farming as a personally and financially rewarding occupation to other young people," said Dr. Phillips.

"The findings will be provided to The Center for Rural Pennsylvania to be distributed to key audiences, such as state legislators, nonprofit organizations, and farm advocates," she added. "Our policy recommendations will focus on access to capital, the use of direct marketing opportunities, and responses to increasing land values in Pennsylvania that make it difficult to buy land."

The input of every young farmer (18 to 35 years of age) in Pennsylvania is critical to the success of the project. Young farmers who participate in the survey will provide valuable information to researchers who can then offer practical recommendations for farm policies and programs. Farmers who have not yet received their survey should contact Dr. Diane Phillips at (610) 660-3232 or via e-mail dphillip@sju.edu.

Jar It For Gift Giving

A few years ago, delicious recipes to create cookie mixes in the jar provided unique gift items. Since then, the idea has expanded to include "jarring" mixes for soups, casseroles, beverages, and much more.

Enjoy these recipes from our readers and those on page B2. You're sure to find plenty of ideas to satisfy your gift giving needs.

CHEESY HAM AND POTATO CASSEROLE MIX

2 cups powdered coffee creamer
½ cup imitation bacon bits
2 (1.5 oz) packages Knorr Four Cheese Sauce Mix
2 tablespoons dried parsley
1 teaspoon salt-free seasoning
1 teaspoon dried minced onion
½ teaspoon black pepper
2 cups potato flakes

Layer ingredients in order given in a wide-mouth quart jar. Pack each layer in place before adding the next one.

Attach card with these directions:

1 jar cheesy ham and potato mix
4-5 cups boiling water
1¼ cup diced ham

Place mix in large casserole dish. Add boiling water. Mix well and let stand 5 minutes. Heat ham in microwave and stir in.

Contributor writes that books featuring jar mixes can be purchased from Ag Products, 507 Industrial St., Waverly, IA 50677.

CHILI TOMATO MACARONI MIX

½ cup plus 2 tablespoons instant dry milk
⅓ cup cornstarch
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon chicken or beef bouillon
2 teaspoons dried minced onion
¼ teaspoon dried basil
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2 teaspoons parsley flakes
1 teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons chili powder
3 cups elbow macaroni

Layer in order given into quart jar. Pack each layer before adding the next ingredients.

Attach card with these instructions:

1 jar chili tomato macaroni mix
1½ pounds ground beef
3 (15-ounce cans) chopped tomatoes
2 cups water

Brown ground beef in skillet in small amount of oil. Drain off fat. Add contents of jar, tomatoes, and water. Simmer covered, for 20 minutes or until macaroni is tender, stirring often.

Nancy Kramer
Lebanon

CRANBERRY PECAN CRUNCH COOKIE MIX

⅔ cup dried cranberries
½ cup toasted pecans
½ cup dark brown sugar
1 cup Bisquick
½ cup light brown sugar
1 cup Bisquick

Layer ingredients in order given into a widemouth quart jar. Pack each layer in place before adding the next layer. (The Bisquick listed twice is correct.)

Attach gift card with these directions:

1 jar cranberry pecan cookie mix
½ cup softened butter, melted
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In medium bowl, cream butter, egg, and vanilla. Add cookie mix, and stir until blended. Shape into one-inch balls. Place on greased baking sheet. Bake 10-12 minutes or until light golden brown. Transfer to racks to cool.

To toast pecans, place in single layer on a baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until golden brown.

Nancy Kramer
Lebanon

APPLE CINNAMON PANCAKE MIX

3 cups all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons cinnamon
2¼ tablespoon sugar
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup diced, dried apple pieces

Mix all ingredients well. Place in wide-mouth quart jar.

Attach gift card with the following directions: to make 5 servings:

1⅓ cups pancake mix
¼ cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

Combine milk, egg, and oil. Whisk in pancake mix until moistened but still lumpy. Lightly oil a griddle or frying pan over medium heat. Pour ¼ cup batter at a time onto prepared pan. Cook on both sides until golden.

Nancy Kramer
Lebanon

SOUTHERN PEACH TEA MIX

1 cup instant tea mix
3-ounce box instant peach-flavored gelatin
2 cups sugar

Combine all ingredients, mixing well. Makes 3½ cups.

Nancy Kramer

HOT CHOCOLATE MALT MIX

25-ounce package powdered milk
16-ounce jar powdered non-dairy creamer
16-ounce jar hot chocolate mix
13-ounce jar malted milk powder
1 cup confectioners' sugar
2 cups mini marshmallows

Use wire whisk to combine ingredients. Equally divide into four ziplock bags. Include these instructions: Place 3 tablespoons mix into mug. Add 1 cup boiling water. Stir well.

Nancy Kramer

ORANGE SPICE CAPPUCCINO MIX

½ cup non-dairy powdered creamer
½ cup sugar
¼ cup instant coffee granules
2 teaspoons dried orange zest
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine all ingredients in food processor. Blend until well mixed. Makes 2½ cups.

SWEDISH FRUIT SOUP

½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons pearl tapioca
½ cup dried papaya, diced
½ cup golden raisins
½ cup dried apricots, diced
½ cup dried pineapple, chopped
½ cup dried plums, chopped
Dried zest from one lemon
3-inch stick cinnamon, broken
6 whole cloves
3 cardamom pods

Layer ingredients in a widemouth pint jar in the order given. Cover with a tightly fitting lid. Tie spices in a square of cheesecloth and attach to the outside of the jar.

Gift tag directions:

Swedish Fruit Soup

In a large saucepan, combine all jar ingredients, 4 cups water, and 2 cups orange juice. Add spice bag and bring to a boil over high heat, reduce heat and simmer 30-40 minutes or until fruit is tender. Remove spice bag. Makes 10-12 half-cup servings.

PASTA SOUP IN A JAR

½ cup macaroni
¼ cup dried lentils
¼ cup dried, chopped mushrooms
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese, grated
1 tablespoon onion flakes
1 tablespoon chicken soup base
1 teaspoon dried parsley
½ teaspoon oregano
1 dash garlic powder

In one pint jar, layer ingredients in this order: spice mixture, macaroni, lentils, mushrooms. Store with tightly sealed lid, until needed. Attach the following recipe with a tag to give as a gift:

Basic Pasta Soup

Combine contents of jar with 3 cups water in 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat. Cover and simmer 40 minutes or until lentils are tender, stirring occasionally. Makes 4 servings.

APPLE CINNAMON SYRUP

6 cups apple juice
3 sticks cinnamon, broken
5 cups sugar
4 cups water
3 cups corn syrup
¼ cup lemon juice

Combine apple juice and cinnamon sticks in a saucepot. Simmer 5 minutes; set aside. Combine sugar and water in a medium saucepot; boil to 230 degrees. Add apple juice, cinnamon stick and corn syrup to sugar syrup. Boil 5 minutes. Remove cinnamon sticks. Stir in lemon juice. Ladle into hot jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Add two-piece caps. Process 10 minutes in a boiling water bath canner. Do not add cornstarch before canning.

Gift tag directions:

Apple Cinnamon Syrup

Refrigerate after opening. If a thicker syrup is desired for serving, combine 1 cup syrup and 1 tablespoon cornstarch in a small saucepan. Bring to a boil, cooking until syrup thickens.

Nancy Wiker
Lancaster extension agent

PRALINE SYRUP

2 cups corn syrup
⅓ cup dark brown sugar
½ cup water
1 cup pecan pieces
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine syrup, sugar, and water in a saucepot. Bring to a boil; boil one minute. Reduce heat; stir in pecans and vanilla; simmer six minutes. Ladle hot syrup into hot jars, leaving ¼-inch headspace. Adjust two-piece caps. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath canner. Yield: about 4 half pints.

Note: For lighter molasses flavor, use light corn syrup and light brown sugar.

Featured Recipe

The best gifts are handmade, and the smaller the hands, the more we appreciate the gift.

Rather than giving your kids money to buy presents for their grandparents and teachers, help them make something special using on-hand ingredients from your kitchen.

Cookies in a Jar are as fun to make as they are to give, and every grownup on your child's list will love these wholesome oat cookies chock full of dried cranberries and crunchy walnuts.

COOKIES IN A JAR

2¼ cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cups vegetable shortening
6 cups oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
4 (1 quart each) clear, unbreakable plastic jars
2 cups dried cranberries
2 cups walnuts, chopped

Note: Chocolate chips may be substituted for cranberries.

In a large bowl, combine flour, salt, and baking soda. Add sugars, mix well. Cut in shortening with two knives until crumbly. Stir in oats. In one-quart jar, layer 1⅓ cups cookie mix, ½ cup cranberries, 1 cup cookie mix, ½ cup nuts, and 1 cup cookie mix. Seal jar tightly with lid. Repeat using remaining mix, cranberries, and nuts to fill three more jars.

Add gift tags with the following directions:

To prepare cookies: Heat oven to 350 degrees. In a large bowl, combine 1 egg, ¼ cup water, and 1 teaspoon vanilla, mix well.

Ad entire contents of one jar of Cookies in a Jar, stir with a fork until stiff dough forms. Drop by rounded tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake 13-16 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool 10 minutes on cookie sheets. Remove to wire racks. Cool Completely. Store tightly covered. Makes 2½ dozen.

Keep Children Safe From Foodborne Illness During The Holidays

Parties with mouth-watering food buffets are sure to be in abundance during this holiday season. Consumers need to be 'food smart" for themselves and their children when enjoying these holiday goodies according the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Parents need to learn and use good food safety practices during the holidays and all through the year to protect the health of their children. Preventing foodborne illness during holiday parties is critical. Scientific data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention show that children under the age of 10 have higher incidences of Salmonella illnesses, a common foodborne illness, than any other age group.

When serving food at a holiday gathering, it is important to maintain safe temperatures. Hot foods like turkey, ham, stuffing, chicken fingers and meatballs should be served hot and replenished frequently.

Cold foods, such as chicken salad or potato salad, should be served and kept cold. A helpful hint is to prepare extra serving platters and dishes ahead of time, store them in the refrigerator or keep them hot in the oven (set at approximately 200 250 F) prior to serving.

It is important to remember that any perishable foods on the buffet table that are not served with a hot source (such as chafing dishes or slow cookers) or cold source (such as by nesting serving dishes in bowls of ice) should be discarded after two hours at room temperature.

Bacteria can also multiply quickly in moist desserts that contain dairy products. Keep eggnog, cheesecakes, cream pies, and cakes with whipped-cream and cream-cheese frostings refrigerated right up until serving time.

A variety of holiday foods may contain raw eggs or lightly cooked eggs. Most commercially sold eggnog is pasteurized, meaning that the mixture has been heated to a temperature high enough to kill harmful bacteria that may have been present in the raw ingredients. However, if you're making your own eggnog, be sure to use a recipe that calls for slowly heating the mixture to 160 F. This will maintain the taste and texture while also killing bacteria.

It might be tempting to let your child eat raw cookie dough or lick the beaters after mixing cake batter, but do not let the child taste raw dough or cake batter. If the dough or batter contains raw eggs, it could also contain Salmonellaa leading cause of foodborne illness.

Always follow the four basic food safety steps:

- Clean. Wash hands and surfaces often.
- Separate. Separate raw meat, poultry, and egg products from cooked foods to avoid cross-contamination.
- Cook. Raw meat, poultry, and egg products need to be cooked thoroughly. Use a food thermometer to ensure foods have reached a high enough temperature to kill any harmful bacteria that may be present.
- Chill. Store leftovers within two hours of cooking.

Union County Extension Conducts Annual Meeting

MIFFLINBURG (Union Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension in Union County conducted their Annual Meeting Nov. 14 at Christ's United Lutheran Church in Millmont.

Donald Shirk, board president, opened the event by welcoming staff, board members and special guests. Andrew and Douglas Richard (Lucky Clover 4-H members) led the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H pledge.

Following dinner, Shirk recognized the outgoing board members — William Callahan, Stacie Katherman, Rebecca Rishel, Barbara Wiand, John Zimmerman and Madeline Zimmerman — and welcomed the incoming members — Crystal Bollinger, Robert O. Brouse, Jr., Andrew Richard, Guy Temple and Charles Tressler.

Jill Broschart, 4-H agent, presented the 4-H Community Service and Superclub Awards to the Lucky Clovers 4-H Club. Also recognized were teen leaders Andrew Richard and Douglas Richard, Lucky Clovers 4-H Club, and Cayce Walter and Sarah Welteroth, Union County Valley Riders 4-H Club.

Patricia Grenoble (Lewisburg teacher and director of SIMON House 4-H Club) presented an award to Rick Mills of Weis Markets for their support of cooperative extension programming in Union County.

Grenoble's class piloted "Exploring the Food Business," a new 4-H program that focuses on careers available in the food industry.

The 4-Hers followed one food commodity from the field to the table. The group chose dairy products and visited a local dairy farm, Weis dairy processing plant, a local Weis Market, their testing lab and visited the CEO of the Weis Markets during a board meeting.

The students participated in testing a new Weis Market product and were encouraged to develop their own dairy product. The students developed a product, planned the advertising campaign and test marketed the product at Linntown Elementary School.

Grenoble contributed to its success. Ms. Grenoble and her students will showcase their program at Penn State's In-Service training in March of 2004. Because of the success of this pilot program it will now be a statewide initiative.

Mark Madden from Sullivan County, representing the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA), presented the "Distinguished Service" Award to Norman Conrad, extension multi-county agronomy agent. Norman was recognized for his programming in nutrient management, crops and soils and Integrated Pest Management (IPM).

Guest presenter, Keith Phelps, Manager of Country Farm and Home, Mifflinburg, walked us through "Getting Your Garden Ready for Winter." Phelps ended with a great spring flower idea that three lucky volunteers got to complete at the program. Ask Cara Brouse, Madeline Zimmerman and Elizabeth Overcash how to plant a beautiful daffodil, tulip and crocus flower pot.

The Central Susquehanna Counties' (Columbia, Lycoming, Montour, Northumberland, Snyder and Union) Annual Report was distributed to all attendees. Community members can pick a copy of this report at the Union County extension office at 343 Chestnut Street, Mifflinburg, between the hours of 8:00 and 4:30 weekdays.

The evening concluded with remarks about the "State of Cooperative Extension in Pennsylvania" by Shirley Bixby, Regional Director for the Susquehanna Region, Penn State Cooperative Extension and Outreach. She also reported on the status of the state budget for education.

M. Annette Kratzer, county extension director recognized Stein's Flowers, Lewisburg, and Phyllis Swanger, board member, for the lovely table center pieces. She also thanked the planning committee, board members, county commissioners, staff and 4-H volunteers for their continuing support of the cooperative extension programming.

QUESTION — Patricia Harden, Trappe, Md., wants a recipe for chow chow that tastes like that served at Shady Grove Restaurant.

ANSWER — A faithful reader from Cumberland County wanted recipes to make really light fluffy country-style biscuits and all kinds of doughnut recipes especially the cake type. Thanks to Mary Beth Grove, dairy extension agent from Mt. Joy, for sending a recipe passed down from her Great Aunt Louise, a former Virginia farm wife who still makes these biscuits to mail to her grandchildren. The biscuits keep beautifully and are unusually fluffy and delicious.

Aunt Louise's Angel Biscuits

5 cups unsifted flour
¼ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons dry yeast
2 tablespoons warm water
1 cup shortening
2 cups buttermilk

Stir together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening. Dissolve yeast in warm water and add to buttermilk. Stir all ingredients together, mixing well. Turn onto lightly floured board, knead 30 seconds. Roll to ½-inch thick, cut with biscuit cutter, prick with fork and bake at 400 degrees for 10-12 minutes until done. Don't worry about quantity; these keep well and freeze well also for reheating.

Here is a requested doughnut recipe from Marian Martin, Lebanon.

No Fry Doughnuts

2 tablespoons dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1½ cups warm milk
⅓ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
4½-5 cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup margarine, melted

In a mixing bowl, dissolve yeast in water. Add milk and shortening, stir for one minute. Add sugar, eggs, salt, nutmeg, cinnamon, and 2 cups flour. Beat on low speed until smooth. Stir in enough remaining flour to form a soft dough. Do not knead. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about one hour. Punch down dough. Turn onto a floured surface. Roll out to ½-inch thickness. Cut with doughnut cutter, place 2-inches apart on greased cookie sheets. Brush with butter. Cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Glaze or powder with sugar if desired.

Thanks to Shirley Orfanella, Quarryville, for sending this doughnut recipe.

Golden Cake Donuts

3½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs
1¼ cups sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sour milk

Sift together dry ingredients but not sugar. Combine eggs, sugar, butter, and vanilla in electric mixer. Beat until fluffy. Beat in 2 cups dry ingredients alternately with milk. Stir in remaining flour mixture with spoon. Cover dough, refrigerate at least two hours. Roll out dough into ¼-inch thick rectangle. Cut with donut cutter and fry in hot deep oil until golden.

ANSWER — Esther Zimmerman requested a venison recipe to can. Thanks to Janet Lawton, Wellsboro, for sending the recipe she uses that requires only 30 minutes processing time in a pressure canner.

Venison To Can

Cube venison in 1-inch cubes. Add to clean sterile jars. Add 1 teaspoon salt for quarts or ½ teaspoon salt for pints. Add water to within ½-inch of top for pints or to within ¾-inch for quarts.

Wipe rim of jars dry with clean paper towels, put on sterilized lids, tightened by hand. Follow pressure cooker directions for processing.

Thanks to Thelma Landis, Ephrata, who sent a similar recipe for canning venison. Thelma also writes that she cans venison meatballs with the following recipe.

Canned Venison Meatballs

5 pounds ground venison meat
1 teaspoon steak sauce
1 tablespoon brown sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix and form into meatballs. Pack raw into jars. Seal. Pressure cook for 30 minutes.

ANSWER — Peggy Chirico, Canadensis, wanted a recipe to make pumpkin butter that tastes like the kind made by Baumans. Thanks to a reader for sending the following.

Pumpkin Butter

10 cups pumpkin or winter squash, raw and cut in several small pieces
2 lemons (juice and rind)
1 tablespoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
2½ pounds brown sugar
1 cup water

Peel pumpkin or squash. Extract juice from lemons. Put pumpkin and lemon rind through food chopper. Add spices, sugar and lemon juice. Let stand overnight. In the morning, add water. Boil gently until thick and clear. Pour in sterilized jars and seal while hot.

ANSWER — Claire Wedell, Lumberton, N.J., needed a recipe for a good sweet potato pie. Thanks to Frances Homa, Alpha, N.J., for sending one.

Crunch Top Sweet Potato Pie

1¾ cups cooked, mashed sweet potatoes
1 cup frozen whipped topping, thawed
½ cup powdered sugar
4-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Coconut crust
¼ cup chopped pecans
¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter, melted
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dash ground nutmeg

Combine sweet potato, whipped topping, powdered sugar, cream cheese, and vanilla in a mixing bowl. Beat with electric mixer until smooth. Pour mixture into coconut crust.

Combine remaining ingredients, stirring well. Sprinkle over pie. Bake at 325 degrees about 10 minutes or until topping begins to brown. Chill thoroughly before serving. Yield: one 8-inch pie.

Coconut Crust:

3½-ounce can flaked coconut
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Combine coconut and butter. Press into an 8-inch pie plate. Bake at 325 degrees for 8-10 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool. Yield one 8-inch pie crust.

ANSWER — Thanks to a reader for sending mushroom soups recipes that she writes dinner guests love.

Mushroom Soup

Saute together:
¼ cup butter
1 medium onion, chopped
Add:
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
Cook 3-4 minutes.
Mix together:
¼ cup flour
2 cups chicken broth
⅔ cup whole milk

Add to onions and mushrooms. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened ⅓ cup light cream. Heat but do not boil. Garnish with 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Season to taste with salt and white pepper.

Country Mushroom Soup

1 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
2 tablespoon butter
4 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
4 cups chicken broth
2 tablespoons tomato paste
5 egg yolks
⅓ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons snipped parsley

Saute onion and garlic in butter until tender, taking care garlic does not burn. Add mushrooms, cook 10 minutes longer. Whisk broth and tomato paste into the mixture. Bring to a boil. Remove from heat. Combine. Add 1 cup hot liquid gradually, to temper egg yolks. Return to heat and cook just until simmering point. Add cheese and garnish with parsley.

DECADENT FUDGE SAUCE

12-ounces evaporated milk
12-ounces semisweet chocolate chips
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Heat milk and sugar just to boiling over medium heat in a 2-quart saucepan, add chocolate chips, return to a boil, stirring constantly until chocolate is melted and mixture is slightly thickened and smooth. Remove from heat and add butter and vanilla. Store in the refrigerator for up to 4 weeks or freeze.

Note: 2 tablespoons raspberry or orange liqueur can be substituted for vanilla.

Decadent Fudge Sauce

Serve warm fudge sauce over ice cream, spoon over cake or brownies, or use as a dipping sauce for fruit. Store in the refrigerator for up to four weeks or freeze.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE

8 tablespoons unsalted butter
⅔ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
⅔ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons water
¼ cup light corn syrup
¾ cup heavy cream
2 teaspoons vanilla extract

In a medium, heavy based saucepan, melt butter. Stir in two sugars, salt, water, and corn syrup. Bring mixture to a boil over medium-high heat, stirring to dissolve sugars. Let the mixture boil 5 minutes, stirring often. You will see big, slow bubbles as it boils. Remove sauce from heat. Carefully whisk in the cream and vanilla (the sauce may sputter). Allow sauce to cool to warm before serving. Store in the refrigerator in a covered container for up to two weeks.

Gift tag directions:

Butterscotch Sauce

Drizzle this butterscotch sauce over grilled fruit, bananas, or apple pie. Store covered in the refrigerator for up to two weeks.

Ida's Notebook

December already and time to start addressing Christmas cards. It surely takes time to write notes on them but by doing so we can keep in touch with faraway friends. It seems that each year we have to remove a few names, but then I'll add a new name as I make a new friend.

My husband has been cracking some of his older black walnuts to keep himself busy. Now I have plenty to put in cookies. That is another job for this month as I usually make dozens to give to my neighbors.

The other week we attended a travelogue on Alaska. It brought back memories of our trip there a few years ago. Many things that we saw were revisited and some new sights were shown.

Recently, there have been a number of funerals at our church. Our retired minister died suddenly and there was a large funeral. Many people came to show their respects and sympathize with the family. Most of the funerals have been older people, but even so, we hate to see them leave.

Our neighbor girl was married the other Tuesday. Many Amish teams passed our house on the way to the wedding. The father of the groom drove 30 miles but he stopped halfway and changed horses. Many people came in vans.

The father of the bride brought us a dish called "roast" which was a bread filling. And, the bride brought us a big piece of her wedding cake plus some fresh fruit. She and her husband will be our new neighbors as her parents plan to move to the smaller "grandfather" house on the farm.

My high school class had lunch together again and we had a chance to order pictures of our recent 65th anniversary. Some of my classmates travel long distances to be with the group every other month.

Take Action To Combat Epidemic Of Youth Obesity

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Did you know that one in seven children are obese and one in three are overweight? Seventeen percent of Pennsylvania youth are overweight according to the Pennsylvania Department of Health. Three out of four high school students do not eat the recommended five or more servings of fruits and vegetables each day. More than a third of young people in grades 9-12 do not participate in regular physical activity.

In response, concerned parents, community health professionals, and school personnel gathered to take action by becoming a Community Champion. Lancaster County's Community Champions are helping Pennsylvania Advocates for Nutrition and Activity (PANA) spread the word about the new Keystone Healthy Zone Campaign to promote physical activity and healthy eating.

Lancaster County's Community Champions are encouraging schools and communities to support the Keystone Healthy Zone Campaign. The campaign will recognize and reward schools for their efforts in supporting physical activity and good nutrition as part of the total learning environment.

If you would like to learn more about the Keystone Healthy Zone Campaign or becoming a Community Champion, visit the PANA Website at www.panaonline.org. You can also contact Nancy Wiker, extension educator with Penn State Cooperative Extension in Lancaster County (717) 394-6851 for more information about local actions.

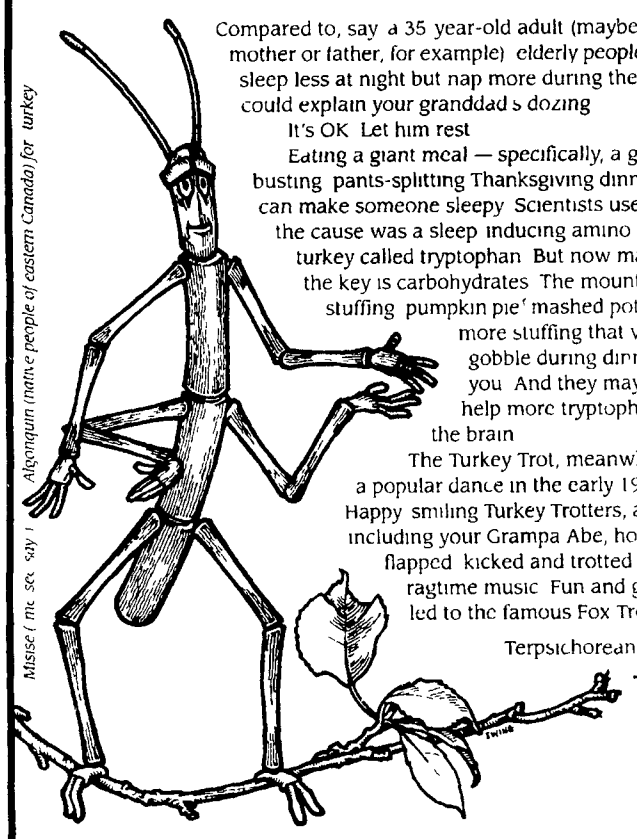
Smart Stuff with Twig Walkingstick

Dear Twig: Every Thanksgiving, my Grampa Abe says, "Ah, Thanksgiving! I think I'll do the Turkey Trot!" Then he falls asleep on the couch. What's that about?



Compared to, say a 35 year-old adult (maybe your mother or father, for example) elderly people tend to sleep less at night but nap more during the day That could explain your granddad s dozing

It's OK Let him rest

Eating a giant meal — specifically, a gut busting pants-splitting Thanksgiving dinner — also can make someone sleepy Scientists used to think the cause was a sleep inducing amino acid in turkey called tryptophan But now many say the key is carbohydrates The mountains of stuffing pumpkin pie' mashed potatoes and more stuffing that you gobble during dinner sedate you And they may also help more tryptophan reach the brain

The Turkey Trot, meanwhile was a popular dance in the early 1900s Happy smiling Turkey Trotters, apparently including your Grampa Abe, hopped flapped kicked and trotted to speedy ragtime music Fun and goofy it led to the famous Fox Trot

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible a map that shows every stream and lake He painstakingly plotted by hand the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map

The map sold extremely well--until it was lost several years later Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day"

Cookbook Author Helps People Lose Weight One Carbohydrate At A Time

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Dana Carpender's low-carb journey began eight years ago, but came dangerously close to failure when three weeks into her low-carb diet, a frightening thing happened: she walked into her kitchen and didn't have a clue what to serve for dinner.

For a girl whose friends had nicknamed her The God of Food, it was a scary, disorienting and disheartening moment. After all, years of creative, low-fat/high-carb cooking had left Dana with a repertoire of fabulous dishes. Unfortunately, all those low-fat/high-carb meals tasted great but had left Dana still a size 20, not to mention tired, and blood pressure pushing borderline high. For Dana, those recipes had to go!

By contrast, after just weeks of low-carb dieting, Dana had lost ten pounds, lowered her blood pressure and increased her energy dramatically. It was clear to her that this was the type of eating her body wanted and needed. Dana was a low-carb eater for life. But what to make for dinner every night!

It is usually at this point — the "I-can't-take-one-more-day-of-fried-eggs-for-breakfast-and-plain-steak-for-dinner" moment — that many otherwise successful low-carb dieters give up.

Not Dana!

Instead she vowed that she would become at least as good at low-carbohydrate cooking as she had been at low-fat cooking. So, after seven years of trial and error in the kitchen, and three years of publishing her very popular low-carb newsletter, Dana published 500 Low-Carb Recipes in October 2002. It has quickly become the best-selling low-carb cookbook in America, selling more than 250,000 copies and counting. And she has no plans to stop! Dana Carpender is the author of How I Gave Up My Low-Fat Diet and Lost 40 Pounds...And How You Can Too!, and her follow-up book, 15-Minute Low Carb Recipes.

Dana's biweekly newsletter, Lowcarbezine! goes out to 16,000 subscribers. As a low-carb diet spokesperson, Dana has appeared on radio, television and in print across the country. She and her husband live in Bloomington, Indiana.

A recent New York Times Magazine (July 7, 2002) cover story said that Dr. Atkins was right all along, "it's not fat that makes us fat but carbohydrates."

Though the government has spent hundreds of millions of dollars in research trying to prove that fat is the cause of obesity. There has been a subtle shift in the scientific consensus over the past five years supporting what the low-carb diet doctors have been saying all along: if we eat less carbohydrates, we will lose weight and live longer.

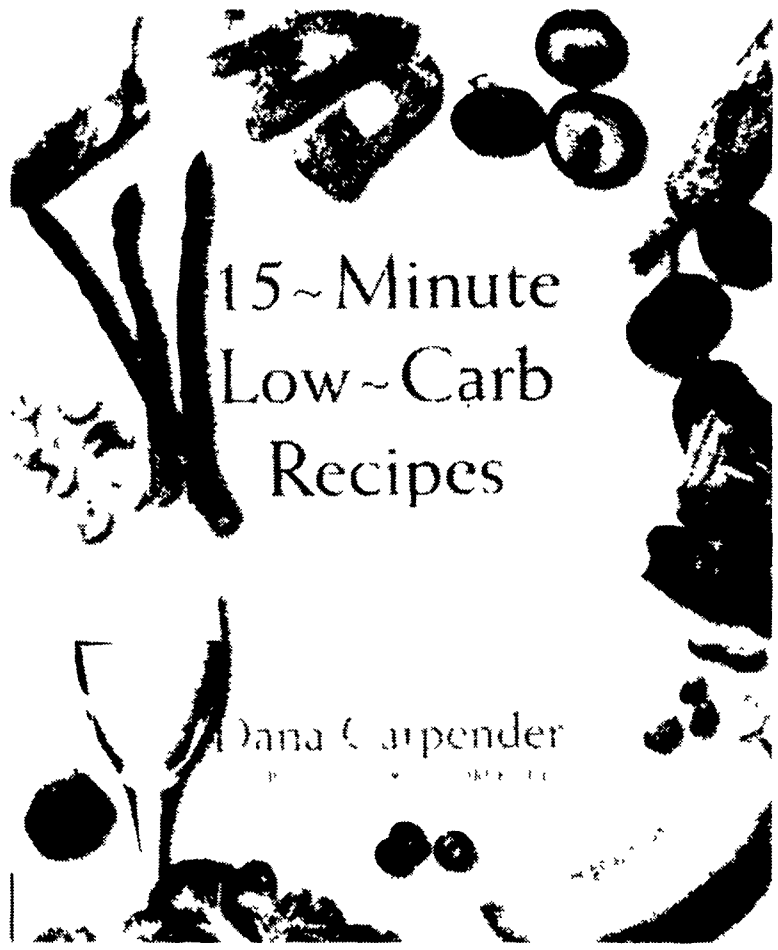
One of the toughest challenges of any diet is having enough variety and choices to keep the dieter from losing interest. The most common reason that people abandon their diet is boredom but "500 LOW CARB RECIPES: 500 Recipes, From Snacks to Dessert, That the Whole family Will Love" (Fair Winds Press/ October 2002/$19.95 trade paperback original) by Dana Carpender has more than enough recipes to keep even the most finicky dieter on track.

With recipes for everything including hors d'oeuvres, snacks, breads, muffins, side dishes, entrees, cookies, cakes and much more, this is an endless supply for creating meals for the whole family night after night. Whether everyone in the family is on a diet or not, these recipes are proven winners with adults and kids alike. Also included:

- Many one-dish meals for single people — main dish salads, skillet suppers that include meat and vegetables, and hearty soups that are a full meal in a bowl.
- Ideas for breaking out of old ways of looking at food with suggestions that save time and money and change what is considered a normal meal for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.
- Information about where to find low-carbohydrate speciality products and descriptions of low-carb specialty foods found in grocery stores everywhere.
- An entire chapter that lists and describes low-carb substitute ingredients such as fats and oils, flour substitutes, liquids, seasonings, and sweeteners.

Dieters will be pleased to know that they can eat foods like guacamole, omelets, pizza, steak, ham, and dessert without giving up great taste and still lose weight. Each of the 500 recipes includes a carbohydrate count to help calculate the total carb intake of each menu.

Here are some recipes from the cookbook.



"I feel like I've found my calling in life...to make it easy for people everywhere to eat what their bodies were meant to eat by developing delicious, easy-to-make low-carb recipes," said Dana Carpender.

CHILI LIME PORK STRIPS

Cut the strips for a Chili Lime Pork Salad or a Chili Lime Pork Omelet, or just wrap them up in low-carb tortillas with a little salsa and sour cream.

1 pound boneless pork loin (500 g)
1 to 2 tablespoons oil (15 to 30 ml)
1½ teaspoons chili powder (7 ml)
1 tablespoon lime juice (15 ml)

Slice the pork as thinly as you can (this is easier if the pork is half-frozen). Heat the oil in a large, heavy skillet over medium-high heat, and add the pork. Stir-fry the pork strips until they're nearly done — about 6 to 7 minutes — then stire in the chili powder and lime juice. Continue stirring and cooking for another 3 to 4 minutes. These strips keep well for a few days in a closed container in the fridge.

Yield: 4 servings, each with 1 gram of carbohydrates, a trace of fiber, and 23 grams of protein.

STRAWBERRY CRUNCH PARFAIT

In their book The GO-Diet, Drs. Goldberg and O'Mara explain that plain yogurt has far fewer carbs than the label would indicate because most of the lactose in the milk has been converted to lactic acid by the yogurt bacteria. Accordingly, they say that we can count just 4 grams of carbohydrates per cup of plain yogurt. Reading this, I added yogurt back to my low-carb diet, and it's never caused weight gain or rebound hunger for me, so I think Goldberg and O'Mara are right! This recipe is so versatile — it makes a great dessert, a phenomenal quick breakfast, or a delicious and nutritious snack. Enjoy!

3 ripe strawberries
1 tablespoon plus ¼ teaspoon Splenda
¼ cup plain yogurt
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
2 tablespoons Cinnamon Splenda Nuts, chopped a bit or 2 tablespoons Gram's Gourmet Flax 'n' Nut Crunchies (vanilla almond or cinnamon toast flavor) or other low-carb commercial granola-like product.

Cut the green hulls off your strawberries, and slice them thinly into a dish. Sprinkle them with ¼ teaspoon of the Splenda, and stir.

Combine the yogurt with the vanilla extract and the remaining tablespoon of Splenda, stirring well. Spoon over the strawberries. Top with the nuts or Flax 'n' Nut Crunchies, and devour!

Yield: 1 serving. Using the GO-Diet's carb count of 4 grams of carbohydrates per cup of plain yogurt, this has 12 grams of carbohydrates and 3 grams of fiber, for a total of 9 grams of usable carbs and 10 grams of protein.

Note: Feel free to substitute ¼ cup blueberries, blackberries, or raspberries, or even diced peaches. Make this in a clear glass dish, or even layer it in a parfait glass, and it'll look pretty enough for company.

CAULIFLOWER PUREE A.K.A. FAUXTATOES

This is a wonderful substitute for mashed potatoes with any dish that has a gravy or sauce. Feel free, by the way, to use frozen cauliflower instead; it works quite well here.

1 head cauliflower or 1½ pounds frozen cauliflower (750 g)
4 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper

Put the cauliflower in a microwaveable casserole with a lid, add a couple of tablespoons of water, and cover. Nuke it on high for 10 to 12 minutes, or until quite tender but not sulfury smelling. (You may steam or boil the cauliflower, if you prefer.) Drain it thoroughly, and put it through the blender or food processor until it's well pureed. Add butter, salt, and pepper to taste.

Yield: At least 6 generous servings, each with 5 grams of carbohydrates and 2 grams of fiber, for a total of 3 grams of usable carbs and 2 grams of protein.

SPANISH 'RICE'

Okay, this isn't really Spanish. It's not even authentically Mexican. And of course it's not rice. But it is passingly like the "Spanish Rice" my mom used to throw together to make a quick, one-dish meal out of hamburger! Feel free to use canned, diced tomatoes without the chilies if you don't like spicy food, although this is really quite mild.

1 pound ground round or other very lean ground beef
1 to 2 tablespoons oil
½ head cauliflower
½ green pepper, chopped
½ medium onion, chopped
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 14.5-ounce can diced tomatoes with green chilies
½ teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup water
Salt and pepper

Start browning the beef in the oil over medium-high heat. Meanwhile, run the cauliflower through the shredding blade of your food processor. Put the cauliflower in a microwavable casserole, add a tablespoon or two of water, cover, and microwave on high for just 5 minutes.

Go back to the beef and start breaking it up. When you've got just a little fat in the pan, add the pepper and onion, and saute them, too. When all the pink is gone from the meat, add the garlic, tomatoes, cumin, Worcestershire sauce, and water, and bring the whole thing to a simmer. Stir in the cauliflower "rice," cover, and let the whole thing simmer for 3 to 5 minutes. Salt and pepper to taste, and serve.

Yield: 4 or 5 servings. Assuming 4 servings, each will have 7 grams of carbohydrates and 1 gram of fiber, for a total of 6 grams of usable carbs and 23 grams of protein./

Schuylkill County 4-H'ers Excel At Fair

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — While dozens of bleating, mooing, and whinnying animals were being led onto the Schuylkill County Fairgrounds, hundreds of other exhibits were arriving at the fair. They came quietly, in boxes, bags, and children's hands, but they represented long months of hard work and learning.

These exhibits were 4-H project books and craftsall of them completed by local 4-H members in the course of learning about their chosen 4-H project areas. The exhibits were judged and 4-H'ers received ribbons for their efforts.

Craft Show Decks Museum's Halls With Holiday Finery

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Sections Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Employees and volunteers at the Winters Heritage House Museum weren't taking any chances this year.

Last year the museum's annual holiday craft show was snowed under by an early December storm, so organizers scheduled the fundraiser during the week before Thanksgiving.

The event not only allowed the museum to get a jump on decorating the facility for Christmas, but also drew shoppers eager for the Christmas season and hoping to do a little early holiday gift buying.

More than 20 vendors — offering stained glass, soaps, baskets, wreaths, ornaments, teddy bears, and other handcrafts — participated in the event.

The museum is a relative newcomer to the Elizabethtown area. Slated to be torn down in 1988, the building — a story and a half log structure — dubbed "Heritage House" was saved by local preservationists who collaborated and formed the Elizabethtown Preservation Associates (EPA).

After a year of documentary, archaeological, and structural research and planning, restoration began.

Originally used as a tenant house for one of the nearby farms, the house was relocated as the owner deemed it labor saving to relocate instead of rebuilding the house. During the move, the house was placed with the door and window on the property line, next to another log structure, so the openings were chinked closed and moved to another side of the house.

The oldest room, dated 1750, would have been the sleeping room for those living in the house.

Historians believe that because of the location of the large stone cooking fireplace (eastern gable end of the house) and the fact that the house was a log structure points to Scots-Irish inhabitants. Also, in what would have been a trash hole for the "Heritage House," historians found broken china cups and other artifacts that also pointed to Scots-Irish homeowners.

Located next to the Heritage House, and now part of the museum, is the 1812 house. Built in 1750, this house was also relocated, and was moved in 1812 when the owner, a widow, opted to live closer to town rather than on her farm. Both properties were joined in 1995 after a benefactor donated the "1812 House" property.

This brought about the change from Heritage House to Winters Heritage House Museum. Historians launched a second preservation effort and archaeological dig.

More recently, a new addition added to the rear of the 1812 house offers an exhibit hall, a genealogical library, and children's activity room upstairs. Additionally, in 1865, a commercial building was constructed adjacent to the log building. The museum now includes part of this building. In fact, one of that building's rooms now houses a gift shop in what must have been a notions shop, as historians found many buttons when the floor boards were pulled up.

Two display cases of artifacts found during excavation are located in the museum. however artifacts are not a focus of the museum, which is geared more toward teaching, rather than simply showing history.

It's a living history museum rather than a museum to go and look at artifacts," said Laura Cina, program director.

For example the Seiber Genealogy Library, housed in the museum, allows members of the public to use the database of obituaries and cemetery records to research family history. Additionally the EPA houses its office in the building. The museum also offers a Scots-Irish Community Festival and biennial Messiah benefit concert.

A quilting committee, herb study group, and spinning and weaving committee are another part of the museum's effort to teach history. Throughout the year the committees host programs and activities that are open to the public. Also during the year the museum hosts programs such as Heritage Camp, an event that helps students learn about such topics as Pennsylvania German or Native American themes. An antique appraisal show also helped raise money for the museum, said Cina.

Walking tours, story hours, and several Heritage Days also round out the museums' offerings to the public. The museum is also participating in Elizabethtown's Holiday Tour of Homes this year.

Although the museum is closed to the general public December through February, story hours covering topics such as Native Americans, stenciling, Pennsylvania Dutch, and natural dyes — will be conducted. Call the museum at (717) 367-4672 to confirm meeting dates.

Items offered at the craft show festively decorated the museum's oldest room, circa 1750.

Laura Cina, program director, stands near a few of the crafts offered for sale. The doorway pictured, chinked with wood and straw, was discovered when plaster was taken down, according to Cina.

This room, a kitchen built in 1847, was added when the original kitchen fell victim to a fire. A hearth cooking committee still stokes the old squirrel-tail oven to life to demonstrate baking and cooking several times throughout the year.

Elegant Tureens Served More Than Soups

Even the most humble stew or soup gets pizzazz when it comes to the table in a soup tureen. When first introduced in the late 17th century, tureens of silver and fine porcelain graced royal tables. At the same time, pottery tureens appeared on peasants tables, primarily for soup. These days, no matter what the material, tureens continue to add importance to mealtime or as a decorative accessory.

The earliest tureens came with platters or stands that have long

Antique Detective

Smaller tureens were used for gravy or sauces. By the Victorian era they were an important part of huge dinner services. In the 20th century they were no longer a part of everyday dining.

Over the years materials varied from sterling silver and Sheffield plate to porcelain, pottery, and pewter. These days collectors are partial to those made of Majolica pottery with colorful raised motifs, and often in animal, fish or vegetable shapes.

Early pottery and porcelain tureens often copied the current silver shapes. Tin-glazed (faience) pottery was made in the early 18th century in many countries.

Colorful examples were made in Spain, France and Germany. By the 19th century shapes included round and oval.

About 1708 the Meissen factory in Germany introduced the process of making the hard-paste porcelain we know today. Because of its durability and translucent body, it was easily turned into figural tureens by 1733. Most of those surviving are in museums, such as the Campbell Museum in Camden, New Jersey.

Chinese export porcelain dinner services had become popular in America and elsewhere by the late 18th century. Inexpensive at the time, when soup tureens from these dinner services show up at auction and in shows, depending on the rarity of the design, prices run into the thousands of dollars.

Most familiar these days are the tureens made in Staffordshire England in the 19th century, for the American market. They are known as "American Historical Views" depicting famous American landmarks, events and places. The scenes were transfer-printed with borders and rims in floral and shell motifs, that were unique to each factory. While dark blue is the color most associated with the wares, the china also came in purple, black, brown and rose.

CLUES: Reproductions of tureens are a problem with blue and white Chinese Export pieces and the 18th century "Chelsea" rabbit tureen. The rabbit was faked by Emile Samson in the late 19th century. However, fakes by Samson have become collectible in their own right, and not as costly as an original.

The revival of interest in Majolica has carried over to late 19th century Majolica tureens. They often had a dual purpose and were not only used for soups, but the food fad of the day "game pies." You can recognize the differance by the colorful designs featuring rabbits and gamebirds. The game pie tureens were made primarily by English potters such as Josiah Wedgwood & Sons and Minton. They are also referred to as game pie plates.

It is easy to confuse a tureen stand with a platter, especially earthenware made by Staffordshire potters and Wedgwood. Some tureen stands have handles. Others are in the oval tureen shape. Soup ladles can also be confused with punch ladles. In any case, should you come across them, hold on. Someday you may find the matching tureen. It's worth paying the high cost for the tureen, since those with stands go for big bucks.

Antiques Questions And Answers

This scene of a clock in a tower and landscape has mother-of-pearl inlays and I would like to know what it is worth.

J.W. - Jacksonville, FL

Your reverse painting on glass is one of the many mass produced in the late 19th century. It could sell in a shop for $200. The technique of reverse painting dates back several hundred years. Chinese Export examples individually done in the 19th century can sell for several thousand dollars.

This wall decoration has a spigot and a hole in the back for using it for some sort of liquid. It has "Haeger" on the back of it. What is it ? Is it of any antique value ? If so, what is it worth?

B.J. - Summerhill, PA

From your photo you have a "lavabo" made in the early 20th century by the Haeger pottery C ompany of Illinois. It usually contained water and came with a wash basin, placed underneath it. These days they are often used to decorate garden walls or as decorator accent. As is it could sell in a shop for $150 or more.

This wood-bake stove is in good condition. What would you think it is worth ? Who would buy it?

S.B. - Quarryvile, PA

From your photo you have what was known as a "smooth top" range, made in the 1930s . It was a transition range to help cooks used to wood/coal stoves. Yours looks like the early "Magic Chef" model, but you didn't tell me the maker's name that is on the oven door. Since prices vary widely from $1,000 up to $12,000 I suggest you contact The Antique Stove Association, Caroline Royske, PO Box 2101. Waukesha, WI 53187. Phone:(262)542-9190. A good source for kitchen collectibles information is "300 Years of Kitchen Collectibles by Linda Campbell Franklin" Published by Krause.

This photo is of a whale oil lamp found in the loft of a log cabin built in approximately 11776-78. I am interested in value and where to sellit.

V.S. - Leechburg, PA

My research shows that your whale oil lamp was probably made by the Sandwich Glass Company-1827-35. The font is of molded white glass made at that time. However, there is no brass collar that lowers the price.

However, it could sell at auction for $700 or more.Contact American Glass expert Stephen Fletcher, Skinner Galleries, 63 Park Plaza, Boston, MA 02116.

Send detailed description.

This painted china basket belonged to my late grandmother who died in 1937.

On the bottom , marked in green and brown is "TV" and "Limoges, France.

The kidney-shaped basket has a pearlized interior and exterior painted flowers.

What can you tell me about this piece?

F.K. - Morton Grove, IL

Your candy basket was handpainted on Limoges china blanks...possibly by one of your relatives, during the hand-painted china craze around the turn of the century. Newly appreciated, yours could sell in a shop for $125.

Traditional Rug Hooking Workshop

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Using strips of wool fabric, learn how to create a traditional rug hooked mat with noted folk artist, Tish Bachleda, Saturday, Jan. 24, 2004 from 1 p.m.-4 p.m. at the Brendle Museum in Schaefferstown. Hooked rugs were used as both floor coverings and on tables in the 18th and 19th centuries.

All materials to complete an 8×8-inch rug hooked mat are included. Students need to bring their own scissors and a 6- to 8-inch quilt hoop. Class size is limited to 10 people and is designed for ages 13 and up. Cost is $55 a person. Members of Historic Schaefferstown receive a discount.

This is one of Historic Schaefferstown's Saturday, hands-on workshops teaching colonial era and Pennsylvania German crafts and traditions. Advance registration and payment are required by Jan. 2, 2004 for this workshop.

To register, send participant's name, mailing address, phone number, and workshop fee to Historic Schaefferstown, Inc., P.O. Box 307, Schaefferstown, PA 17088. Classes fill-up early. For more information or to see if class is full, call HSI office at (717) 949-2244.

CWD Not Found In Deer Samples

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Samples taken from more than 500 hunter-killed Pennsylvania white-tailed deer during the 2002 two-week concurrent rifle deer season have tested negative for chronic wasting disease, according to representatives of the Pennsylvania Game Commission and state Department of Agriculture.

These tests were conducted by the Department of Agriculture's State Veterinary Laboratory in Harrisburg.

The Game Commission continues to wait for CWD test results from the samples collected from the 61 hunter-killed elk that were collected during the week-long elk hunt in November. According to Penn State University Animal Diagnostics Laboratory, results of the brucellosis and bovine tuberculosis tests for the elk were negative, however, the CWD tests are not yet complete. Testing of the elk samples is being conducted by the National Veterinary Services Laboratory in Ames, Iowa.

While the long anticipated test results brought a sigh of relief, the Game Commission will continue to monitor and collect deer and elk that appear. Plans are in place to continue random testing of hunter-killed deer, as well as all hunter-killed elk, during the 2003-2004 seasons.

"Although CWD has not been found in Pennsylvania, we must continue to be vigilant in our CWD monitoring efforts," said Vern Ross, Game Commission executive director. "The surveillance information we are gathering is important for the early detection of CWD.

First identified in 1967, CWD, is a transmissible spongiform encephalopathy (TSE) that affects members of the deer family (cervids), including white-tailed deer and elk. It is a progressive and always fatal disease, which scientists theorize is caused by an unknown agent capable of transforming normal brain proteins into an abnormal form. Once the abnormal form is created, it changes the shape of adjacent proteins and causes holes to form in brain tissue.

Anyone who sees deer or elk behaving oddly, that appear to be very sick, or that are dying for unknown reasons are urged to contact the nearest Game Commission Region Office. Individuals are not to kill the animal.

To learn more about CWD, visit the agency's WebSite (www.pgc.state.pa.us) and click on "Wildlife" and then select "Chronic Wasting Disease."

Jersey Sires Bred In Oregon To Enter A.I.

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — 7JE710 Sunset Canyon ANDERS, bred by Eric Leonard Silva, Beaver, Ore., has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement™ (PGA™) sire-sampling system. Based on his outstanding pedigree ANDERS is one of 35 Jersey bulls to enter the program in 2003.

In addition to being sampled through PGA cooperator herds, the young sire has been identified as a SUPER SAMPLER™. With this designation, his semen is available to all Jersey breeders.

Also, 7JE711 HERCULES of Maack Dairy, bred by Silva, and acquired from Maack Dairy, Cloverdale, Ore., has been chosen to enter the program.

Based in Plain City, Ohio, Select Sires Inc., is a federation of 10 farmer-owned and controlled-cooperatives. It provides highly fertile semen as well as excellence in service and programs to achieve its basic objective of supplying livestock breeders with America's best genetics at a reasonable price.

Farm Tractors Calendar Includes Two Pennsylvania Tractors

Vintage tractors from seven other states (Colorado, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, South Dakota, and North Carolina), and their owners appear on the 2004 Classic Farm Tractors Calendar's 15th edition.

The original calendar featuring all brands of vintage tractors was created by John Harvey, of Wilmington, Del., who at the time was a communications manager for DuPont Ag Products. Its purpose was to promote a new DuPont herbicide named "Classic."

The Model SG-26 and Model SG-36 will be available in limited numbers late 2003 and in full production in 2004. These grinders cut from 18-inch above ground to 10-inch below with a swing arc of 45 degrees and a maximum horizontal cut of 28 or 33 inches.

SureFoot™ stabilizer bar provides solid footing during operation. Standard rubber deflector helps control chips and debris during grinding. The SmoothCut welded two-piece cutting wheel, delivers higher productivity with it's unique tooth pattern design that produces a smoother cutting action, a parking stand for easy storage is provided.

Howard County Economic Development Authority Selects Agricultural Marketing Specialist For Mission

COLUMBIA, Md — Ginger Myers, agricultural marketing specialist with the Howard County Economic Development Authority (EDA), is participating in a three-week-long mission to Moldova as part of Citizens Network for Foreign Affairs (CNFA) Agribusiness Volunteer Program.

Funded by the Office of Private and Voluntary Cooperation of the U.S. Agency for the International Development, CNFA is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization dedicated to stimulating international economic growth in developing and emerging world markets.

Through partnerships between the public and private sector, CNFA works to foster sustainable development and create market-oriented, economically viable enterprises where none or few existed before. The long-term goal of its Agribusiness Volunteer Program is to develop private farmer associations, cooperatives, private agribusinesses, women and young farmer groups, and other organizations that can help people increase their incomes and well-being. The program also provides U.S. farmers, agribusiness professionals, and other agriculturists the opportunity to help build democracy and market economies by sharing their expertise with aspiring entrepreneurs across the globe. Since 1993 more than 600 volunteers have participated in the program.

"We are very proud that Ginger Myers has been chosen to play an important role in such a mission," said Howard County Executive Jim Robey. "The agricultural sector in Howard County adds greatly to our business diversity and is an important aspect of the local economy. Ginger Myers' commitment to agricultural marketing efforts locally as well as on an international level is commendable."

"I chose to accept this assignment with CNFA because it deals with helping a newly formed vegetable growers cooperative develop a marketing plan," said Myers. "The plan will serve as a road map for business development."

During the week, Myers will be staying in the village with a board member of the cooperative she will be working with The bathing facilities in the village are very modest (no hot water). However, the hosts will provide all cooking and cleaning services. On her weekends, which will be her "time off," Myers will be staying at the SED Volunteer apartment in the Capital City Chisinau. While there, Myers will have full access to bathing and cooking facilities and laundry and cleaning services.

"I'm sure I'll come home with a deepened appreciation for hot water, refrigeration, and a daily shower. But I'm going to live with the people of Moldova on their terms, not mine," Myers said.

With a population of about 4.4 million, Moldova's main industrial activity is agricultural processing, which is comprised of wine production and the processing of fruits and vegetables. Chimsem, which is a cooperative established in Moldova in 2001, began active operations in January of this year. Because the cooperative did not have enough working capital, its activity is based on orders of various vegetables, sunflower, and cereal seeds collected from the individual farmers, most of which prepay in advance Today, Chimsem has orders for vegetables and cereal seeds from more than 150 clients. Chimsem spreads the word about its services by posting advertisements around the village, which had resulted in 30 new customers during the month of March. Word-of-mouth communication however, continues to produce the most results.

During 2003, Chimsem intends to expand its product offerings to include sale of fertilizers and chemicals. Because of a lack of competition, Chimsem has the potential to reach a membership base that includes up to 800 farmers working individually in the neighboring villages. Chimsem management understands that in order to accomplish these goals, a local market study needs to be conducted that will help to further define the direction for continuing development of the cooperative Since the management of Chimsem has no experience in the field of market research, volunteer assistance from the CNFA is crucial in helping management ensure the steady growth of the organization

"Agricultural Business Development is very difficult in Moldova. Since 2001, more than one million Moldovan peasants have become landowners. The euphoria of becoming masters of their own destiny has quickly worn thin in the face of operating with a formally state-controlled supply system that is in shambles, a cash-poor rural economy, and a lack of agronomic training," said Myers.

Having an extensive background in agricultural marketing and a strong understanding vegetable production and cooperative management, Myers has been assigned various responsibilities which include conducting a local market study, preparing a marketing strategy and plan for Chimsem, identify potential to increase area of operations, and identify new services that the cooperative can offer to new members.

Horse Clubs Earn 'Equine Rewards' From Agway

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Local horse clubs and organizations are always looking for ways to raise money for equipment and supplies. For the past two years, Agway Bagged Feeds has helped these clubs with fundraising through its Equine Rewards program. The clubs earn money for every proof-of-purchase redeemed from Agway and Triple Crown equine bagged feeds.

More than 80 horse clubs in the Northeast are participating in Equine Rewards. They enlist the help of club and family members, the community, and their local Agway dealers in collecting proofs-of-purchase from the Agway and Triple Crown bags.

Here's how the program works: a club or organization signs up with Agway Bagged Feeds and sets up an Equine Rewards account. The club then sends in its proofs-of-purchase to Agway Bagged Feeds, which are recorded in its Equine Rewards account. There's no limit to the number of proofs-of-purchase that can be redeemed. When the organization wants to use its funds, it sends its request to Agway, which promptly forwards a check.

Each proof-of-purchase, found on the backs of bags, is worth 25 or 35 cents. For pelleted feed purchased in bulk tons, the credits range from $7 to $10.

Agway Bagged Feeds started this program because so many of its Agway dealers are actively involved in local horse clubs and organizations "These local clubs instill in kids a love of horses and an appreciation for the work that is involved in caring for them," said Paul S Mikosky, Agway Bagged Feeds manager of sales and dealer relations "Agway's Equine Rewards program is a way to help these clubs flourish"

Yetter Offers New Coulter and Residue Manager Combination

COLCHESTER, Ill. — The all-new 2967 Series Cut-n-Move™ Coulter and Residue Manager combination is designed for applications where a leading coulter is needed. Unlike conventional Coulter and Residue Manager Combinations, the Cut-n-Move™ combination sandwiches the coulter between the Residue Manager wheels.

Residue is first cut by the leading coulter and then moved out from in front of the planter row unit by the Residue Manager. The workload of the Residue Manager wheels is greatly reduced in this arrangement

Mounted to the faceplate of the planter unit by a common mounting bracket, both the Coulter and Residue Manager can be adjusted for depth of operation independent of each other. This feature permits the coulter and Residue Manager to be operated as a combination or as a single operation by simply removing either the coulter or Residue Manager. It is a known fact that coulter tillage ahead of seed placement increases yield potential through improved emergence.

Cattleman's Calculator Offers Hand-Held Computer Software

DENVER, Colo. — Cattleman's Calculator, Inc., announced the introduction of a new version of its successful and industry accepted Bison Producer's Calculator© livestock cost projection software in use for 3 years that can now be used on hand-held computing devices (PDA's).

In effect, this new software program creates a new cost management tool for the bison industry: a pocket computer that enables bison ranchers and bankers to make off-site cost calculations (at a feedlot, auction, bank, etc.) about livestock operations and integrate these cost projections with their ranch- and bank-based computer and financial records for improved cost control and management.

Winkel Mfg. Offers Big Square Bale Feeders

GLEN ELDER, Kan. — Winkel Mfg. offers big square bale feeders in 5-foot, 6-foot, and 10-foot lengths. The features include heavy-duty steel metal 26-inch high base; 1¼-inch square tube base frame with 14-gauge steel; 1¼-inch round tube arches with 14-gauge steel; and a 26-inch high, 16-gauge sheet metal base.

Drop in pin connectors allow easy moving or open wide for wrapping around the bale, while securing the sides. Corner chains keep the feeder from being pushed out of square.

Winkel Bale Feeder

Feed openings are optional 12-inch or 17-inch. On 10-foot lengths, an inner strap for side strength has been added. This is the big square bale feeder for cattle, horses, buffalo or exotic livestock

Farmers Union Recognizes Rep. Sherwood For Dairy Leadership

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union (NFU) presented its Presidential Award for Leadership to Rep. Don Sherwood, R-Pa., during its annual legislative fly-in, Sept. 7-10.

The NFU Presidential Award for Leadership is presented to select members of Congress in recognition of leadership on issues important to rural America. The family farm organization recognized Sherwood for his efforts to stop the flood of imported milk protein concentrate and casein which is further depressing domestic dairy prices.

"Representative Sherwood has shown great leadership to address the challenges facing rural communities," said Pennsylvania Farmers Union President Larry Breech. "Farmers Union commends him for his outstanding work on dairy issues. He has been an outspoken advocate, going the extra mile to get the job done."

Breech presented Sherwood with the award during NFU's annual legislative fly-in. During the fly-in, more than 200 farmers and ranchers from 29 states were in Washington advocating for mandatory country-of-origin food labeling, remedies for low dairy prices, and fairer trade agreements.

Time Is Money – Get More of Both!

Calculate how many loads of feed you mix per day Multiply that by the minutes it takes for each batch of feed That is how many hours of tractor, mixing and labor you are spending on feeding your cattle per day Consider this. An NDE mixer can mix a batch of feed 10-15 minutes faster than other mixers Calculate your feeding time again using the reduced time of the NDE Mixer What are you going to do with the time and money you save?

Prices Starting At $16,990

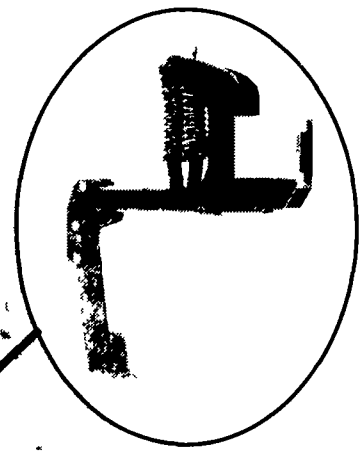
Make Your Ground More Productive With CASE IH DMI



The Case-DMI Ecolo-Til 2500 Breaks through the hardpan, unlike conventional tillage tools.

AND

Increases water absorption and air exchange for better nutrient flow up and down the soil profile and root system.

AND

AND

AND

Hoober offers Case-DMI Ecolo-Til 2500 Units from 3 to 9 Shanks

Hoober Uptime Service Saves You Time and Money!

- Save money by fixing small problems before they become big problems
- Eliminate costly downtime in the field
- Have the equipment you rely on fixed right by Hoober's experienced, factory-trained service technicians
- Hoober service technicians specialize in their area of expertise
- Hoober service technicians use "Specialty tools" designed to save time

Handles your biggest spreading jobs

The New Holland Model 195 box spreader is up to your biggest spreading jobs

- Capacity. The "195" takes on 410 bushels (440 cu ft) without flinching
- Strong construction. Corrosion-resistant steels last and last. And an HDPE floor means smooth unloading, even in cold weather
- Bonded Protection warranty. If the polyethylene floor fails or the sides rust, you'll get new ones FREE for 12 years
- Fast clean out... even with this big-capacity strong box
- Large tandem oscillating wheels... allow faster ground speeds in rough terrain, with less ground compaction

UNLOCK POTENTIAL
MINERALS VITAMINS

FEATURING
Dairy TECHNOLOGIES

Small Package can make a BIG IMPACT.

Proper balance and availability of minerals and vitamins can unlock your herd's potential.

Some of the best things in life come in small packages, and this holds true when it comes to vitamin and mineral fortification in the dairy cow's diet. Although vitamins and minerals only comprise a small amount of the daily dietary intake, the proper balance and bioavailability of these nutrients are the KEYS to unlocking your herd's reproductive efficiency, milk production, and herd health potential.

Essential minerals and vitamins cannot be synthesized in the animal's body and must be incorporated into the ration and/or made available as a free-choice supplement. Several variables, including dry matter intake fluctuation, feedstuff quality variations, mycotoxins, environmental stress, and water quality issues, can have significant effects on mineral interaction and availability, often triggering mineral imbalances.

The NEW Dairy Solutions® Dairy Mineral System from ADM Alliance Nutrition can meet your specific herd needs through a diverse portfolio of mineral products formulated to compliment any forage and commodity base. By providing the most bioavailable sources of minerals and vitamins, in the proper balance, these scientific formulas can enhance dairy herd performance while providing diets conforming to new environmental regulations.

Consult with your local ADM Alliance Nutrition dealer or representative to obtain more information on how the Dairy Solutions Dairy Mineral System can work to unlock your herd's potential!

Maple Producers: Farmers Of A Different Variety

SANDRA LEPLEY
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BOYNTON (Somerset Co.) — Maple syrup producers in Somerset County are farmers of a different variety, but their concern for their crop is no different than any other operation.

"The maple producers are dealing with several management issues, including the succession of their businesses and homesteads and the succession of their forests," said Michael Wolf, a Cambria County extension agent and forester who served as a guest speaker at a recent workshop. "These people are all interested in improving the health and growth of their woodlots, and

Chris and Susan Maust of Boynton in Somerset County have been in the maple producing business for the past several years. Here, they show Michael Wolf, a cooperative extension agent from Cambria County, how tubing saves time and energy in the collection of sugar water.

Growing Trees A Tough Job

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD VALLEY (Bedford Co.) — Sam Bussard and Delores Foor of Christmas Tree Lane find growing trees, both Christmas and apple, challenging — but a challenge they love.

Learning the Christmas trade from his father, Sam Bussard has been raising Christmas trees since the early 1950s and he finds being successful takes experience and a lot of hard work.

With at least 58 acres in fir, spruces, and pines, Bussard markets his trees wherever he can and finds word of mouth is the best tool for advertising.

"Lots of people go into business retailing Christmas trees," he said. "But only a few last. You have to hope you find the latter."

You are at the mercy of Mother Nature. "Years of drought caused us to lose a lot of trees. This year, with more then ample rain, we thought everything was going smoothly, when the hurricane hit. We lost trees and had to go out and stake them back up." A constantly growing deer population caused a big expense with the installation of fencing.

"Christmas trees need trimmed during the hottest months of the year," Bussard said. "We fight bugs and humidi-

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — At a recent meeting of the Southeast Christmas Tree Growers, a new pest infestation was brought to light in Pennsylvania: the Douglas fir needle midge.

More than 50 tree growers gathered at the Berks County Ag Center, Leesport, for the meeting.

Rayanne Lehman, entomologist for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA), spoke about this latest pest, what PDA is doing to help growers, and what to look for to identify it in comparison to other pests.

Douglas fir needle midge was confirmed in Pennsylvania in 2002. After its initial detection in Lehigh and Northumberland Counties, PDA began a monitoring program in 2003. This year, PDA has detected the needle midge in Berks, Bucks, Chester, Dauphin, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Schuylkill, and York counties. Other states that have confirmed needle midge include New York, New Jersey, and Michigan.

As for its arrival in Pennsylva-

The local maple production program was conducted at the Chris and Susan Maust Farm near Boynton. The Mausts, along with their teen-age daughter Rebecca, have been in the maple production business for several years now. What started out as a hobby has turned into a busier operation.

"I love to tell people about maple production and show them how it's done," said Chris, an eighth generation farmer on the Maust farm. His ancestor Jacob deeded the property in 1789 but was on that site as early as 1757. Although Chris' grandfather M. Reiman died before his birth, Chris has followed in his footsteps in the maple production business and his father, the late Robert, a retired school teacher who passed away last year, also helped out frequently.

"It's not a hobby anymore, it's a family business," said Chris. He plans to have 2,000 taps on his maple trees this coming season starting in about late January and lasting until March.

Maust used to use buckets to carry the sugar water to the tanks but he has since installed plastic tubing to save time and energy.

The tubing simply collects the maple sugar water from thousands of trees and deposits it into a storage tank, which is emptied into a larger one at the sugar camp, and then a modern evaporator takes the hours of manual stirring and boiling out of the once laborious process.

"Maple farmers are concerned about their properties and want to see their heritage thriving in future generations. They have questions and a workshop like this helps them get some of those questions answered," said Lynette Ely, a spokesperson for the Somerset County Maple Producers. "This is a remarkable program for local producers."

According to Ely, there are about 30 regular members of the Somerset County Maple Producers, but there are several unrecorded maple farmers throughout the county and in the Amish communities. The total amount could be upward of 100 in Somerset County.

"Workshops like these are so essential," said Ely, "because maple producers have questions about their operations."

In addition to Wolf, Miguel Saviroff, a Somerset County extension agent, spoke during the morning session concerning estate planning for the maple producer and succession planning for their businesses.

Then, Wolf guided the maple producers to the Maust's woodlot, also described in the industry as the sugarbush, to discuss sugarbush management.

"You are probably not growing maple trees for timbering but if managed correctly, you can increase maple production by doing some thinning," said Wolf.

He advised removing any trees that are competitors, and dead, dying, diseased, defective or potential future problems. He showed the participants that a subordinate tree that might be much smaller in diameter can actually be the same age as a dominant tree that is much larger in diameter. By removing some of the smaller, more subordinate trees, the dominant ones have more room to develop, which can lead to higher maple production.

A series of thinnings can increase the growth rate of trees by 20 to 40 percent in the next 10 years, he explained.

"I'm not advocating that you go and chop down your trees, but it doesn't hurt to start somewhere. Start small but start now, and then every single year, make it your priority to have a thinning project," he said.

In managing the sugarbush, maple producers should seek to make the crown, or upper branches, wider and deeper so more limbs can grow. There should be at least 10 feet of space for the crown to expand on both sides.

"You chose which trees stay and which trees go, and by doing that, you have more benefit within your harvest area because you are letting more sunlight to the crown," said Wolf.

Wolf noted that crop trees should be evenly spaced throughout the stand of trees. There should be 80 to 120 trees per acre in a mature stand. Ideally, there should be one crop tree every 20 feet throughout the stand of timber.

Growing Trees A Tough Job

ty but if you want a successful crop, it has to be done."

Wholesalers all want their trees by Thanksgiving weekend. "This mean the week before Thanksgiving, rain, snow, sleet, or shine, we will be cutting and delivering trees."

Life constantly repeats the lesson of "Don't count your chickens." Bussard has had deals fall through at the last minute or checks that bounced. He remembers one year when he delivered a truckload of trees to a wholesaler in Indiana. Unfortunately, it was raining and freezing. The trees froze and the wholesaler could not them thawed. Consequently, a dispute ensued.

"It's all part of the business," said Bussard. The Bussard picturesque farm with its reflecting pond surrounded by tall hills invites those who enjoy the nostalgia of cutting their own trees to do so. Sam and Delores also sell trees from the front porch of their log home.

Another 15 acres of the Bussard farm is planted in apple trees, a business which blends nicely with Christmas trees.

"We grow York, Golden delicious, Fugi, Gala, and Northern spice," Bussard said. "We sell them locally, and Delores and I used to boil caldrons of apple butter and cider in a copper kettle. Then, we found an Amish family who was willing to do the boiling for us. We sell the butter and cider through local specialty shops or from the farm."

The apple butter is so sweet, only a small portion of it needs sugar. Much of it consists only of the sweetest apples Bedford County has to offer plus an assortment of spices.

"Marketing apples is more difficult then trees," Bussard said. "I've contacted all of the local grocery chains, only to be told I have to have at least $1 million worth of insurance just in case someone gets sick."

"Is it any wonder apples get a bad rap? By the time they ship them from the West Coast to the East, they have lost their taste. Most young people today don't even know what apples really taste like."

While all the work of the trees would keep most people busy full time, Sam says it is only a hobby. "I'm a truck driver by trade," he said.

He gives tremendous credit to Delores. "Without her, I could never have the trees," Sam said. "She keeps us all fed, clean, and does her share wherever she can."

Penn State Adopts Landscape IPM Policy

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Penn State is taking strides to ensure practices used to manage landscape pests around campus pose minimal hazard to people, property and the environment.

The Office of Physical Plant's (OPP) landscape department will utilize IPM to manage landscape pests and the pesticides used for their control. The IPM strategy is part of the campus environmental stewardship program.

According to Ron Eckenroth, supervisor in grounds and maintenance in OPP, many IPM practices have been used around the campus for years. "Before, we would assess a problem and sometimes use IPM tactics as appropriate. Now, we'll have a formal policy in place with specific guidelines to follow."

New Threat To Douglas Fir

This midge was previously detected in Juniata County in 1995 on Douglas fir trees from Oregon. After the first detection, follow up investigations showed no new infections.

Lehman stressed that the Douglas fir needle midge "is restricted to the Douglas fir. It is not going to affect any of the other fir trees. It is not going to affect any of the pine. It is not going to affect any of the spruces."

This midge is a small fly whose larvae live in the Douglas fir tree needle and feed on the plant material. When there is an infestation in a tree, needles will have a gall (bulge), needles will have discoloration, or, if in the fall, small holes will be left from where the larvae have emerged from the needle.

So far this year, Lehman noted that the infestation has been light to moderate and that PDA is "not seeing entire trees that are defoliated" and that it is "not going to lead to the decline of Douglas fir production in the state."

She also said, the midge is "not going to kill the tree or cause a problem in a home. It is going to make the tree unsellable," in regards to Christmas tree sales.

Noting that the midge is an "aesthetic problem," Lehman said that needle loss and needle breakage "make a ratty looking tree."

The cycle of this midge begins with its larvae wintering in the soil under infested trees. In the spring, it will emerge and the adults will deposit eggs on the emerging buds and elongating needles. The larvae hatch and chew into the needle; needles will form a gall around the larvae. In the late summer, larvae will emerge from the underside of the needle and drop back into the soil.

A challenge with this pest is misdiagnosis by growers. Two diseases that Douglas fir needle midge can be mistaken for is Rhabdocline needle cast in the late winter and early spring, and needle bends might be misdiagnosed as damage from Cooley adelgid.

To complicate diagnosis, this needle midge and either Rhabdocline or adelgid can occur at the same time.

In addition to misdiagnosis, the other challenge is a tree producer could have an infestation and not realize that it is needle midge because of its newness to Pennsylvania.

Lehman stresses this is a good time for growers to be evaluating their trees for signs of infestation. "The gall is most noticeable" and if found, growers should begin to make plans for spring trapping before bud break.

"When you get a new pest into an area," said Lehman, "for some reason the pest moves, but its bio-control agents don't move as easily. It will be awhile before the bio-control agents catch up."

If producers think they have needle midge or need assistance in diagnosis, Lehman encouraged producers to contact their local PDA plant inspector or Penn State extension office.

Taking Off The Top Bad For Trees

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Getting a bad haircut is just a temporary condition in which the hair grows back none the worse for wear. But removing the entire canopy of a tree — a practice called "topping" — has much more lasting and sometimes fatal consequences, warns an arborist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Topping trees is not pruning," explained Bill Elmendorf, assistant professor of urban and community forestry in the School of Forest Resources. "It is indiscriminate, drastic cutting and a reduction in the tree's energy-producing factory — the canopy."

Elmendorf said cutting the central trunk and tops of main branches severely weakens a tree by removing both leaves and stored carbohydrates. Topping reduces a tree's ability to generate food and energy by photosynthesis.

"Topping is really the ultimate in tree abuse," Elmendorf said "It's usually done by unqualified and unknowledgeable tree cutters. In some cases, qualified arborists top trees at the insistence of homeowners who don't understand the damage they are paying to have done to their tree."

10 Real-Life Lessons In 'What Went Wrong' With Pesticide Use

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Former extension agent and now private consultant Eric Vorodi would probably tell you that experience is the best teacher.

And what experience in dealing with pesticides has told him is this: "Know everything there is to know about pests before you begin to willy-nilly spread pesticides around," he said.

Vorodi, Boiling Springs, who served as a Dauphin County horticulture agent, spoke literally about "What Went Wrong" in dealing with pesticides in mid-November this year at the Power Expo 2003.

Vorodi provided 10 examples of what happened to crops — and people — when they handled or applied pesticides the wrong way.

"All 10 are real, true-life stories that happened to me or were related to me by someone I know," said the former Penn State extension agent.

The first story involved a nurseryman who was trying to control an infestation of Fletcher Scale on arborvitae. The coverage area was about three acres, and he selected the insecticide, Dursban, making three applications per year for three years

Unfortunately, the material was ineffective What happened? The agents looked at several factors, including pest identification (it was correct), the sprayer and application and label rate (all correct), spray row distances, and other parameters. They all checked OK. The problem? Proper timing — the lifecycle of the crawlers after egg hatch has to be timed early enough, early to mid-July, to get the most control. The grower readjusted the timing and had complete control with the first application.

The second story involves grape and tomato plants that were apparently injured by some sort of herbicide. The grower thought a landscape applicator was unaware of spray drift of 2,4-D. The 2,4-D formulation is effective on broadleaf plants, which is correct.

Without jumping to conclusions about the landscape applicator, a local farmer was interviewed, who kept records that indicated a corn planting included weed spray — all documented. The farmer used 2,4-D and Banvil for several days — days favorable for drift.

The third story involved previously large, vigorous hostas growing under ideal conditions in a landscape. They came up in the spring, however, showing stunting and distortion, and eventually died.

What happened? Evidently a landscape applicator spot-treated weeds with a backpack sprayer, with a large orifice nozzle, low pressure, and no drift, spraying Roundup.

"It is possible, even under ideal conditions, for herbicide drift to occur," said Vorodi. "Drift is occurring much more frequently that you think it is - virtually all the time."

Vorodi said that using Roundup in close proximity to sensitive plants is "not recommended." He told growers to eliminate drift by using a shield, set the spray to low pressure, or use a safer alternative, such as a non-selective burndown herbicide.

The fourth story involved a university plot that was using leaf compost on vegetable beds. Phytotoxicity ended up killing the transplants. But from what? It was found that several herbicides were used for grass weed control and the grass clippings got entangled with the leaf mulch. Even a small amount of the herbicide proved toxic in the compost. Even a tiny bit of material, noted Vorodi, is enough to cause damage to plants.

In the fifth story, a farmer was selecting a preemergent herbicide on tomato fields. He planted 900 plants. But instead of putting the label rate for one-quarter of an acre, he misread the application and put four times the amount on - enough for one acre. The transplants couldn't tolerate the dosage - the farmer had to replant 900 tomatoes. "Measure twice, cut once!" noted Vorodi.

In the sixth story, a small-scale vegetable grower noticed acres of pumpkins with an infestation of squash bugs. The grower found a jug of what he thought was insecticide and applied it. Trouble was, the jug didn't contain an insecticide, but an herbicide, 2,4-D. The pumpkin crop and several landscape plants were killed.

"Never use the container if you are not 100 percent sure of the contents," Vorodi said. He said to make sure and label the product and the date of purchase.

In the seventh story, a farmer picked up a small amount of pesticide and wanted to use an alternative container. He chose a coke soda bottle. Tragically, his 7-year-old daughter took the bottle, drank it, and died. The lesson: NEVER store a pesticide in any other container other than the one it was manufactured in. Make sure it is clearly labeled, and kept away from children.

"Never place pesticides in unlabeled containers," Vorodi said. "It is dangerous and irresponsible."

Vorodi said that in the year 2000, there were 73,000 pesticide poisonings in the U.S., according to the Environmental Protection Agency. About 23,000 visit the emergency rooms and about 20 people die.

"Never leave children unattended with access to pesticides," he said.

In the eighth story, a grape grower noted the telltale signs of herbicide damage to his crops. It was caused by a 2,4-D ester, used to kill weeds in cooler conditions. A neighbor farmer caused the injury — and luckily they were able to settle without going to court. "The lesson — drift occurs more often than you think," Vorodi said. The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture labels this "pesticide trespass."

If it is too hot, humid, or windy? Vorodi suggests using the most appropriate pesticide and drift reduction strategies. And if you are at fault, admit it - an investigator will find out what happened anyway.

In the ninth story, a grower found his pickup truck was infused with the repugnant aroma of Diazinon, a popular pesticide. An investigation proved that he went to get a "couple of ounces" of the material from another grower, and he put those ounces in an empty aspirin bottle.

Needless to say, about two ounces of material fell out of the bottle into the seat foam, and is now a "permanent air freshener" in the truck. The lesson - never use a container other than the original for the pesticide.

In the final story, another one involving risks to human health, a very experienced pesticide applicator had to spend some time in the hospital. Why? He was spraying a combination of Crossbow and 2,4-D, and wore the full bodyguard material, including full TyvekR suit, chemical-resistant gloves, goggles, and respirator. But it was a hot day, so, when spraying for a time, he took off the goggles and respirator, exposing just a little portion of his face.

Trouble is, he was reaching up to spray overhead sometimes. He didn't think anything of it, until he came home to dinner and, as he ate, his eyes began swelling up. He tried to go to bed, but couldn't, because his eyes were swelling up so bad they began to close.

The grower went to the hospital, instead, where he was placed on steroids and released.

What happened? The doctor told him that, after all that time working with pesticides, even a small dose was enough to set up an allergic reaction. That allergic reaction caused the terrific swelling and could have been life threatening.

The lesson: always follow protective label cautions and warnings. Don't take risks with safety equipment.

With Vorodi's 12 years in extension office, he has learned that the "label is the law," and to be cautious when using pesticides.

Using Pickup Commercially? You Could Be Subject To Inspection

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) Pickup trucks can be subject to state roadside inspections, especially if those trucks are being used commercially in any form, according to Dan Smyser, chief, Motor Carrier Division, PennDOT.

Smyser, along with a Pennsylvania State Police trooper, provided a truck/trailer inspection demonstration during the Power Expo 2003 conducted at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

About 100 spectators came to see exactly what the police will be looking for when inspecting trucks with a manufacturer gross vehicle weight rating of 17,600 pounds or more, for in-state. Out of state, or interstate, commerce would mean a rating in excess of 10,000 pounds per truck.

According to Smyser, perhaps 99 out of 100 times, if you are in a pickup truck, you probably will simply get waved through. But if you haul for others or carry hazardous material, you may be inspected.

About 160,000-180,000 trucks use Pennsylvania highways. The state did about 181,000 inspections last year, according to the motor carrier chief.

To pass inspection, follow these tips:

- Make sure you have a driver's license with the correct classification.
- Have a medical examiner's certificate ready.
- Carry documentation about what you are hauling, particularly if you are getting paid to haul it.
- If you use the truck for personal business, "prove that to us — be honest," said Brian Livingston, state trooper.

"It's all communications, folks," said Smyser of PennDOT. "Tell us what's going on. If it makes sense, we'll believe you. If it doesn't make sense, we're going to ask you some questions."

What a state trooper will look for at the "rest site" weigh station will include:

- PUC registration.
- Tires and brake check.
- Exhaust check.
- Lights check.
- Material secured.
- Fire extinguisher accessible, charged, and secured with proper strap.
- Approved gas storage containers properly secured.

The best way to know what to expect is to get a copy of the federal regulations. They can be ordered from the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration on the Website, www.fmcsa.dot.gov and can be downloaded to printer paper.

Bill Wells, Watercrest Farms Nursery, West Grove, and chairman of the Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery Association, sponsors of Power Expo 2003, noted this was the first Power Expo at Farm Show.

The next Penn Allied Nursery Trade Show (PANTS) is scheduled July 27-29, 2004 at the Fort Washington Expo Center in Fort Washington.

Power Expo 2004 will be conducted Nov. 10-11 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Epidemic Effects Landscape Trees

Vincent Controne
Extension Forester

There is an epidemic spreading throughout the state and country that is slowly killing trees and shrubs in our landscapes. No, it isn't another disease or insect we accidentally imported from another country, such as the Asian Longhorned Beetle that is killing trees in New York City and Chicago or Dutch Elm Disease, which changed our landscapes in the 1960s and '70s. And unlike some of these imported pests, this epidemic can be prevented very easily.

This epidemic is caused by misapplication of mulch around our trees and shrubs. We are over-mulching our trees and shrubs to death. Mulching is a terrific way to add organic matter and nutrients, conserve soil moisture, and prevent lawn mowers from injuring trees and shrubs, but it is just being put on way too thick and piled too high on trunks and stems.

When mulches are put on too thick and piled against the stems of trees and shrubs, they begin to suffocate roots and create a moist environment in which opportunistic decay fungi such as Phytophora, Armillaria, and Leptographium attack the trunk and roots, causing root rots, a decline in plant health, crown dieback, and tree failures. Besides causing the roots and stems to rot, over-mulching prevents the movement of oxygen and carbon dioxide in and out of stems; leads to rodent chewing and stem girdling, nutrient deficiencies, and the production of toxic organic acids; and often causes roots to grow up into thick mulch, only to dry out in hot summers, or form girdling roots that encircle the trunk.

It seems to be fashionable these days for landscapers and homeowners to create these mountainous mulch "volcanoes" at the base of trees. Unfortunately this continues because there is a lack of knowledge about how trees really grow and the harm caused by this practice.

A quick walk in the woods will illustrate how trees have a natural flare where their trunks meet the soil (visible even on young trees). It is important that we not cover that flare with soil or mulch. Spread the mulch out in a layer that is no thicker than 3-4 inches, and don't pile it up on the trunks of trees and stems of shrubs.

Mulching your trees and shrubs can improve soils and grow healthy plants, but too much of a good thing can be harmful.

'Sweet Trees' From Genetic Improvement

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — The hot topic of genetic improvement programs is no new thing to the maple syrup industry.

"In the 1940s and 1950s, sugar maple researchers at the U.S. Forest Service Philadelphia Research Center began to understand that sugar content was a genetic factor and began testing many species of sugar maples across the country to learn more about breeding a 'sweet tree'," said Colin Campbell, director of the Cornell-Uihlein Sugar Maple Research/Extension Field Station near Lake Placid, N.Y.

Then, in the 1960s, under the direction of Dr. William Gabriel, "sweet tree" research continued with the testing of more than 21,000 trees in the northeast U.S. for sugar content.

"Fifty-three trees were selected as suitable parents and these were cloned as rooted cuttings and placed in an isolated orchard," said Campbell. In the last 10 years, additional parents have been located, cloned, and planted in the Cornell-Uihlein Sugar Maple Field Station's clonal orchards.

As part of Campbell's research and extension program, the field station near Lake Placid provides local maple producers the opportunity to receive up to 20 genetically improved sugar maple trees annually. This year, with the help of Penn State Cooperative Extension, three local growers were able to receive "sweet trees."

The growers were Eric Arnold from Rockwood, Romauld Caroff from Windber, and Gergory Gerhard from Rockwood. In order to participate in the program, each grower had to get on a waiting list, agree to allow access to the trees for testing, document the growth of each tree annually, and pay the field station $5 per tree to cover costs.

Because of the improved genetic potential of the trees, the survival rate is about 90 percent or higher. The new trees, planted this year, should be ready to tap for sap and syrup production in about 25 years.

To learn more about the Sugar Maple Tree Improvement Program, go to the Website, http://maple.dnr.cornell.edu/tree_impr/index.asp, or you can call Penn State Cooperative Extension in Cambria County at (814) 472-7986

Penn State Offers Program For Turfgrass, Ag Equipment Techs

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A program offered by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences will help meet the needs of the turfgrass and agricultural equipment industry for highly qualified service technicians.

The Turfgrass and Agricultural Equipment (TAE) Service Technician Certificate program will train technicians to meet the needs of this service area.

Developed with input from industry representatives serving on an advisory council, this two-year certificate program is offered at the University Park campus through a two-year sequence of four eight-week sessions.

"Offering the TAE program in four eight-week sessions each year allows individuals to work in the turfgrass and agricultural equipment industry when not at school," said James Hilton, associate professor of agricultural engineering and program director. "Sessions will be offered back-to-back with the fall session running from mid-October 2003 through late December 2003, and the spring session running from mid-January 2004 through early March 2004."

The first-year curriculum includes mathematics for turfgrass and agricultural service technicians, hydraulic applications, engine technology, electrical systems, computer basics and applications, safe equipment transport and shop practice, communications and public relations, power transmission applications, turfgrass and agricultural equipment, and business concepts.

Subjects covered during the second year include electronic applications, electro-hydraulics and hydrostatics, agronomy or turfgrass principles, machinery management for turfgrass, written communications and agriculture business applications, inventory management, agricultural equipment operation, shop management, turfgrass and agricultural equipment operation, irrigation systems and water management, power units, traction and weight transfer and diagnostics, repair and maintenance.

Widmann Guernsey Top Lifetime Producer

HUDSON, Wis. — A Guernsey cow bred and owned by Millie Widmann of Kirkwood was recognized as top lifetime milk producer at the recent American Guernsey Association (AGA) conference in Hudson Wis.

The cow, Lindenhof Agni Beatrice, was born in August 1988, and is a Merit Fortune Agni daughter. Beatrice has a lifetime total of 250,351 pounds of milk, 10,496 pounds of butterfat, and 8,402 pounds of protein. Beatrice's totals were also good enough to land her in third place for lifetime butterfat production and second place for lifetime protein.

In all, Beatrice calved 11 times before her 14th birthday and each lactation totaled at least 15,000 pounds of milk with seven of the lactations over 20,000 pounds of milk.

The AGA living lifetime production awards recognize the leading lifetime producers of the Guernsey breed based on official production credits verified by the AGA.To be considered for living lifetime production awards, the animal must have been living and on official test for at least one month during the 2002 calendar year.

DEP Brings Together Watershed Partners, State And Federal Agencies

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Deputy Secretary for Water Management Cathy Curran Myers today announced that the department convened a new steering committee of watershed partners and state and federal agencies to oversee the state's efforts to reduce nutrient and sediment loadings to the Chesapeake Bay.

"Pennsylvania is committed to doing its part to restore the Chesapeake Bay," Deputy Secretary Myers said. "More than one-half of the Bay's fresh water flows from the Susquehanna River. "By reducing the nutrients and sediments that flow into our local streams, we will provide even greater benefits to the crabs and oysters in the Chesapeake Bay and the region that enjoys the Bay's bounty. Ultimately, this will benefit our Commonwealth as well. We will extend habitat for the American shad to return to the headwaters of the Susquehanna River, restoring this great fishery to Pennsylvania."

Pennsylvania has embraced the Chesapeake Bay Program for 20 years and has made great strides toward reaching water quality and living resource goals. With the signing of the Chesapeake 2000 Agreement, Pennsylvania committed to removing the Chesapeake Bay from the federal Clean Water Act's list of impaired waters by 2010.

Partners to this commitment include all the jurisdictions in the Chesapeake watershed — Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New York, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia. The agreement describes an ambitious process for achieving the task, the cornerstone of which is completion of basin-specific nutrient and sediment reduction tributary strategies by April 2004.

Thirteen Watershed Teams within Pennsylvania's Chesapeake basin will develop the components of the Chesapeake Bay Tributary Strategy. DEP organized the Watershed Teams to facilitate local watershed management planning efforts.

The teams, with help from local governments and citizens, will develop Tributary Strategies from the "bottom up." The strategies will identify Best Management Practices (BMPs) to address nonpoint source nutrient and sediment loadings and the most cost-effective approach to reduce point source nutrient loadings from wastewater treatment plants and industrial waste dischargers.

The Chesapeake Bay Tributary Strategy Steering Committee will support the Watershed Teams by identifying existing and needed resources to ensure implementation, and to assist with the tracking of actual nutrient and sediment reductions. In addition to numerous state and federal agencies, key watershed partners on the committee include the Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts.

Upswing In Soybean Prices Benefits Growers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio soybean growers who managed to weather the lashings Mother Nature gave their crop in the form of rain and diseases are reaping the benefits of record yields and high harvest prices.

Because of a national shortage of soybeans, due to a significant decline in production in western states such as Nebraska, Missouri and Iowa coupled with continued consumer and export demands harvest prices have rallied over the past three months from $5.50 a bushel to nearly $8.00 a bushel.

According to the National Agricultural Statistics Service, market year average price is projected between $6.05 and $6.95 per bushel, up from $5.53 in 2002. With such promising soybean prices, Ohio growers, who are seeing projected record yields of 42 bushels per acre, are poised for a stellar grand finale.

"It's really an interesting reversal from last year. There was a short crop in Ohio, while growing conditions were nearly perfect out West. So while prices did increase, Ohio was not in a position to take advantage of that because we did not have large yields," said Matt Roberts, an Ohio State University agricultural economist. "But this year, the advantage of being in Ohio is not only do we have high prices, but we have pretty good yields unlike the western part of the country. So those farmers who could get their crops established and didn't have disease issues are producing an incredible soybean product this year."

And the good news for growers who have not sold off their beans yet is that the prices may continue to rise.

"Clearly we have fewer beans this year. We have a much higher price because of that which is meant to discourage the consumption and export of beans. But we are not seeing demand slow down," said Roberts. "That indicates that prices still do have room to move upwards. At the rate we are consuming and exporting soybeans, we will run out of soybeans long before next year's harvest. All of this, of course, is what is creating the confusion and uncertainty with the markets."

On the flipside, the issue with corn production is much less exciting.

The weather conditions that devastated the soybean crop out West did little to impact the corn crop. And although Ohio corn growers may also see projected record yields of 145 bushels per acre, consistent national production and average prices are generating a balanced market.

"It looks like we will consume about as much corn as we produced," said Roberts. "Corn prices have not moved significantly over the past three or four months." Corn prices are sitting at $2.40 a bushel. Market year average price is projected between $1.90 and $2.30 per bushel compared to $2.32 for last year's crop.

Roberts said a few bright spots, however, exist with U.S. corn production.

"So far corn exports have been solid. And the other big news is that ethanol demand continues to accelerate," he said. "This year about 900 million bushels of corn or roughly 8 percent of the harvest will go into ethanol, and analysts think that projection is short by a few million bushels."

Ethanol demand may push corn average prices up by another 10 cents or 15 cents, said Roberts. And the question remains how the market will react as ethanol demand increases in the future.

"In two years, we may be looking at 1.2 billion bushels going into ethanol; in another four years, 1.5 billion to 2 billion bushels of corn," said Roberts. Such continued profitability for corn, even at $2.30 a bushel, is what continues to steer growers towards corn and away from soybeans.

"There's less global competition in corn, especially with South America continually expanding soybean production. Looking at the current projections, Brazil will produce 15 percent more soybeans this year than last year," said Roberts. "Maybe with the exception of China, no one has really expanded into corn production like that. For many American farmers, selling 200 bushels of corn at $2.20 a bushel sounds more attractive than selling 80 bushels of soybeans at $5 a bushel. That's where we are seeing U.S. crop production going."

OARDC Researchers Lead Fight Against Chicken Virus

WOOSTER, Ohio — In the world of poultry diseases, viruses aren't chicken. And among poultry viruses, not many are as problematic as the infectious bursal disease virus (IBDV), which has troubled egg and broiler operations in Ohio and the rest of the United States for decades and now threatens to hit the industry even harder.

"Infectious bursal disease virus is a major concern," said molecular biologist Daral Jackwood, a reseacher with the Food Animal Health Research Program (FAHRP) at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center (OARDC) in Wooster. "Layers are more susceptible to the virus than broilers, but they both get it."

The second-leading cause of viral disease in chickens, IBDV is an immuno-suppressive disease that attacks young birds, killing them or making them more susceptible to other infectious agents. Discovered in the Unites States in the late 1950s, the virus favors chickens younger than 7 weeks old, which have immature immune cells. IBDV replicates in and destroys those cells.

"This is a big economic problem," said Jackwood, who has 20 years of experience studying the virus. "Immuno-suppressed birds have more respiratory and enteric (intestinal) diseases, grow slowly, and do not respond to vaccinations for other diseases. Infected flocks have a higher mortality rate."

Jackwood's research focuses on the many new strains of the virus that have proliferated in the United States and pose the highest risk to the industry. He developed and patented two commercially available tests for quick detection of these variant viruses and is now conducting an epidemiology study to inventory IBDV strains present in the nation.

"The vaccines developed for classic IBDV don't protect chickens from these new strains, which mutate rapidly," Jackwood explained. "The technology we developed is allowing us to test numerous virus samples in order to identify different variants of the virus based on their genetic sequences. Our tests allow us to identify viruses very quickly, within about an hour after we start the reaction. Traditional test took two days."

The inventory will let the U.S. poultry industry know which viruses are most prevalent, where in the country they are present, and how dangerous they are. It will also provide vital information for the development of vaccines for use on a national or regional basis. Jackwood said companies are already considering some of the viruses he has found as possible vaccine candidates.

"Deciding whether or not to vaccinate is a question producers are wrestling with," he added. "Many of them don't bother (to vaccinate) because the old vaccines are not working for these new variants.

FAHRP's leadership in IBDV research has made it the only facility in the nation authorized by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to study an even more powerful version of the disease: the very virulent infectious bursal disease virus (vvIBDV). Reported first in Europe in 1989, this aggressive virus has not reached the United States — but it has made it as close as the Dominican Republic.

"We're concerned because this is a virus that can kill 7080 percent of a flock," said FAHRP chair Mo Saif, whose lab has received vvIBDV strains from Europe and Asia. "We analyzed these strains to see how they relate to classic and variant IBDV and developed a test to differentiate them from other viruses. So if we get hit with the disease, we are now in the position to come up with a diagnosis within 24 hours."

Business Incubator To Boost Southern Ohio's Economy

PIKETON, Ohio — Well over 100 business and academic professionals, residents, county leaders and commissioners and committee and organization members throughout southern Ohio gathered at Ohio State University's South Centers at Piketon on Oct. 31 to witness the groundbreaking of the Endeavor Center Business Incubator and Training Facility.

The 27,000 square foot building, scheduled to be up and running in 18 months, is designed to increase jobs and enhance the economic development of the region through assistance, education and training of entrepreneurs, small business owners, existing job employees and young people fresh out of school. The site will be made available to new and expanding businesses within Ross, Pike, Jackson, Scioto and adjacent counties.

When completed, the facility will offer 26 spaces differing in size and use for entrepreneurs. The training wing of the new building will also provide housing for Ohio State's Learning Center South, which currently provides programs for the community in a small computer lab and auditorium. The new and expanded learning center facility will include two classrooms, a computer laboratory and conference areas to accommodate meetings for various sized training classes.

Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration, the Ohio Governor's Office of Appalachia and U. S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development.

Local matching funds for the grants are being provided by Ohio State University Extension, Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Southern Ohio Diversification Initiative and Scioto County's Office of Economic Development.

Record Soybean Exports For Third Year In A Row

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — World demand for soybeans remains strong. U.S. soybean exports reached record levels for the third year in a row, thanks in part to U.S. soybean farmer investments in checkoff-funded international marketing activities.

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), the U.S. exported more than one billion bushels of soybeans this past marketing year. And in the current marketing year, the record-setting pace of U.S. soybean exports continues.

"International marketing programs funded by the soybean checkoff played a crucial role in increasing U.S. soybean exports," said United Soybean Board (USB) International Marketing Chair Criss Davis, a soybean farmer from Shullsburg, Wis. "The checkoff helped to develop an effective new strategic export plan to keep U.S. soybean exports growing despite dramatic increases in global soy production."

Factors such as global competition and decreased U.S. soybean planting projections for the next several years led soybean checkoff farmer-leaders to develop strategies to increase the value of U.S. soy exports and U.S. soybean farmer share of targeted export markets.

According to Davis, the growth of U.S. soybean sales to China demonstrates how the new export strategy has been effective. China, the largest customer for U.S. soybeans, imported more than 282 million bushels.

The European Union imported more than 209 million bushels of U.S. soybeans this past marketing year, making it the largest regional customer of U.S. soy.

Once again, Canada is the top customer of U.S. soybean meal, purchasing the equivalent of more than 48 million bushels. Mexico bought the most U.S. soybean oil, importing the equivalent of more than 36 million bushels of U.S. soybeans, a 48 percent increase over last year.

"We export close to half of our entire soybean crop, so these soybean checkoff-funded export activities remain vital to keeping me and other U.S. soybean farmers competitive," said Davis.

Metal Roofs aren't Created Equal

Everlast II is better:

- it is galvanized heavier, like old times
- it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
- is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
- won't scratch as easy, paint is harder
- won't bend or buckle as easily, stronger design
- laps are tighter, and virtually invisible
- nails/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head
- zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint
- still priced about the same or less
- picked up or deliver from Lebanon plant

Everlast II is excellent for houses and barns
Standing seam is ideal for houses.

What's against soft paint?

In metal roofing and siding some manufacturers use soft pliable paint to prevent cracks. The disadvantage with softer paint is that it scratches so easy Handling during erection, flying debris during storms, children playing against it, etc can easily scratch softer paint Scratches on softer paints tend to rust prematurely Everlast heat forms to prevent this Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important.

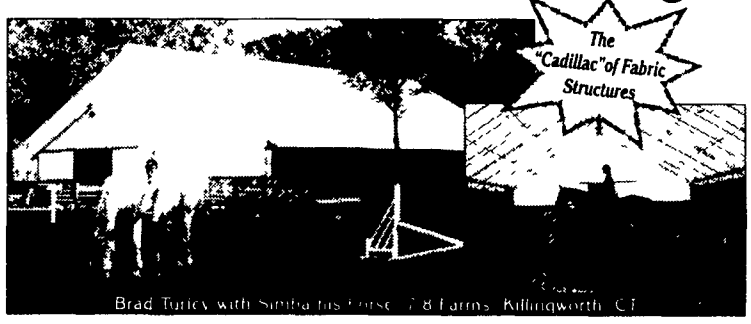
You must hear what Brad says:



Brad Turley with Simba his horse J & J Farms Killingworth CT

(And my neighbors are talking, too!)"

"I knew what I wanted and I found it! After extensive research I knew I needed a fabric structure from We Cover The facts that made my decision were

"The Engineering – when I saw their heavy built trusses
"The Lighting – I can ride my horse in the natural light
"The Design – The building is designed like a building should be
"The Ventilation – The side curtains excellent air movement

My local building engineer is so impressed he says he will never again recommend a traditional building for an indoor riding arena

"I recommend you call We Cover today!"

Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?

Consider a Mueller precooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

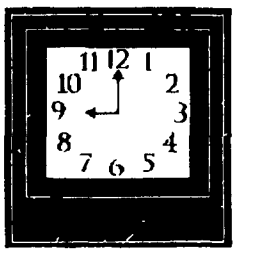
THE TIME IS RIGHT!
To Feed
SCHNUPP'S Flame KISSED



ROASTED GRAIN
Its time to lower those feed prices.
With extremely low grain prices and the modest price for roasting, your grain can be turned into a valuable feed commodity
Its time to trim away those extra cost factors.
Custom roasting on your farm
- Gives you the ability to feed your own grain, not someone else's
- Eliminates trucking expenses
- No mill charges, shrinkage, storage and handling
Its time to value feeding grains that have been purged.
Only flame roasting can effectively remove molds and reduce toxins to tolerant levels Better herd health will Reduce veterinary and breeding bills
Enhance production of milk
Increase weight gains in beef and swine

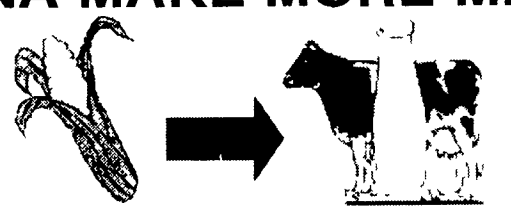
WANNA MAKE MORE MILK?



Switch to Mark Hershey Farms' NUTRIFINE™ GROUND SHELLED CORN!

1. Proven better nutritional utilization than competitors' processed corn products.
2. New customers have experienced average milk gains of 3 lbs. per cow, per day.
3. Feed consistent, dry corn year-round.
4. Prevent mycotoxins and storage loss by feeding dry corn over high-moisture corn.
5. We can show you how feeding our corn will save you $$$ in the long run.
6. Store your corn at our mill and pay no storage fees if we grind your corn.

Contact Eric at 717-821-3973 for more information.

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

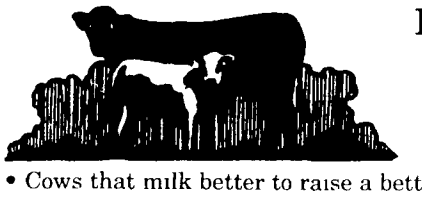
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

USA-GYPSUM
Improving soils - naturally!
21% calcium - 17% Sulfate
Gypsum is a soil conditioner, amendment & fertilizer
USAGypsum

Want better soil, deeper water infiltration and healthier root systems?
- pH neutral source of calcium 100% more soluble than lime
- Provides Sulfur in sulfate form - The form plant roots can absorb
- Loosens heavy clay & compacted soils - lets air & water penetrate
- Reduces erosion on slopes and soils with poor structure
- Reduces nutritional tie-up & makes NP&K more available
- Improves acid soils especially when co-used with lime
- Prepare soil for no-till Unlike lime, which must be incorporated into the soil and come in contact with soil acids to be released, gypsum supplies a constant supply of soluble calcium to the soil
- Improves fruit & produce quality & reduces some plant disease
